Cuba Charges Plot to Murder

RAUL CASTRO
. . . alleged victim

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government charged today that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay armed two men with a 30-calibre machine-gun to assassinate Raul Castro last month.

An official report claimed the two were to fire on Premier Fidel Castro's brother from a house adjoining a stand in Santiago where Raul was scheduled to speak July 26, the eighth anniversary of the Castro revolution.

Cuban Industries Minister Ernesto Guevara made a similar charge early this week in a speech before the Latin-American economic conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay. The report today gave what the government claimed to be details of the case.

Havana radio said today 150 persons had been arrested in the aftermath of the alleged plot.

The plot allegedly included a simulated attack against the Guantanamo base. This, the report said, would have given the United States an excuse to mount armed aggression against Cuba.

The report contended the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency master-minded the plot. Former Guantanamo Bay commander, Capt. C. E. Schenweiss, it said, was involved but was apparently relieved of command of the base due to disagreements with the CIA on planning.

The government report credited Cuban militiamen for having foiled the plans.

Hoodlums Attack Boy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-age gang butted cigarettes on the head, neck and arm of a five-year-old boy here Friday.

Richard Janes told police six youths grabbed him while he was walking across school grounds near his home in the late afternoon.

His mother, Mrs. Thelma Janes said the gang set upon the boy with no apparent reason.

The boy was not severely burned.

Mrs. Janes said teen-aged boys have been terrorizing the neighborhood in the residential South Vancouver district for months.

EXPLOSION EJECTED ENGINEERS

Driverless Train Thundered On

WELLS, England (AP) — A passenger train swayed along a country track with nobody at the controls today after two engineers had been hurled from the locomotive by a boiler explosion.

Only a few passengers were aboard the train as it puffed through the lovely Cheddar Valley in Somerset in early morning sunshine.

The sudden blast hurled both engineers from the cab and dumped them, badly injured, alongside the track. But the train trundled on, with no one aboard aware of what had happened.

A mile down the line the train rumbled through a station at which it was supposed to stop. A guard at the rear realized something was wrong and slammed on an emergency brake.

A rescue party found the two engineers and rushed them to a hospital where both were in critical condition.

'Only Clothes Left'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Fires continued their rampage through Newfoundland forests today as the province braced for another grim weekend.

There was a chance of scattered thundershowers, but not enough to stop the advancing flames.

"It's just terrible," said a weeping mother of three children who fled her fire-threatened home with only a bag of clothes and "hopeful prayer".

"All I have got is what I'm wearing," said a 52-year-old evacuee with a heart condition whose doctor told him not to fight the fire which was moving in on his home.

They were just two of several hundred Newfoundlanders driven from their homes Friday as the fires, worst in the province's history, raced through dry spruce and fir

Most of the women and children of four more remote fishing villages were crammed aboard schooners and trucks and taken out of reach of the flames. The men stayed behind to fight the fires.

As usual, reduced night winds and fog rolling in from the sea helped dampen some fires Friday night.

PHONES DISRUPTED

But there was no information on several others. Communications to the remote coastal communities broke down as the fires seared telephone lines.

The villages of New Chelsea, Winterton and Hants Harbor on Trinity Bay, 100 miles northeast of here, were evacuated by 600 women and children. Farther to the northeast, 150 women and children of the Bonavista Bay community of Aspen Cove were taken to safety by the transport department vessel Acadia.

Meanwhile, Resources Minister W. J. Keough of Newfoundland prepared an order to close the island's woods to all but emergency travel.

Mrs. Reginald Penney, who fled here when her Hants Harbor home was threatened, was weeping in her sister's home Friday night. She said she prayed that her home would be spared.

"We were all in bed when the sirens . . . began screaming all over the village. Church bells were ringing all over the place."

Gordon Ash of Hants Harbor, bothered by heart trouble, said he tried to fight the fires but "my heart gave out."

"I guess I'll lose her (his two-storey house) with everything left, furniture, clothes and everything."

MOTHER, BABY DIE IN B.C. MOTEL FIRE

HOPE (CP) — A young mother and her infant son died Friday night in a flaming auto court cabin.

Mrs. Martin Kester, 18, and seven-week-old Ernest were trapped after the flames were started by a leaking valve on a propane gas delivery truck.

The driver of the truck, Omar Devlin of Chilliwack, was burned when he attempted to shut the valve of the blazing connection after the flames broke out.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, Thou hast brought us to another day. Give us the resources we need to be adequate for it. We do not ask only that we may have the courage and the wisdom to live it well, to play our part, and to acquit ourselves as good soldiers. In our weakness give us strength, in our sorrow give us comfort, and in our decisions give us divine guidance. So may we come to the end of the day belonging to Thee; through Christ. Amen.

Summit Meeting Likely

BONN (Reuters)—East-West negotiations over Berlin appeared virtually certain today and there was a possibility of a new summit conference.

A summit meeting was predicted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday night as he told an election rally he was convinced there would be talks with Russia on Berlin.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a Kremlin reception Friday negotiations would take place because President Kennedy, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle were "sensible men," while in Washington State Secretary Dean Rusk told reporters: "I think we all understand that negotiations will occur."

Adenauer said a new summit conference would have to be carefully prepared — the last one, in Paris in June of last year, broke down over the U-2 spy plane incident even before it started.

'IN AGREEMENT'

The chancellor said West Germany and the United States are in "complete agreement in our assessment of the present situation and in our consideration of what steps will have to be taken in the next few weeks and months."

He said economic sanctions, which he termed "cheaper than even a limited war," might be used against Russia if necessary. More could be gained by economic sanctions than many people think, he said, although armaments should not be neglected.

At a Soviet-Romanian friendship meeting earlier in the day, Khrushchev openly staked Russian prestige on the German issue but declared Russia would not be the first to "press the button" and touch off a nuclear war.

Meanwhile, in Berlin, an upsurge in the flow of East German refugees fleeing to the West was expected this weekend despite Communist threats of harsher measures to stop the flood.

Despite rigorous Communist police controls, 1,332 refugees from East Germany registered in West Berlin in the 21 hours up to 1 p.m. today, Western officials reported.

In the same period last Saturday the number was 1,100; previous Saturday 925.

The total mounted after the Communist regime threatened harsher measures to stem the human tide.

Authorities in West Berlin ordered emergency quarters set up at the giant Olympic Stadium to handle the rush.

Many workers wait for their Friday pay before setting out for Berlin. They also consider it easier to slip away before their absence is noticed at their jobs on Monday.

Hundreds of Communist police were reported seen at railroad stations around the city today, hauling people off trains bound for Berlin.

CUSTOMS MEN SLOW TRAFFIC

PARIS (AP)—Traffic into and out of France slowed to an agonizing snail's pace in many places today as customs guards embarked on a four-day "zeal strike" to back up demands for more pay.

As practiced in France, a zeal strike means that the guards zealously observe all rules and regulations; subject incoming and outgoing luggage to minute inspection.

The customs guards picked this long weekend, extending over the Assumption Day holiday of Aug. 15 to Wednesday, when tourist traffic across the frontiers is particularly heavy.

RIDE BEHIND NEGROES BARS S.A. CYCLIST

CAPETOWN (AP)—One of South Africa's crack long-distance cyclists, Theunis Theart, 21, has been suspended for three months because he rode behind Negro cyclists in the Tour de Boland on Republican Day May 31.

Theart, who did not take part in the race but said he "joined in for practice," was summoned before the executive of the Western Province Amateur Athletic and Cycling Association Thursday night and was told he would not be allowed to compete in any cycling event for three months.

He told reporters he had hoped to race against an English team coming to South Africa in October and he had been riding 50 miles daily to get himself in peak form.

STARTS FOREST FIRE

4 Anglers Die In Air Crash

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — A single-engined United States plane crashed into sun-baked woods Friday, starting a forest fire that became a funeral pyre for its occupants. It is believed that four American sport fishermen were killed.

Late Friday night staff and guests from Red Fern Lodge on Tetachuk Lake, 50 miles south of here, were not able to approach the aircraft through the flames.

RCMP from the community, 140 miles west of Prince George, flew into the lake where they were to be joined today by a department of transport crew.

The plane left Ephrata, Wash., at 4 a.m. to take the fishermen to the posh fishing and hunting lodge on the lake in Tweedsmuir Provincial Park.

Ephrata sources said they believe the plane was piloted by Dr. Emile Etienne of Quincy, Wash., or his elder son. Dr. Leonard Macnamara and Larry Sheib, both of Soap Lake, Wash., were believed to be the other passengers.

The sources said Etienne had six children, and that a son who just finished medical school was believed on the plane. Sheib, a farmer, had 11 children and his wife was expecting another.

Witnesses at the lodge said the plane circled three times then crashed about a mile away.

"We got there within 10 minutes of the crash and the place was an inferno," said Allen Gaugh in a telephone interview. "We found no sign of life."

Guests and staff at the lodge had to fight the fire which could spread into a huge blaze. The whole district is plagued with forest fires.

The lodge is the only habitation on the lake. There are no roads.

THE UNDERWATER scene is definitely looking up as this picture testifies. Pretty Jacky Coulter, first girl to complete the YMCA skin-diving course, is a welcome addition to any beach even if she spends most of her time underwater, strapped into bulky SCUBA gear. It's a great way to beat the heat, she says, and besides, it keeps the figure trim. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng.—Twenty minutes after she had settled into her seat on an express train, housewife Alice Churchill was thunderstruck.

She had forgotten to take a rice pudding out of the oven.

A train porter knew about a signal box down the line at Bromsgrove. Mrs. Churchill scribbled a note, the porter weighed it with a penny, threw it at the signal box as the train whizzed by.

Signalman John Westwood found the fluttering bit of paper and called the Birmingham police station, where Mrs. Churchill's daughter works.

Vera dashed home.

"The pudding was just nicely done and it tasted lovely," Vera reported.

NICE, France — Skindiving police wearing fins and packing harpoons instead of pistols broke up a nude sunbathing group at a secluded Riviera cove Friday.

The cops waddled out of the sea and arrested four men and two women before any of the nudists had time to don a pair of sunglasses. The sunbathers were all "naked as worms," police said.

Officers said they had been trying for weeks to catch the sunbathers. But each time they raided the cove by land the sunbathers heard them coming and had time to slip into conventional beach attire or dive into the surf and play the role of innocent swimmers.

DAVENPORT, Iowa—Joseph Ocheltree, 11, has been named official barge inspector for the McCarthy Improvement Company.

The company said the pay is nominal, but Joseph does not mind. He has been doing the same job for nothing.

He was put on the payroll after he told the company recently one of its barges was slowly sinking.

Although it took considerable convincing, the company unloaded the barge. Joseph was right. The barge had a leak and was taking water.

Joseph was given a $10 bonus and put on the payroll.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Even though it may mean losing public assistance for her 10 children, Mrs. Elna Sawicki says she plans to accept and install the $4,000 swimming pool she won recently on a television show.

The welfare department said Friday it was unlikely that Mrs. Sawicki could accept the pool and draw public aid.

Her children are so set on getting the pool that Mrs. Sawicki said she would go to work if welfare payments are discontinued.

"I worked before and can again," she said. Mrs. Sawicki is a divorcee.

Ruth Bowman, welfare director, said her department was not so concerned with the pool itself as with the added costs it would bring. She said it certainly would raise insurance rates on the Sawicki home and might boost the value of the property beyond the figure needed to qualify for aid.

'Outrageous' Wages Must Be Returned

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three shareholders have been ordered in Supreme Court to return to a hotel company $102,765 in "grandiose and outrageous" salaries they paid themselves.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson found that Alfonzo Veljacic, his wife Mary, and Joseph Katnich decided to drain off beer parlor profits at the downtown Royal Hotel.

He ordered Veljacic to repay Royal Holdings Ltd. $36,775; Mrs. Veljacic $14,240, and Katnich $51,750.

The suit to recover a share of the profits was brought by Steve Mosutich and Martha Horzan, who own 32 per cent of the company shares.

Kosutich and Mrs. Horzan said they managed the hotel from 1949 until they were discharged in 1955.

They alleged that dividends under the management of the majority shareholders shrank from $10,924 to nothing in the past two years.

JFK Decides Against Recognizing Mongolia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided not to set up diplomatic relations with Outer Mongolia at this time, the state department announced Friday.

The department said that "In view of the existing world situation, it is in the best interests of the United States to suspend further exploration of that matter at this time."

Outer Mongolia lies between Russia and Red China. Its government is Communist.

Some consideration had been given to supporting a bid by Outer Mongolia for admission to the United Nations—a bid pushed by Russia but strongly opposed by the government of Nationalist China.

It was understood President Kennedy made the basic decision not to extend recognition.

State department press officer Lincoln White said the decision was not dictated by the views of Nationalist China.

Argentina Rebels Surrender

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A vest-pocket midnight revolt against President Arturo Frondizi came to an abrupt, bloodless end early today as the last rebel holdout surrendered.

Diehards among the 80-man rebel band gave themselves up at 6.15 a.m., EDT, without firing a shot after receiving a surrender ultimatum from troops who ringed the telephone exchange they had seized shortly before midnight. The troops had trained a cannon on the building.

Earlier, the rest of the insurgents surrendered less than five hours after they seized the government radio station to broadcast claims they were taking over the government.

The rebels, who aroused no popular support, have not been clearly identified as to political tint. One of the group claimed they were anti-Communist nationalists with no political links.

Frondizi declared in a communique shortly after the rebels had broadcast their electrifying announcement that the attempted revolt was a dud. There was no bloodshed.

REBELS DENOUNCED

The government announcement blamed the pocket-sized uprising on "hotheads." It accused them of trying to upset internal peace and damage Argentina's prestige abroad.

Government officials appeared convinced the attempted revolt had no important political significance. But Frondizi remained in his office through the night waiting for final word that all resistance had been wiped out.

Foreign Minister Adolfo Mugica described the rebel action as "the work of brains that do not function well."

The abortive revolt caused a flurry of excitement while it lasted. It roused fears that it might create confusion at the inter-American conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

The rebels broadcast a revolutionary manifesto after seizing the telephone exchange which controls all radio lines, giving the impression at first that it was a country-wide revolt.

POLICE HOLD FIRE

Police and troops were rushed to buildings where the rebels were holed up, but held their fire.

Armed with pistols and light machine guns, the rebels fired when police approached the telephone building only 25 blocks from Government House, where Frondizi was meeting with his political and military aides on the crisis.

A law student, Hector Corres, among those who surrendered at the radio station, identified the leader of the rebels as his brother, air force commander Vicente Corres.

Hector declared he was anti-Communist and only seeking to bring national unity to Argentina, which has been beset by economic and industrial unrest.

Frondizi said failure of the revolt demonstrated that the Argentine people and armed forces "are united in their will to achieve the national destiny through legality and the constitutional regime."

The president did not appear disturbed by the uprising. Almost immediately he telephoned assurance to his economic minister, Roberto Alemann, at the inter-American conference that everything was normal in Buenos Aires.

New Step Soon In Peace Project

Provincial government sources said Friday they expect it is "just a matter of days" before British Columbia Electric Company applies for a water rights licence to develop the Peace River.

The statement was made after the cabinet rescinded reserves placed on the Peace, Parsnip and Finlay rivers to allow construction of hydro sites by Peace River Development Company Limited, a firm formed by the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren.

B.C. Electric was nationalized last week and Premier Bennett said it would take over development of the Peace River in northern B.C.

At the same time the government took possession of about $7,000,000 worth of surveys which the Peace River firm had made.

A spokesman said B.C. Electric probably has its application drawn up and is only awaiting publication of an order-in-council rescinding the reserves. The order-in-council is expected to appear in the B.C. Gazette early next week.

The next step would be to call public hearings on the application.

Also expected soon is an application from B.C. Power Commission, the government hydro authority, for development of the Columbia River.

Surveys are being made of the economic and social effects of the scheme.

Meanwhile in Vancouver Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the BCE's board of directors, announced that the firm has ordered an immediate start on engineering surveys of access roads and a temporary bridge into the Peace River area.

He said the decision was made at a board of directors meeting. He said the roads and bridge did not constitute any physical construction at the damsite.

'Could Not Tell Him The Truth'

LONDON (UPI)—"He may not understand the full meaning of it now, but it might upset him in later years."

Mrs. Rosemary Ellison was talking about her four-year-old son and how he was riding along a sidewalk on his tricycle when he struck Mrs. Florence James, 71, and knocked her down.

While she was in hospital, Mrs. James told police she was struck by "a little boy with fair hair and a curl on his forehead." She quoted the youngster as saying, "Can't you get up, lady?"

Police said Mrs. James died shortly after the accident.

The coroner said a four-year-old has no criminal responsibility and promised that Ian's name would not be included in his official report.

Ian's mother said that "when he asked me how the old lady was, I told him she was better again and out doing her shopping. He seemed so relieved. I just could not tell him the truth."

Adenauer Policy Hit By Brandt

NUERNBERG (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin accused Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government today of pursuing policies that set back reunification of Germany and a solution of the Berlin problem.

Brandt, Social Democratic candidate for chancellor against Christian Democratic Adenauer in the Sept. 17 election, told a giant party rally: "The government party's policies have not achieved what they were meant to and what was promised our people. The Soviet Union has not become weaker and the way to German unity has become much harder."

He said Adenauer had rejected with a "sterile no" every proposal that might have stopped this development and chosen instead to rely entirely on strictly military and cold war thinking.

S. Korea Election May, 1963

SEOUL (Reuters) — South Korea's ruling military junta announced today that national elections will be held in May, 1963, and government power will be returned to civilian control some time in the summer of the same year.

The announcement was made at a press conference by Lt.-Gen. Chung Hi Pak, chairman of the junta's supreme council for national reconstruction.

Pak was one of the leaders of the military coup that overthrew the elected regime of Premier John Chang May 16 on the grounds it was corrupt and "soft" toward communism.

Flanked by the other 26 members of the supreme council, Pak told reporters two years of military government is the "minimum" time required for the fulfilment of the junta's revolutionary pledges.

Pak said the military government must remain in power until the summer of 1963 to launch its five-year economic plan which will be initiated next year.

Pak said political activities, which have been banned by the coup, will be resumed in early 1963.

Ancient Anti-Pirate Laws Advocated to Fight Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Californians wants Congress to revive "letters of marque and reprisal" used, among others, by Corsairs who sailed the Spanish Main, capturing and plundering enemy ships.

The Conservative Americans of San Diego want the letters to authorize private persons to seize property in restitution for what they call thievery by Premier Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

Since taking office in 1959, the Castro government has seized an estimated $1,000,000,000 in U.S. property in Cuba.

The petition the group filed with the House of Representatives commerce committee and made public through the office of Representative James B. Utt (Rep., Calif.) does not specifically ask for authority to operate armed craft as privateers.

PRIVATEERS POSSIBLE

But Charles M. Barrack, one of the spokesmen, said in an interview privateering is certainly "one of the possibilities that could be opened up" if Congress authorized letters of marque.

He said: "I personally would rather see the government itself take action. We purposely wrote the petition to arouse interest in the situation and discussion of what might be done."

The petition asks Congress to "define the recent acts of the Cuban, Castro, as piracies or offences under the law of nations, and to issue letters of marque and reprisal to one or several of our numbers, or to those Americans best qualified in the judgment of Congress to act under the authority of such letters of marque and reprisal, or as Congress shall direct."

The petition cites Article I of the Constitution as specifically authorizing Congress to issue such letters.

However, information available at the Library of Congress indicates most Western powers have specifically renounced the use of letters of marque.

ATOM VICTIM LEAVES BODY FOR SCIENCE

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese victim of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in 1945 has hanged himself and willed his radiation-dosed body to scientists for research on atomic diseases, Kyodo News Agency reported today.

The agency said Mitsugu Yoshimura was found hanging in a wood near a graveyard on the outskirts of Hiroshima.

According to his family, Yoshimura was a soldier stationed in Hiroshima when the bomb exploded.

They said Yoshimura left hospital last month because he hated to be used as a "guinea pig."

Invitation to a Potlatch

THE OFFER OF THE NAtional Social Credit Party to give every man, woman and baby in Canada $100 is purely an abstract political exercise. For the Social Credit Party will not form the next Canadian government and no other conceivable government would consider such a plan, as Mr. R. N. Thompson, the newly-elected Social Credit leader, agrees. This particular piece of pie is very far indeed in the sky.

Nevertheless, it should be considered by Canadians as they try to judge the national Social Credit Party, and especially by British Columbians living under a Social Credit government. In this province the people have the right to ask Mr. Bennett whether he and his government approve the attempt to buy the votes of the Canadian people at $100 per head.

Unlike Mr. Bennett's $50 homeowner's grant—a useful piece of political bait—this money would not be raised by taxation. It would not be borrowed from the existing money supply. It would be created by printing-press inflation in the Bank of Canada. It would instantly add $1.8 billions to the present currency. And an inflation so massive would instantly raise all prices, domestic and export, to the damage of the consumer and the exporter.

This money, it should be understood, would not be raised by taxation. It would not be borrowed from the existing money supply. It would be created by printing-press inflation in the Bank of Canada. It would instantly add $1.8 billions to the present currency. And an inflation so massive would instantly raise all prices, domestic and export, to the damage of the consumer and the exporter.

Yet we are told that a sudden spending spree by Canadians, financed by the printing press, would solve our economic problems, put all our people to work and usher in the more abundant life. If the first inflationary injection failed to effect a cure, why of course we could try another. There is no limit to the capacity of the central bank's printing press—and no limit to the ruin which it could assure.

It is not necessary to ask whether the people of Canada approve this particular brand of lunacy but what does the Social Credit government of British Columbia think of it? Surely that is a legitimate question which Mr. Bennett is bound to answer when he asks this province to send Social Credit members to the next Parliament.

In British Columbia we are used to Mr. Bennett's gigantic borrowings that somehow create no debt but at least he borrows existing money and intends to pay it back some day. Does he support the national policy of his party which simply intends, if elected, to destroy the nation's currency and all its savings?

As a man who never believed in the theories of Social Credit anyway, does he agree at last that in practical effect they mean only unlimited inflation? And if he is opposed to this form of national potlatch will he repudiate his party's national policy of $100 per vote, with an extra bonus for the non-voting children?

Do-It-Yourself Crisis

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S INcreasingly vehment demands and warnings on Berlin seem to indicate that he is facing the West with a crisis simply because he is himself being faced with one. The mounting unrest in East Germany, as represented in the thousands pouring across the border to freedom each week, must be causing the Soviet leader to put on the pressure.

There can be little doubt that he is whipping the Russian people into a fervor that will carry him through the critical time he has set for himself—when the Soviet Union signs a peace treaty with East Germany regardless of the needs or wishes of Moscow's wartime allies.

The impressive fact is that the promise of this treaty, instead of winning the approval of the people of East Germany, is causing them grave concern and sending many into flight to the West.

Mr. Khrushchev has spoken of calling up reserves, of moving further army divisions into East Germany. A new commander-in-chief of Soviet forces in East Germany has been appointed. The Communist chief of East Germany, Walter Ulbricht, tells an audience of workers that the frontier "must be defended militarily against the militarists of Bonn." The flight of East German refugees is described by the East German deputy premier as due to "the traders in humans for their dirty aims."

The Communist state does not take steps and create public moods by whim or accident. The present campaign can only be ascribed to deliberate policy by the Kremlin.

Part of that policy has been to warn Western allies that they lie under the threat of a rain of nuclear bombs in case of war. Another part has been to attempt to shake the unity of the major Western allies by an on-again-off-again campaign of war threats and pleas for peace.

This resort to threats by the man who only a few weeks ago was declaring that war is unthinkable as well as unnecessary for Russian aims, is the most serious onslaught in recent years. It has a nasty smell of 1938-39 about it, and Communism's arch enemy, Adolf Hitler, must be laughing in his bunker tomb.

Money for a Moon Shot, But . . .

OREGON'S Attorney-General Robert Y. Thornton added a little vinegar to the closing banquet speech he made to the United States National District Attorneys' Association convention in Portland the other day.

Declaring that the United States government is not spending enough on crime prevention, he added that "After we have put a man on the moon, perhaps we can get back to earth and do something about preventing crime and delinquency."

The comment obviously contrasted the costs of the man-bearing moon shot to those of preventive action on delinquency and draws attention to the fact that such preventive work is expensive not only in the United States.

The point will not be missed in Greater Victoria where a committee recently followed up an earlier report on juvenile delinquency with a review of action taken to curb that development in this community.

The basic finding seemed to be that if Greater Victoria wanted to cut down on the high cost of crime, it would have to spend a substantial, though presumably lesser, amount on the ounce of prevention than on the pound of cure.

So far money spent on the ounce comes reluctantly from governments, junior and senior, which have a direct and compelling interest not only in averting the social loss involved in crime, but in the actual dollars and cents spent in detection, catching the wrongdoer, trying him and, on conviction, paying for his board and lodging, along with rehabilitation.

How to Stay Amateur

AN INTERESTING SPORTS item from London explains the manner in which horse owners and competitors in equestrian events for which money prizes are given can retain their amateur status.

The explanation is simple. The money won in different contests presumably goes to the horse.

Note is also taken of the way crack rifle shots can remain amateur while accepting money awards. In their case, the funds are presumed to go for ammunition. In certain fields of amateur tennis, it seems, the money in like manner simply involves the racket.

Just Kicking Culture Around

WHAT DOES AN INTERNAtional football player do before and after the big games?

According to the Communist-controlled journal, Magyar Ifjusag, Hungarian football players spend altogether too little time assimilating the culture and knowledge of the foreign countries they visit. They ought to know more about the museums, galleries and monuments of the foreign lands in which they travel, says the publication.

No doubt Hagyar Ifjusag has a point.

Unfortunately though, as sports writers might point out, there aren't many long-hairs and egg-heads making first class football teams anywhere.

The Hungarian publication complains that the players seem to be engaged in spare time pursuits other than "enhancing their culture and widening their knowledge." Maybe so. But who's to judge what "enhancing their culture and widening their knowledge" means to a group of visiting firemen who happen also to play football?

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

ON THE upper reaches of Craigflower Creek, or as it used to be called Deadman's Creek, there are many pools in which hundreds of coho salmon fry can be seen.

These little fingerlings are short of food, and they will strike at almost anything that is placed in the water. The drain-off from Prior Lake is practically nil owing to the lack of rain, so the food supply for the fry is very short.

On the bottom of the pools there are many caddis fly larvae which move around carrying their own houses with them. These little shelters are made up from the debris from the pools and if you look closely you can see how this creature has cemented the tiny particles, which often include minute pieces of rock, into a shelter that looks like a piece of stick.

Clinging to the under side of the smooth rocks in the pools can be found many fresh water snails and a small limpet-like creature that is a counterpart of the limpet found in the sea.

Along the margins of the creek there are large clumps of sword fern, their fonds three feet tall. They make a shelter for the musk plant, which belongs to the mimula family, with its pale yellow two-lipped flower and weak hairy stems.

In this area there are many western yew trees. They stand out with their shaggy limbs and stringy bark making a contrast to the Douglas firs and alders.

We Accept Others' Burdens, So Long as They Carry Them

OUR allies must be inspired by Canada's response to their stern new policies. When President Kennedy called upon his people for sacrifice every Canadian fervently approved. When he proposed higher taxes every Canadian agreed that they were needed—in the United States. When the British government said the same thing a patriotic chorus of commendation sounded from Halifax to Victoria.

Hutchison

We accept the burdens of other nations, so long as they carry them, with a fortitude which can only be called heroic. No sacrifice is too great if others make it, no tax too high if others pay it, no policy too hard if it doesn't apply to Canada.

OF course the reasoning of Britain and the United States cannot apply to Canada. We have that on the word of our government. Here no hard policies are required.

What we need, as the government says, are easier policies and in the recent budget we got them in the nick of time—looser money, large deficits, devalued dollars and larger promises. Stern measures are for the birds, or foreigners. Canadians are above that sort of thing.

The Times, of London, surveying the British situation, concludes that "if Britain goes on as she is there will come the economic crisis she will not survive . . . No matter what the measures may be they will not, on their own, cure the deep-seated ills of the British economy. Nothing short of an effort by the whole nation can do that."

The situation in Canada, however, is quite different, as Mr. Fleming has realized with sudden clarity. Because we are fortunate to have a better government than our backward British and American friends, it can cure everything by itself, and always by the easy way.

To be sure, that theory denies all human experience, both of nations and individual men, none of whom has done anything significant by the easy way, but you must remember that Canada is unique and exempt from these old-fashioned laws of nature.

OUR politicians have been telling us so ever since Laurier discovered that the twentieth century belonged to Canada. It may not be quite certain that Canada, in its present economic arrangements, belongs to the twentieth century but let us not quibble, at a time of crisis, about these minor debating points.

The important thing, the target to keep our eyes on, is that all our troubles will be solved with interest rates, banking devices, mirrors and rabbits out of top hats, without cost to anybody.

This must make a man proud to be a Canadian these days. As the song goes in "My Fair Lady," we are a marvellous sect, the privileged Fair Lady of these times, the only state on earth which can claim immunity from all the rules.

We may therefore expect our politicians, as soon as they re-open Parliament, to endorse without reservation the announcements of the American president and the British chancellor of the exchequer. Our Parliament is ready to collect the last dollar of the last American taxpayer, to endure the austerity of the humblest British household, to accept anything, however unpleasant, outside its own jurisdiction.

INDEED, as Mr. Fleming says in firing Mr. Coyne, our only mistake so far has been to maintain an excessively hard and gallant posture. We haven't been living sufficiently beyond our means. We have depleted ourselves by too much heroism under Mr. Coyne's cruel, sadistic advice. So we must now remove our hair shirt and relax if we are to survive the approaching storm.

We Stand on Guard for Thee, but we must not stand too upright because it might hurt. Easy does it, boys, in the True North, Strong and Free.

The French writer and philosopher, Fontenelle, is quoted by The Times, to support its un-Canadian theories, as saying that "mankind only settle into the right course after exhausting all the varieties of error."

Fontenelle would be perfectly at home here. By his definition we have made wonderful progress in Canada. We have been exhausting varieties of error at breakneck speed for at least a decade. There can hardly be any more left. Given a few more years, or even months, of our present behavior under our present government, and we shall have exhausted them all.

THE Hansard of Parliament in recent times is a very encyclopedia of errors explored, advocated and digested to the last crumb, until somebody thinks up a new one for the same treatment, but a consistent logic, a basic principle runs through the process, reconciling all discordant elements: the principle that no policy can be any good if it is inconvenient, that in this nation alone we can always get something for nothing while foreigners and lesser breeds without the law must work for it.

In private, the politicians may not believe this assumption but, as all of them assure me, they cannot get elected if they tell the truth. How can they be sure of that, I wonder? Nobody has tried the experiment so far.

Only Public Opinion Can Stop the Financial Adventure

THE federal government isn't quite certain which way to turn in the face of Premier Bennett's spectacular takeover of the B.C. Electric and the flimsy structure created by Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren. The moment that takeover was promulgated, Mr. Bennett was in a position to determine the future course of power development in his province. He, with the support of his cabinet, can now dictate the priorities, fix the projects, establish the time-table.

Gould

This transfer of authority from private hands to the B.C. cabinet is the most significant consequence of the confiscation of the B.C. Electric and Wenner-Gren.

Now the B.C. government is in the position, for the first time, of being able to determine future patterns of growth in the province, of being able to steer industry and population growth from one area to another, for development follows power generation.

How will Mr. Bennett use his new powers?

To the utter dismay of the federal government, he appears determined to go ahead with the Peace River scheme advanced by Wenner-Gren. With almost unseemingly haste he has ordered his new B.C. Electric Crown corporation to start work on the huge Peace River dam, the beginnings of a project that will cost well in excess of $600,000,000.

He doesn't appear the least intimidated at the enormous cost.

Yet this same Premier Bennett has held up the Columbia River development for half a year in quibbling with Ottawa over a financial agreement, after Ottawa had offered to raise half the money required to build the three dams envisioned in the Columbia River treaty between Canada and the United States.

B.C.'s share of building the Columbia dams would have been $172,000,000, plus, of course, the cost of transmitting the power to the markets of the Lower Mainland. At that, Ottawa was willing to negotiate on transmission cost.

There is an obvious contradication in this, but Ottawa is unable to pin the thing down. No-one here thinks along the lines of the imaginative Mr. Bennett, and his motives remain a mystery to the federal cabinet.

Ottawa is still convinced that building the Peace before the Columbia is sheer madness. From every standpoint, the Columbia appears to be the next logical step in B.C. power development. It is closer to the Vancouver market; it can be phased in in economical blocks, it will provide B.C. with millions in compensation for flood relief, and it will supply B.C. with very low-cost, downstream benefit power.

And, Ottawa, by merely releasing a number of engineering reports, can prove demonstrably that power from the Columbia is still the cheapest power available to the consumers of B.C.

But how much of this is Ottawa's business? If Premier Bennett wants to build the Peace first, in a move to stir development in north-central B.C. (where things are moving today, after decades of standing still), he has a constitutional right so to do.

If the premier chooses to ignore the Columbia, there is no agency that can stop him. It would be pointless for Ottawa to step in and develop the Columbia as a national work, because there is only one purchaser today for the Columbia's power, and that is the B.C. government.

Ottawa is over a large barrel.

It knows Mr. Bennett wants to export power. But he hasn't applied for an export licence. He obviously is not going to apply for an export licence until he has spent so much money on the Peace River that Ottawa will, in practical terms, be unable to refuse power export.

All these things Ottawa recognizes, but is powerless to do anything about.

All it can hope for now is a profound expression of opinion on the part of the citizens of B.C. Only the force of public opinion can stop Mr. Bennett. Only public opinion can prevent the loss of the development of the Columbia River.

Only public opinion can halt a gigantic financial adventure on the Peace River, for, until the premier can specify his markets for the Peace, show where he is going to sell its power, it must remain this categorized: a financial adventure.

Lies of Great Men All Remind Us—But Dimly, Very Dimly

SAY what you like about mass education, you can't deny that it has opened up new vistas for millions of people who, but for the inestimable benefits conferred by it, might not be able to read the words that appear in the balloons issuing from the mouths of the characters in the comic strip. And thousands have been introduced to the glories of classical literature, once the jealously guarded preserve of ancient Greeks and Romans (who were too ignorant to realize that what they were reading was, in fact, as classical as all get out), and the European upper classes.

Emery

How far this boon has penetrated can be judged by the allusions, the tags, the learned quotations that trip from the lips of the man in the street.

Only the other day I saw in a newspaper a description of someone going about "like Demosthenes with his lantern in daylight looking for an honest man." That couldn't have appeared 50 years ago or if it had I'll wager that the writer would have confused Demothenes and his lantern with Diogenes, the orator, practicing hard with a pebble (or potsherd) in his mouth, or Diomedes living in his barrel. We have come a long way since those days.

There can be no doubt that a profound knowledge of the classics is not only a great thing in itself, but also it provides such a store of illuminating and instructive anecdotes with which to enliven the family table.

What child does not thrill to the story of Anaximander looking for new worlds to conquer? And think how proud the parent when he hears some childish voice pipe up before company, "I feel like the sword of Democritus was hangin' over my head."

And it is not just in the home that these jewels may be displayed. At one time parliamentarians did not feel their perorations carried weight without a dozen lines of Virgil or Cicero for ballast. We read with interest of Mr. Gladstone at 83 translating five of the love poems of Horace—as disinterested an act of pure scholarship as ever I heard—before tottering off to Windsor to tender his resignation to the Widow.

Why has this classical passion been allowed to fade? When can we look to see our own legislators regaling us with some neat Greek epigram, or livening up the estimates for expenditure on roads and bridges with a sly reference to Herodotus, who held the pass that decided the game against the Persians—or Parthians as they were known in the early days of bronze dentures.

And useful as it is to the writer and the statesman, to be able to deploy such a vast fund of learning is invaluable above all to the teacher. The instructor who has not at his fingertips the story of how Pisistratus leaped from his bath and ran through the streets of Salamis shouting "Thalassa" cannot expect to hold his class, his job or his head up in a society where the Hiera Anagraphe of Euhemerus sell like hot cakes in a Turkish bath.

Not that I am recommending an exclusive preoccupation with the dead languages. No genuine education is complete without a wide acquaintance with the fields of history, ancient and modern, domestic and foreign.

I don't mean just the old, old stories about Ethelred and the cakes, and Henry VIII singeing the Pope's beard, and Penda telling the waves to halt: they, after all, will be told as long as there are parents to tell and children to listen. I mean rather the stories from other lands, not less instructive for being less familiar, like that of Gerhard Nestle, the Swiss hero who had an applehead for a son.

That story may well be apocryphal, as some modern scholars suggest, but I have not heard anyone doubt the authenticity of the famous tale of the Empress Marie Louise (nee Bashkirtseff) who said "Let them eat cake!"

And there is warrant enough for Jean-Jacques Rousseau's proud avowal at the time when he was Voyeur Extraordinary to the court of Louis XIV: "L'Etat c'est moi!" To which, you remember his friend Chateaubriand (later burned at the stake) wittily replied: "That's nothing. You should see the state I'm in."

It is one of the weaknesses of Canadian history as it is taught in our schools today, that the children are not given access to such a storehouse of legend and myth and anecdote as that which falls to the lot of the European infant.

True, we have one or two well-loved tales passed on from generation to generation: it will be a sad day if ever the memory of John A.'s dying words—"Sell when it hits $54.40"—is allowed to die; and Laurier's witty address to the electors of Trois Rivieres on the text, "Posterity is just around the corner" will be remembered long after the last canoe laden with furs and furriners has shot the rapids at Niagara.

But by and large our historians have not furnished us with those anecdotal gleanings from what Carlyle once called "the guano-heaps of history." We need more memorable moments from the lives of our great ones, and if they can't be found in the documents, then let us do what everybody else does, and make them up.

A step has been taken in this direction by the astute new brain that now guides the fortunes of our tourist bureau, but we must not rest satisfied with that. Let us never be accused of paucity of invention, whatever else we are accused of.

Let us borrow some of the spirit that sustained little Charlene Phlegm when she saved Fort Camosun from a surprise attack by beating on her portly father's tom-tom, quoting at the same time the famous words uttered years before by Gladstone: "Tis a far, far better thing I do . . ."

. . . REPORTING

OTTAWA — The fable of the goose that laid the golden eggs has a parallel in our trade picture. The goose: Japan.

In the fable the goose was killed to get the gold whence the eggs came—only there was none. In the modern parallel we are slowly starving the goose, yet expecting each year's egg to be bigger. The question is: at which point do the eggs begin to shrink?

Trade with Japan last year was hugely in our favor. The golden egg, to carry on the analogy, was Japan's purchase of $178 millions worth of Canadian wheat, other farm products, minerals, metal scrap, wood pulp, plastics, synthetic rubber, coal and parts for adding machines.

The goose's diet — our purchases from Japan — was $110 millions worth of textiles, radios, electronic tubes, toys, plywood, cameras, oranges, sewing machines, canned tuna and other manufactured and processed goods.

But the goose of our modern fable is no goose when it comes to subtracting 110 from 178—and she is not satisfied that she's getting her egg's worth from us. If we don't increase the feed ration, the goose threatens to reduce the size of the eggs.

Japanese-Canadian trade is based on a "most-favored-nation" trade treaty signed in 1954. Under it our sales to Japan nearly doubled in seven years; our imports from Japan increased nearly five times. Japanese Ambassador Toru Hagiwara predicts his country's imports from Canada will total $200 millions this year, rising to $400 millions by 1970.

The Japanese strongly object, however, to the discriminatory nature of the "voluntary" quotas that they have placed on exports to Canada of textiles, rubber footwear, radios and tubes, plywood and flatware. The Japanese complain they were given the choice of imposing these quotas or having Canada put arbitrary tariff valuations on their goods. No other most-favored-nation has received such a hollow favor, and there are no quotas on Hong Kong textiles.

If Canada wants to restrict imports, the Japanese say, let it start with countries that have big trade surpluses with Canada (e.g., the U.S.), not with those that have big deficits.

* * *

Can we afford to ignore the Japanese protests? Manufacturing and labor interests obviously want the protection. Mining and forest industries are not worried—the Japanese need our raw materials. But Japan bought $98 millions worth of wheat, flour, flax and rapeseed last year — and if it chose it could buy U.S. or Australian wheat, to the economic distress of western farmers and the political discomfiture of the government.

The Japanese would like to boost exports by setting up Canadian subsidiaries for final manufacturing or assembly of semi-finished Japanese products, using Canadian labor. But the tight Canadian restriction on Asiatic immigration bars Japanese managerial and technical staffs needed to carry out such plans.

Insiders predict the government will lower these bars.

For domestic political reasons it is unrealistic to anticipate the government acquiescing to any relaxation of the Japanese trade quota system before the election that most observers now expect next June. But the Japanese have an argument—namely, wheat—that will command the attention of whatever government the people elect in 1962.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

By SILENUS

Bye, Bye, Blackbird

OUR government has really outdone itself. It was bound to happen sooner or later. The day has come when it has convinced itself with its own propaganda; a remarkable thing in this country of Anglo-Saxon traditions.

SILENUS

No more is this the Government That Gets Things Done, but the Government That Gets Everything Done, whether it needs Doing or Not.

The effects of the legislative session just concluded are beginnig to make themselves felt.

It is not the creation of new laws, but the repeal of old ones which is causing the stir.

The Government says it is going to get us power from the Peace River. After what has happened, it looks as if it really means to do so. Kilowatts, rather than share certificates, are to be generated in our northern fastnesses; there seems to be no doubt of it. This fact alone is startling enough.

But there remain many obstacles between the Peace River and your toaster and television set. Fortunately, the way is clear for the overcoming of them. The legislature has repealed the necessary laws.

Ohm's Law, for instance; which may ring a faint bell in the fuddled minds of those who suffered through physics in high school. Ohm's Law was a serious obstacle in the way of getting the electricity from There to Here. It had to go, for if it had stayed, the expenses would have been immense, and a new batch of debt-free debentures would have had to be printed.

This would have put a severe strain on the Queen's Printer, who is behind on his work as it is.

And the rates will not be raised, because the Law of Diminishing Returns has been repealed. How wonderful is our constitution! How lucky we are to have a truly sovereign parliament!

The most important repeal of all is the removal from our laws of that tiresome principle which lays down that chickens eventually return to roost. Let us all continue to have faith in our leaders and our legislators (faith it must be, for hope is faint and charity is long since dead). We must believe that the assurances of the Government have more solid merit than past events have led us to believe, and that by some miracle we can prosper electrically in an economy based upon the kiting of cheques.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — Although skies were mainly clear and winds light across the province this morning there are threats to the fine weather. The first is a disturbance moving northeastward into the Gulf of Alaska. By Sunday it is expected to be nearing the north coast to bring cloud and perhaps a little rain to the upper B.C. coastal areas. The second is a weak disturbance which has moved into the western states during the night. This system will bring some cloud and a little cooler temperatures to southern areas of province during the next day or so. There is a chance also that a few showers or even thundershowers may develop later today or overnight in southern areas as well.

RIGHTIST COUP FEARED

De Gaulle Calm, France Seethes

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's government this year regards the mid-August holiday season much as Julius Caesar once regarded the Ides of March.

No soothsayer is needed to warn that the Fifth Republic stands in danger. Some Frenchmen, and those among the best informed, see even the possibility of an attempted rightist coup d'etat this month.

And—with de Gaulle as the main obstacle to the success of rightist plans—they fear for his life.

The lofty, disdainful president as usual gives no public sign that anything could be wrong with the serenity of his regime. Two days ago he started his usual vacation at his country retreat of Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, 120 miles from Paris.

But in the capital and throughout the country and Algeria, intelligence agents have their ear to the ground and police informers are busy.

VARIETY OF PROBLEMS

There are plenty of problems on hand. The painfully slow Algerian peace talks have broken down again amid the continuing explosion of plastic bombs. The touchy question of France's Bizerte naval base is still unsettled and the United Nations will debate it Aug. 21.

The farmers are acting up again, pressing for Parliament's recall to discuss their problems, and, behind it all, the Berlin crisis is looming ever larger.

Professional politicians who oppose de Gaulle — and they are not a few—see themselves relegated to the background of conducting foreign affairs as long as the present strong man of France holds power. Many army officers bitterly oppose his proposed solution of the Algerian problem by letting the Algerians choose their own future. They call it selling out the empire.

Those who tried to unseat the regime by the Algiers revolts of January, 1960, and April, 1961, still thirst for revenge. Many of their leaders are still at large. Probably most of the Europeans in Algeria, feeling they now have little to lose, are ready to back them in a last, desperate throw.

NEWSPAPER WARNINGS

Just as in April, well-informed journalists warn of impending danger. The conservative Paris daily Figaro, the influential leftist weeklies Express and France-Observateur, all stress that the regime is in danger now as it was then. Last time they were right. This time who knows?

August is a particularly dangerous period because plotters might profit from the midmonth vacuum when the capital is virtually emptied of its native population.

Next Tuesday is the traditional Assumption Day holiday. Every Frenchman who can, and most can, claims an extra day on his vacation. Those who took off in the first half of August linger a day or two more before returning. Those due to leave in the second half of the month get away early. The result is that the centre of Paris and other big cities become a virtual desert for 48 hours or so.

Authorities are taking precautions.

Foreign Aid Victory For JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a major victory for President Kennedy, the Senate has rejected an amendment striking at the heart of his foreign aid program.

The amendment, offered by Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.—Va.), was turned back 36 to 39 Friday night. It would have required yearly appropriations from Congress to finance Kennedy's program of development loans to struggling nations.

TEN IN REVOLT

Ten Republicans went against their leader, Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, to join 46 Democrats in support of the president. These Republican votes were critical because the amendment drew the support of 16 Democrats and 23 Republicans.

Kennedy's request for authority to borrow money from the treasury to finance the loans is the keystone of this year's $4,326,500,000 foreign aid bill. It includes $1,187,000,000 in loan funds for this year.

Still left for decision when the Senate quit for the weekend is whether it will vote the full five-year, $8,800,000,000 program Kennedy has asked for making easy-term loans to underdeveloped nations.

INSTITUTE HEARS DUTY CALL

'Sacrifice' by Canadians Needed to Develop World

By FORBES RHUDE

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Premier Roblin of Manitoba said Friday night Canadians should be prepared to make "real sacrifices" in the cause of world development.

PREMIER ROBLIN
. . . sounds tocsin

He told the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs, meeting in this Lake Couchiching resort area, there is a worthy role for Canada both in assisting emerging countries to economic strength and in supporting such agencies as the proposed international food bank.

At the same time, Canada should continue to play its proper role in North American society, in the Western Alliance and in the development of the United Nations.

"The UN," Mr. Roblin said, "does seem to be developing an executive arm through the office of the secretary-general."

John W. Holes, president of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and former assistant undersecretary of state for external affairs, said "the United Nations is not a supra-national government but an instrument of diplomacy. And Dag Hammarskjold, God bless him, is the world's best and purest diplomat."

DENOUNCES NEUTRALISM

Mr. Roblin said non-alliance or neutralism does not represent the will or interests of the Canadian people and they could exist only under the shield of the Western Alliance.

Canada's influence in power relations is limited, but this need not keep it from expressing views or from taking part in wide areas of action, he said.

Concerning Canada's possibilities for middle-power leadership, Mr. Roblin said: "I don't think we can put ourselves in the position of leadership. We could accept it if offered, but I don't see any rush to offer it to us. It would be a mistake if we aspired to leadership for the sake of leadership. It is a matter of doing one's part."

But Canada must express its own convictions about great power policies.

Mr. Roblin said the attitude of some people to assistance to other countries is that "charity begins at home."

"If we wait for Utopia at home before starting anything elsewhere in the world we will never do anything."

Manitoba in co-operation with Ottawa was sending teachers to Ceylon.

"We think it worth doing if it will get our people interested and challenge their imagination."

Mr. Roblin said if Britain enters the Common Market "we will have to accommodate ourselves to that fact."

Gangland Killing

NEW YORK (AP)—A New Jersey man, accused as a member of a multi-million-dollar narcotics smuggling ring, was found dead Wednesday in a Bronx street, an apparent victim of a gangland-style murder.

Police said the man, William Holmes, 38, a Negro of Teaneck, N.J., apparently had been shot and bludgeoned to death elsewhere and dumped in the street.

The United States attorney's office said Holmes was one of 24 men indicted last May on federal narcotics law violations. It charged he belonged to a ring that smuggled $150,000,000 worth of heroin into the U.S. in the last 10 years.

Air Crash Kills 30

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — Thirty persons were killed when a passenger plane crashed on Budapest Aug. 6 after stunting in midair, the Hungarian news agency MTI reported Friday. The victims included four crew members, 23 passengers and three persons who were in the vicinity of the crash.

Iraq Threatens But Kuwait Quiet

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

BAGHDAD (AP) — Excitement over the Kuwait crisis in the sun-scorched Iraqi capital has faded to a listless propaganda campaign against British and Arabs alike.

Iraq seems no closer to gaining Kuwait than it was June 25 when fiery Premier Abdel Karim Kassem claimed the independent oil-rich sheikdom as an Iraqui province.

"They say we want to annex Kuwait," declared Kassem in a speech last week. "We want to liberate Kuwait and if they are interested in the word annexation, then we will annex Kuwait by force under their noses."

The speech, coming amid similar statements by the government-controlled radio and newspapers, produced little noticeable effect. No military movement is reported at Port Basra, which would be the striking point for any Kuwait move. But persistent rumors claim there has been a shake-up in the army officer corps there.

DENOUNCE BRITAIN

Editorials and broadcasts denounce Britain as imperialist and lash out at the Arab League for its decision to replace British troops in Kuwait with Arab forces.

"An army of hirelings," cried one newspaper, referring to the league. Iraq is boycotting all its sessions to protest the admittance of Kuwait as a member.

It is questionable whether the Iraqis are paying much attention to the propaganda campaign. The city is calm.

British residents say Iraqis are as friendly as ever, despite official denunciations.

The anti-British campaign seemingly has not turned the army's eyes to Moscow, where much of its equipment comes from. The director-general of the police and Lt.-Col. Jassim Azzawi, Kassem's private secretary, both left recently for London for medical treatment. At the same time, Kassem's aide-de-camp, Capt. Hafidh Alwan, left to enrol at Britain's Camberley staff college.

'UN LIVRE OUVERT'

From the permanent collection of the Victoria Art Gallery, presented by the artist, Mrs. Sophie Deane-Drummond, "Un Livre Ouvert" (An Open Book) was painted in 1900 and hung in the Paris Salon of 1904. Represented in the picture are two young Victoria ladies, Miss Ethel Vantreight and Miss Ellie Paddon. (Photo by Ken McAllister.)

ART IN REVIEW By ARTHUR CORRY

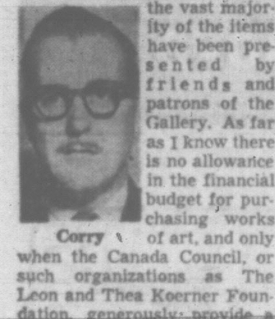
Permanent Collection Mostly Gifts of Friends

The Victoria Art Gallery, under the able curatorship of Colin Graham, is slowly and patiently building an extremely fine Permanent Collection. The majority of this collection will be on display to the public from Aug. 15 to Sept. 3.



Corry

It is an amazing display when one realizes that by far the vast majority of the items have been presented by friends and patrons of the Gallery. As far as I know there is no allowance in the financial budget for purchasing works of art, and only when the Canada Council, or such organizations as The Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation, generously provide a grant is money available for this purpose.

In the impressive entrance hall of the former Spencer home hang some of the finest oil paintings. Mrs. Sophie Deane-Drummond's "Un Livre Ouvert," which hung in the Paris Salon of 1904, depicts two young Victoria ladies, Miss Ethel Vantreight and Miss Ellie Paddon, engrossed in an open book. This painting was presented to the Gallery by the artist.

Next to Mrs. Deane-Drummond's painting hangs an eminent portrait of Professor Alexander Melville Bell by Carl Gutle, which was painted in 1906. This fine old gentleman with a grey-white beard was the father of Alexander Graham Bell and a professor at the University of Edinburgh.

Turner Gold Medal Winner Shown

Emigrating to Canada and then moving to Washington, D.C., the Bell family always returned to Canada for the summer. This painting was the gift of Mrs. A. W. McCurdy of Victoria, a niece of Professor Bell.

On entering the main hall the first picture one sees is that of "Tintagel Castle, Cornwall," by M. A. Langdale; this painting was presented by the daughter of the artist, Miss Stella Langdale. It was this picture that won the first "Turner Gold Modal" at the Royal Academy in 1865. The prize was instituted by the English critic John Ruskin, who felt that the English landscape was neglected by the art students of the time.

In a rich, gold embroidered, red vest, long lace cuffs, and a grey powdered wig, we see Bonnie Prince Charlie, standing against a background of trees and dark-clouded sky. This canvas was painted in 1760 by a member of the English School, and the Gallery is indebted to Mrs. Ross Napier for her kind presentation.

These four pictures represent but a small portion of the many academic paintings in this display. Those in the new galleries present a contrast of inspiring beauty, with their antique gilt frames and deep rich color hung against this neutral background.

In the Ker Wing, displayed to perfection, will be found a pair of rare carved ivory cased swords, used for Court executions by the Japanese in the 18th century. These were a gift of Mrs. H. Wilton in memory of her husband, the late Lt.-Commander (E) H. Wilton.

Among the many paintings given to the Gallery by the Women's Committee Purchase Fund are: "New Snow From My Studio Window" by Jack Shadbolt, "Black Reflections, Bishops Pond, 1917" by David Milne, and "Figure," a charcoal sketch by Jan Zach.

"Negress" by L. T. Newton, "Landscape 1920," "Landscape 1921" by David Milne, and "Toronto Street Car" by Pegi Nicol, are but a few of a collection donated by Mrs. F. Maud Brown.

One of the Gallery's chief benefactors is H. Mortimer Lamb of Vancouver and a few of his gift paintings on display are: "North Vancouver Ferry" and "The Procession" by Molly Bobak, and "Grey Log" by Bruno Bobak.

No collection can ever be called perfect and the Gallery sadly lacks good representation from nearly all schools, particularly "old masters," impressionists, and even local Emily Carr. However, during this exhibition the small gallery will contain sketches, on loan, of Emily Carr's.

Survey Lists Most-Neglected World Classics

CHICAGO (UPI) — Which books are considered "the most neglected classics?"

Among those listed by a number of editors in a recent survey were "Revolt of Angels," "Vanity Fair," "War and Peace," and "The Bible."

The survey, conducted by J. Philip O'Hara of the Follett Publishing Co., as part of a study of publishing trends and attitudes also showed:

Editors were split evenly on whether "rankness" in modern books is "acceptable" or "deplorable."

They believed, 4-to-1, three is "danger of more censorship."

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

Several of the letters I have received during the past few weeks demand answers in this column.

For instance, a number of admirers of Sherlock Holmes object to my description of him as "a pompous fraud." My dear friends, the truth is much worse than that.

This autumn a famous American publisher is bringing out Dr. Paul Zaharov's "The Real Holmes," a psychoanalytical investigation of the stories. He brings forward evidence that Dr. Watson, as Holmes' biographer, falsified the relationship between them, presenting himself as a stupid commonplace fellow, and Holmes as a genius who constantly snubbed him. But Watson has been unable to conceal from Dr. Zaharov's X-ray eye that Watson was himself supplying drugs to Holmes, and kept the detective in his thrall in this way.

Zaharov makes some suggestions that there was a closer ambiguous relationship between the men; I cannot quite swallow this, and psychiatrists tend to see scandalous liaisons everywhere. But that Holmes was a weed-head, virtually enslaved by the cunning Watson, there seems to be no doubt.

And to be fair to Zaharov, one of the worst things about narcotic addiction is that sexual degeneration may follow.

What Zaharov does not touch, but which has long troubled me is the question of Watson's complicity in criminal deeds. Was Watson in the pay of the infamous Professor Moriarty? Certainly if this were so, his continual plying of the great detective with the drugs which sapped his intellect, would have a motive more acceptable to me, for one, than the ugly construction the psychoanalyst puts upon it.

Aspiring Hymnists Seek Publishers

My comment on hymns has moved several readers to send me religious verse of their own composition, sometimes accompanied by music. Without rising to the level of Isaac Watts or Charles Wesley, some of this is good, and I am happy to know that this way of manifesting devotion has not fallen entirely into disuse.

Every week I receive at least one letter from somebody who wants me to help him find a publisher. This is odd, because every public library contains a number of books giving such information, and details which I cannot hope to provide. Why do the aspiring writers not apply to their librarians?

The answer, I think, lies in the widespread desire to find a godparent who will initiate us into mysteries of which we are at once desirous and afraid. The fact is that publishers themselves are ready, and indeed eager, to encourage writers of promise. An important part of their business is offering advice and criticism, and in my opinion they do it honestly. They are not infallible; if they say your work is unpublishable, they may be wrong. But if 20 publishers turn you down, I think you should pay attention.

Their advice is professional, and not solely commercial. There are literary agents, who will also give you a professional opinion, for a fee. My advice, which I have spread far and wide by means of correspondence, is simple: write if you must, and publish if you can, but do not be too much cast down if you reach no public but your family and friends. Being a writer is not a blessed state; at its best it is hard work and at its worst, it is pure hell.

Priestley Busy Writing Memoirs

J. B. Priestley is now serializing his memoirs in the London Sunday Times. He has enjoyed success given to few writers, but his life has not been a whirl of bliss. Writing if it is not serious, is a form of self-exploration, and that is never wholly pleasant.

The late Ernest Hemingway was, among other things, an eminently newsworthy character — picturesque, hospitable, admired and greatly sought after. But there is a price to be paid for that side of literary success and it can be a heavy one. If you want to know what a great part of literary life is like, read George Gissing's novel 'New Grub Street.' Then if you still feel inclined, try playing at what is a deeply serious business.

Many correspondents complain to me that they cannot get the books I write about; their booksellers have not heard of them, and will not trouble to seek them out. Surely one of the greatest needs of the literary life on this continent is a larger body of really intelligent booksellers. Surely nobody is a bookseller in hope of wealth? Why not, then, ply the trade as the specialized and fascinating job it is. Therein lies its greatest reward.

YOUNG CANADA BOOKSHELF

From her knowledge of the far north, Lillian Murray has written In the Track of the Huskies (McClelland and Stewart), a book of adventure for youngsters in the eight-to-12 category.

Illustrated by W. F. Phillips, the story is about a young English girl, Virginia Nixon, who accompanies her doctor-father to an arctic mission post where she strikes up friendships with the Eskimos.

The author provides a rather sketchy picture of Eskimo customs, preferring to depict a series of hair-raising episodes in which an evil witch doctor, preying on the fears and superstitions of the people, plays a central role until he meets his due.

Bottoms Up! Hawaiian Style

HONOLULU — One of the last strongholds of pure Hawaii still shakes a gentle hip here in Ulu Mau village, a Williamsburg in grass skirts five minutes from Waikiki.

Sutton

Unhurried Hawaiians sit in the centre court of a chief's village growing the plants, weaving the mats, stringing the flowers and pounding the poi as they were doing when Captain Cook first poked his head into these gentle islands back in 1778. No matter that a 25-storey building with a revolving restaurant on top rears its concrete tower through the clusters of ti leaves and lau hala trees. The ti leaves are still good for making a headache disappear, for cooling a fever, or making a fishing lure. Also handy as a traditional flag of truce in time of war.

Properly brewed, ti leaves can be distilled into a potent eyeball-crosser called okolehau. English translation: iron rump.

When whalers came in the 1820s they lent the islanders their big iron pots in which to brew the booze. To the poi-packed Hawaiians the pots resembled a derriere, or as they call it here, an okole. When drinking okolehau, the proper expression is Okole maluna, and that is to say, Bottoms up!

* * *

It is only 50 yards through the kukui trees to the highway where the tourists ride in from the wharves and the airport, smothered in leis and packed in their stretch-outs, a local term for an elongated limousine. And it's only another 50 yards beyond that to the giant Ala Moana shopping centre, a two-decked affair connected by outdoor escalators.

Signs warn barefoot types not to board the moving stairs without shoes. But here in Ulu Mau the Kukui trees still bear kukui nuts which are beaded together and used as candles. Or strung as a lei. Or crushed with lime and seaweed and salt and eaten as a relish. Or used for a laxative.

Poi is still being pounded in the ancient manner at Ulu Mau, using a carved piece of lava rock and a hardwood board that is handed down through the generations. The resident poi pounder at the village is a colorful character named Maiola Lokana, whose name means Jubilee Logan. Old Jubilee wears a necklace of sea urchin shells and wiliwili nuts and samples freely from the mud-colored mush. "Better than a bubble gum," says Jubilee.

Chewing sugar cane is not only better than bubble gum, it is also better than poi, a local delicacy which tourists find tastes like puree of old socks put through a blender. Sugar cane, on the other hand, cleans the teeth and comes in 60 different flavors. Not only a dessert and a toothbrush, sugar cane grows leaves that can be used for thatching a house. The blossoms are nifty for weaving a hat.

In the medicinal garden the villagers are growing ava, which in the early days was chewed by the high priest, who spat it into a bowl from which everyone later drank. A Polynesian Miltown; ava juice numbs the whole body into a delicious state of tranquility. Especially if you think about its method of manufacture.

Twice a week lessons in the Hawaiian language are given at Ulu Mau. The class, a conglomeration of many races, sits on the family mat while the teacher, with a flower tucked behind her ear, sits cross-legged on the ground, occasionally illustrating her lecture with notes written on a portable blackboard. Students learn such useful Hawaiian phrases as "The man saw the black monkey," which is Polynesian for "Ou est la plume de ma tante?"

* * *

Hawaiian is a commonsense language and, contrary to opinion on the mainland, is not always accompanied by steel guitars. When the modern world bursts upon soft Polynesia, the Hawaiians are equal to it, at least in language.

When the airplane first made its appearance the Hawaiians called it, as they still do, the manulele. Manu means birds and lele means jump. When one manulele company came out with a little flight bag labelled PAA, the Hawaiians thought that was pretty clever, because in the native tongue paa means catch or hold.

On the face of it the life in a village like Ulu Mau may have seemed like a female utopia. The men did all the cooking. They also ate by themselves with all the boy children over six. But under the kapu system (Hawaiian for tabu), women were denied such delectables as pork, coconut, shark, whale and stingray. Also all kinds of bananas except two. Everybody slept in the same house on soft mats, living mostly off the fat of the land, but commoners still had to work one day in every five in the king's taro patch. That income tax idea had a real early start.

Vancouver Festival Notes

On television, in movies and on the stage, there are actors trained in New York at the Herbert Berghof Studio, but British Columbia residents will have a chance to see first hand just what this man Berghof can do when he directs two Vancouver International Festival dramas, "Men, Women and Angels", Aug. 14 to 19, at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre, and "Do You Know the Milky Way?", Aug. 18 to Sept. 2, at the International Theatre.

Mr. Berghof and his wife, Uta Hagen, star of "Men, Women and Angels", run the acting studio in Greenwich Village and from this studio have emerged "Oscar" winners and nominees, some of television's favorite western stars, at least one popular comedian, and several Festival actors.

Eva Marie Saint, who won an Academy Award for her role opposite Marlon Brando in "On the Waterfront", studied there, so did Jack Lemon, nominated for an "Oscar" this year for "The Apartment", Jo Van Fleet of "I'll Cry Tomorrow", was a student too.

To the television world, Mr. Berghof has added Robert Culp as Texas Ranger, Hoby Gillman in "Trackdown"; Richard Boone, once "Medic", now "Palladin"; Darren McGavin of the "Mike Hammer" series, and Steve McQueen as bounty hunter Josh Randell in "Wanted, Dead or Alive". There are others, too, like Rod Steiger, Betsy Von Furstenberg, Anne Bancroft, Geraldine Page and Peggy Class.

On the comedy side, credit the man with the telephone, Shelley Berman.

When Mr. Berghof directs "Men, Women and Angels", his cast will not only include his wife, Miss Hagen, but former students, Fritz Weaver, Olga Bellin and Paul Roebling will star in the satirical comery. Hal Holbrook, last year's Mark Twain, will star in the other play, "Do You Know the Milky Way?"

Russ Artists in London Provide Note of Irony

By PATIENCE GRAY

LONDON—This city is having a real Russian shake-up. Suddenly we have the Leningrad ballet at Covent Gardens, then the Soviet trade fair at Earls Court—with the spaceman thrown in for good measure and taking the town by storm—and as if this were not enough, a whole galaxy of Russian artists jamming the Royal Festival Hall to the roof night after night.

If we have felt bewildered at Earls Court to see ordinary Russian electricians and technicians working away among the scaffolding and the fuse-boxes to prepare the exhibition side by side with our own people it was somehow because it all seemed too good to be true.

FELLOW-FEELING

There they were, helping each other, collaborating in what must inevitably come out as punchy propaganda for Communism, and yet, behind the exhilaration of this spontaneous working spirit lay the irony that this apparently genuine fellow-feeling could find no common ground at political level.

One felt: "Here are these fine fellows, and here also is the abyss." The thing is that it is almost impossible to tie up these cheerful comrades with their long grey overalls, and their feather dusters, with political realities.

At the Festival Hall all is different. The Soviet pianist Sviatoslav Richter exists in another realm, where there is freedom for the human spirit.

Richter, when Pasternak died, went down to his country home and, ignoring the gathered journalists and Pasternak's political disgrace, played Beethoven for hours in mourning for his friend.

NO CONCESSION

Richter plays with an ascetic nobility and not as a virtuoso performer, but for music's sake. He started his series of recitals (the first time he has played in this country) with a no-concession-to-popular-taste program, one Haydn sonata and then undiluted Prokofiev.

The audience gave him a great ovation and streamed down to the platform wonder-struck. English musicians left the concert hall in a rapturous state.

Even with Sunday for sober reflection, the critics were still elated by Monday. "A player never surpassed in technique and intellectual force," said the Daily Mail; "breath-taking experiences," said the Daily Telegraph. Naturally the Daily Worker (though giving its critic only a few foot-of-the-page paragraphs) claimed "an evening never to be forgotten," but even the staid old Times had an ecstatic whole column.

EXCEPTION

The only curious exception seemed to be The Guardian's celebrated critic Neville Cardus, who found Richter "rather small in style and tone" and his playing "provincial."

After Richter came the extraordinary young 'cellist Rostropovich, with his golden Amati 'cello playing the Schumann and Shostakovich 'cello concerti like an angel. His lyrical playing of Schumann reduced our English pianist Denis Matthews to tearful incoherence by the interval.

Shostakovich's work he played with an intensity and fire (in actual fact he conducted this thrilling work although Charles Groves was on the rostrum) which reduced his bow to shreds and brought the audience to the wildest expressions of enthusiasm.

The Russians have brought into London these marvellous musicians whose work bears no mark of politics or propaganda because they are dedicated to the exposition of universally valid themes.

It makes it all the harder and sadder for ordinary individuals to reconcile these festivals of shared experience with what goes on at the world-dividing, world-destroying level.

Movie Recovery Spurred By Boom in Musicals

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Family-type movie musicals are coming back in the wake of widespread complaints that Hollywood films have become over-sexed.

The major studios have laid out millions of dollars to buy such properties as "The Music Man," "Camelot" and "West Side Story." And with movie attendance picking up steadily again, there is much optimism that filmtown is returning to the type of pictures that made

Here are the main reasons given for why Hollywood is undergoing a musical "boom" for the first time in about a decade:

TV musical shows are generally unimpressive. Now is the time to cash in on the market of persons who enjoy musicals — especially the vast audience of housewives who like to go out at night.

Religious and civic groups have made themselves felt in movietown with their complaints about the subject matter of recent films.

FOREIGN MARKET

Perhaps most important: In recent years, the foreign market has brought in more than half the receipts of Hollywood films, one of the top reasons being the trend of Americans to stay at home and watch TV.

Musicals have not been popular overseas, in great part because the lyrics are not understood. Therefore, musicals took a back seat. Now, however, many Americans are tired of seeing the same old movies repeated on TV. The result:

There is a feeling in the industry that Americans can be lured back to movies with the right appeal. Statistics show such a trend already is under way. Therefore, as the American audience becomes more important again at the box-office, the movie industry must cater to it.

How will Hollywood sell musicals to its still vast foreign market?

"Foreign stars are being used," said Charles Walters, who will direct "By the Beautiful Sea," a musical, for MGM.

Added composer Meredith Wilson, who wrote "The Music Man".

"They're also trying to get the biggest stars into musicals, to sell them abroad. We had to fight like the devil to keep our leading part for Robert Preston, who played it on Broadway.

"These fellows in the movie business are very astute businessmen. But they are intimidated by the overseas market. Why, I understand that when 'The King and I' was sent abroad, songs were taken out."

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Out of Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(BB) "THE LADIES' MAN" (Capitol)—If, as the credits state, Jerry Lewis, in adidtion to being the film's star, was also director, producer and writer of Paramount's Technicolor "Ladies' Man," then he has no one to blame but himself for the results.

It isn't that the hour-and-three-quarter farce is devoid of humor. Actually there are several quite funny scenes and the main girls' boarding house set is a breath-whistler. But Lewis rooters—and I am one—cannot help but feel that the multi-talented comedian didn't have much to work with in the first place, and, secondly, didn't do too well with what he had.

There is an all-important invisible line in comedy, as most will agree. Stay to one side of it and you're funny. Move across it and you're silly. In "The Ladies' Man" Lewis is too often silly. In fact there are some scenes in which he breaks furniture needlessly, makes grotesque faces without reason that cause one to wonder if even the very youngest and most naive moppets in the audience will think him truly funny.

The plot, briefly, is that after losing his fiance to a muscular giant, Lewis swears off girls for the rest of his life, leaves home and ventures to Hollywood. There he is hoodwinked into accepting a job as all-around assistant in a girl's boarding house owned by Helen Traubel.

Right off the bat, of course, Miss Traubel has leagued her curvaceous guests into a conspiracy to keep him on the premises. What with this wile and wile Lewis soon realizes that he is doomed to remain at his post for a long, long wile.

But dad who is taking junior to the show might be forgiven for wondering what with all this pulchritude about if the escape-minded Lewis isn't completely off his rocker. A slim sort of love story gradually becomes apparent during the shenanigans as of all the beautiful femmes only Pat Stanley seems to understand the shy one's needs.

One thing, however, and it's a big thing for parents these days. The picture is bare of double-entendre dialogue and risque situations. Lewis' films are always clean-cut, if not clear-cut.

When Jerry Lewis is supplied with the right vehicle I honestly believe that he is without peer in his own particular field of comedy. But somehow or other these vehicles, of late, seem mighty difficult to come by.

This is a pity.

Como's Son Weds

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Beauty queen Melanie Adams Friday married Ronald Como, son of singer Perry Como, in a quiet ceremony limited to friends and relatives.

SHERLOCK IN MUSIC

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The Sherlock Holmes detective stories may end up on the stage as subject matter for a Broadway musical.

Director Richard Quine has acquired, along with Ken Hyman and Wolf Mankowitz, the rights to use the stories in a musical, with S. N. Behrman writing the book.

EXPLORER CITED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The National Geographic Society awarded French undersea explorer Jacquez-Yves Cousteau the Hubbard Medal for his motion picture, "The Silent World."

The commendation cited Cousteau for "his outstanding work in furthering public understanding of the world beneath the sea."

LITTLE LEAGUE TOURNAMENT

Hammer's Pounding Sends Nats to Final

EPHRATA, Wash.—Victoria Nationals and Oregon Trail of Portland meet today to decide the winner of the Northwest Little League baseball championships.

Victoria ousted Elko County, Nev., 11-7, Friday night and Oregon Trail won, 6-0, over Bellview, Wash.

HAMMER HERO

Bob Hammer was the big gun for Victoria as he slammed a bases-loaded home run in the bottom of the seventh to break a 7-7 tie and guarantee the win. He also clouted a solo home run in the fifth.

The Nevada team was powered by Richard Barrows, with a two-run round-circuit clout in the fourth.

The loser batteries, pitcher Carlos Concha and catcher Joey Lopez, traded jobs in the third inning after Victoria scored two runs to take a 6-1 lead.

The big seventh inning started as John Wilson led off with a single, Bob Lemon walked and Don Pletch beat out a bunt to set the stage for Hammer's big hit.

Victoria spurted to a quick lead, scoring two runs in the first inning on a walk, a single by Dave Graas and two errors, two runs in the second inning on four errors and two more in the third on a walk and a home run by Pletch.

It seemed enough, but Brian Brossard ran into control trouble which contributed heavily as Elko scored two runs in the fourth, two more in the fifth and finally pulled even with two runs in the sixth, the last one on a bases-loaded walk.

Brossard settled down in the seventh although he issued his eighth base on balls with two out. He ended the inning with his 13th strikeout.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Everyone who likes to make a dollar betting on football games is hereby ordered to stop wrapping Friday's fish in this corner of the newspaper and to pay attention.

The life you save may be your own.

Here today the Times proposes to offer x-spurt prediction on weekend Western Football Conference activity.

I had intended to throw in a few good horse tips as well. But this project was abandoned in the interests of safety. My safety. Some of my horses haven't been running too fast lately. In fact they've been pretty horsey.

As well, there were going to be some fine phrases on the state of baseball. Since the Yankees and the Dodgers are going to meet in the World Series there doesn't seem any point in discussing it.

Anyone who doesn't care for my particular type of World Series wagers at his own risk. I'm having enough trouble avoiding bankruptcy without worrying about people who THINK they know something about baseball.

The decision to discuss football authoritatively was not an easy one. For one thing I couldn't find a complete WFC Interlocking schedule. After much research it was located between the "chess" and "ladies' lawn bowling" files—which is precisely where I had placed it so I would remember where it was.

Handicapping More Hazardous Now

The interlocking part of this season's gridiron menu makes handicapping more hazardous than before. Add the four eastern teams to the five western teams and you stretch the odds against you.

But an interlocking schedule, agreed the various managements, was just the thing to pull Canada together—you know, Canadian football for Canadians. That it also happens to be the best way to save the poorer members from insolvency of course never crossed their fuzzy little minds. Simply a coincidence, actually.

But leave us not dally. Eyes down and dial your bookie.

Tonight—B.C. at Ottawa: The Roughriders clipped the Leos at Vancouver. But they needed a late fumble to do it. Frank Clair, the astute Ottawa coach, has a good offence, a good defence and a problem. He must contain B.C.'s Willie Fleming—and if he's ready and right—Ed Vereb. The latter gives B.C. a halfback punch. Sentiment leans to the Lions. But you can't eat sentiment. OTTAWA.

Monday—Saskatchewan at Edmonton: Steve Owen, rotund, jolly coach of the Prairie footballers, is apt to lose weight and some of his jolly if Edmonton is in form. The Esks are a jolly, talented bunch, led by a Mr. John D. Parker, who is getting so old and crotchety he can barely engineer or score two or three touchdowns without perspiring freely. The ball can take a funny bounce and that's the kind of luck Saskatchewan needs to win this one. EDMONTON.

Toronto Hurting at Quarterback

Monday—Winnipeg at Toronto: If Tobin Rote was healthy Toronto would get the call. He shoved his passing mitt into a chunk of Manitoba turf and his hand lost. This leaves the Argos without a quarterback. Their No. 2 signal-caller, Knobby Wirkowski, later was physically disassembled. This leaves the job open for the water boy or Pierre Berton. Berton talks a good game but Winnipeg plays a better one. WINNIPEG.

Tuesday—B.C. Lions at Hamilton: The players call these split (Saturday-Tuesday) affairs "suicide weekends." Little wonder. If the Lions have anything left after wresting Ottawa, they could live it up at Hamilton, where Jim Trimble is not worry-free. He experimented with everybody but the club president in losing to the Lions at Vancouver; has the best end in Canadian football in Prince Hal Patterson. If the Lions are going to win on the road this time around, Hamilton could be the spot. LIONS.

That should be sufficient to allow you to place your bets. If it isn't have a go at this order of finish in the Western Conference . . . 1, Edmonton; 2, Winnipeg; 3, B.C. Lions; 4, Calgary; 5, Saskatchewan. In the east . . . 1, Ottawa; 2, Toronto; 3, Montreal; 4, Hamilton.

One last point . . . if this prognosis is faulty, don't call us. We'll call you . . . from Dienbienphu.

Kroll's 62 Good for Lead

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Ted Kroll, 42-year-old veteran, Friday shot an exciting 62 for a 36-hole total of 129 to lead at the half-way mark in the Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Kroll collected nine birdies in his 30-32, nine-under-par round. His 129 was 13 under par.

Kroll's most serious challengers were Bob Goetz, a co-leader Thursday, Phil Rodgers and Frank Boynton. They were tied at 133.

Arnold Palmer, 1960 winner, had a 36-hole total of 135.

Kroll's 62 was the best in a Professional Golfers Association tourney since 1954 when Tommy Bolt recorded a 60.

Al Balding of Toronto was in a six-way tie for 5th place at 136.

Son Greg has own way of congratulating Daddy Warren Spahn after lefthander won 300th major league decision on Friday.

Spahn Beats Pressure, Now It's M Boys' Turn

By United Press International

They dusted off a spot for Warren Spahn in baseball's Hall of Fame today and left some room—just in case—for Mickey Mantle and/or Roger Maris.

Spahn wrote his own ticket to the baseball shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., Friday night when he became the 13th pitcher in major league history to win 300 games.

Spahn, a fabulous 40-year-old automaton, said "the pressure was terrific" as he pitched Milwaukee Braves to a 2-1 victory over Chicago Cubs.

AGONY OVER

For him, at least, the agony is over. But it's just beginning to build up for Mantle and Maris as they keep coming closer and closer to the greatest baseball record of them all—Babe Ruth's 60 home runs within a single season.

Mantle, who admits he's dog tired, hit his 44th homer to move 15 games ahead of Ruth's record pace of 1927. And Maris socked his 42nd homer to go 12 games up.

All this slugging helped New York Yankees extend their winning streak to nine games with a 12-5 victory over the Washington Senators that increased their American League lead to four games.

TAKE BACK SEAT

Mantle, Maris, the Yankees and everyone else in baseball, however, had to take a back seat to Spahn.

The veteran Milwaukee ace, who won his first big league game on July 14, 1946, at the age of 25, held the Cubs to six hits but was locked in a 1-1 struggle with young Jack Curtis until Gino Cimoli homered over the leftfield screen with one out in the eighth inning.

Spahn confessed he sweated plenty in the ninth before joining Lefty Grove and Eddie Plank as the only left-handers to reach the 300-victory mark.

Spahn made Andre Rodgers his fifth strikeout victim to open the ninth and then got a bit of a scare when Jerry Kindall hit a low line drive that Cimoli caught on his knees.

A Milwaukee crowd of 40,775, all rooting for Spahn, groaned as pinch hitter Ernie Banks was safe at first when third baseman Eddie Mathews threw his ground ball over first baseman Joe Adcock's head.

But Spahn then got pinch hitter Jim McAnany on a fly ball to right fielder Hank Aaron and it was all over.

That gave Spahn a season record of 12-12 and he was so delighted at reaching the 300-milestone that he popped for champagne for the writers covering the game.

AMATEUR FINALISTS

Bridesmaid Faces A 'Heavy' Teddy

EDMONTON (CP)—Gary Cowan of Kitchener, trying to erase a reputation as a perennial bridesmaid, clashes today with tenacious Teddy Homenuik of Winnipeg for the Canadian Amateur golf championship.

Cowan, tall, young blond from Kitchener, who has finished as runnerup in the last two amateur title fights, eliminated steady Jeff McGrath of Oshawa 2 and 1 Friday to advance to the final.

Homenuik, stocky, dark-complexioned Manitoba champion, played his usual driving, pressure-creating game to crack the favorite of the Alberta gallery, Bob Wylie of Calgary, and win 3 and 1 in the other 36-hole semi-final.

"I guess it's getting to be almost a routine getting into the amateur final" said Cowan, who lost 4 and 3 to Calgary's Keith Alexander in the 1960 event and one up to Johnny Johnston of Vancouver in 1959.

"This may be the year I win—I sure hope so."

Cowan's "always-the-bridesmaid" record extends beyond the Canadian Amateur. He finished second in the Ontario Amateur in the same 1959 and 1960 seasons, and took the place position in the Ontario Open last year.

His only major tournament victories are the Canadian and Ontario junior titles in 1956.

Homenuik himself has a second-place finish to improve upon in today's match. As a skinny 23-year-old, he advanced to the 1957 Canadian Amateur final against crafty veteran Nick Weslock, who took him into camp 9 and 8.

SEES IMPROVEMENT

"I've improved a lot since 1957," Homenuik said Friday. "I'm playing better golf—much better—and I'm older, with more experience.

"And besides, I'm bigger now," said the five-foot, five-inch 141-pounder with a broad grin. "No kidding, I was only 130 pounds in 1957."

Junior Derby Aug. 27

Junior Isaac Waltons will blanket Saanich Inlet Aug. 27 when the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association stages its annual junior derby.

Officials expect a large entry when the derby starts at 7 a.m. It will wind up at 2.

Top prize will be a record player, donated by Eaton's. Second prize is a transistor radio, while a complete fishing outfit constitutes the third award.

MEMBERSHIPS AVAILABLE

Only junior members of the VSIAA are eligible for the top three prizes, but memberships cost only 50c. They may be obtained at any Saanich Inlet boathouse or city sporting goods store along with free derby tickets.

Entrants are also reminded that the usual VSIAA rules will govern those competing for the top three prizes. The youngster must handle the rod by himself, with no assistance other than in netting the salmon.

There are expected to be about 60 prizes up for grabs, so it means that almost every child who catches a salmon should receive some sort of award.

P.S.—There's free ice cream and pop for every entrant.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP)—C. Max Bell of Calgary, co-owner of Alberta Ranches Limited, has been elected president of the Balmoral Jockey Club.

The announcement was made Friday following a meeting of the board of directors of Balmoral, whose racing activities are co-ordinated with those of Arlington Park and Washington Park.

Fraser Leads Title Assault By Canadians

OTTAWA—Canada's tennis prospects soared Friday as Canadian youngsters took the major spoils in the 14th annual Canadian Open junior tennis championships.

Canadian boys and girls under 18, outclassed in recent years by Americans, won five titles, including the featured junior men's and women's singles, in the week-long tournament at the Rideau Tennis Club.

Today they were scheduled to add a sixth crown in the all-Canadian junior mixed doubles final at Lake Placid, N.Y. Because of a severe thunderstorm halting afternoon play in Ottawa Friday, the match was transferred to the Adirondack resort where the finalists were to compete today in the annual Canada-New York tennis tournament.

American entrants, who comprised about one-fifth of the 300 competitors and who captured nine events in the 1960 Canadian championships, had to settle for only five titles this year.

FRASER'S TRIPLE

John Fraser, a lanky 17-year-old from Victoria, and Vicki Berner, 16, of Vancouver, Canada's top junior woman player, took five closed and open titles between them.

Fraser won the open junior men's title over Brian Flood, 17, of London, Ont., in three straight sets of 6-2, 6-2, 6-0, the closed men's title last Monday over Claude Savaria, 17, of Montreal, and shared with Savaria in the men's open doubles title decided Friday. That made Fraser the only triple winner in this year's championships.

Miss Berner took the women's open title, drubbing Faye Urban, 16, of Windsor 6-1, 6-1 in their final match. She won the closed women's title over Miss Urban earlier this week.

TO MICHIGAN

The remaining four open singles titles were captured by players from the Hoxie school of tennis in Hamtramck, Mich. Peaches Bartkowicz, 12, defeated Merilyn Shapiro, 15, of Syracuse, N.Y., 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 to win the girls' under-15 singles. Chuck Brainard, 13, outclassed Trippy Cahn of Pikesville, Md., 6-0, 6-0, for the boys' singles crown. John Hainline, 13, set back Jacques Crotty, 13, of Montreal 6-0, 6-3 in the juvenile boys' under-13 event. Thursday the juvenile girls' under-13 title was won by 13-year-old Melody Kiertans, Hamtramck.

STIFF OPPOSITION

Fraser and Savaria were given a hard fight by Andre Tielemans, 17, of Montreal and Richard Kolker, 18, of Pikesville, Md., but won 9-7, 6-3, 8-6.

In the women's doubles Brenda Nunns, 16, of Toronto, and Miss Urban defeated the Halifax pair, Judy Shakespeare and Linda Lee, 6-3, 10-12, 6-2.

The only title not decided today was the mixed doubles. It ran behind schedule and will be played today in Lake Placid, N.Y., where the champions of this tournament are meeting in the annual Canada-New England exhibition matches.

A heavy afternoon storm halted a semi-final match in which Hedy Rutzebeck, 16, of Vancouver and Savaria, faced Tielemans and Miss Urban. The winners play Fraser and Miss Berner for the title.

MARY STEWART
. . . record-beater

World Mark Beaten

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mary Stewart, 15-year-old Canadian champion, broke the world record by three-tenths of a second today in a qualifying heat of the 100-metre butterfly in the women's national AAU outdoor swimming and diving championships.

The Vancouver girl was timed in 1:08.8. This bettered the listed world mark of 1:09.1 set by Nancy Ramey of Mercer Island, Wash., at Chicago on Sept. 2, 1959.

This was the second world record set in the nationals in the 50-metre Kelly pool. Friday night Donna de Varona, 14-year-old Olympian from Lafayette, Calif., cracked her own world record by two seconds in the 400-metre individual medley with a time of 5:34.5.

FAST TIMES

Susan Doerr, of the Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club, also smashed the old butterfly record with a time of 1:09.0 in a later heat. It took a time of 1:11.9 to make one of the eight qualifying berths for the finals.

Carolyn Wood, Olympian of the Multnomah A.C., Portland, failed to qualify although she won her heat in 1:12.9.

The finals of the butterfly will be held this afternoon.

The big news in Friday's program was Chris von Saltza's upset in the 100-metre freestyle. Robyn Johnson, an unknown from Arlington, Va., won the event. Miss Stewart placed sixth in the classy field.

Miss Johnson and Miss Von Saltza both were timed in 1:03.2 in a blanket finish. It took officials about 30 minutes to sort out the placings.

SAANICH STARTS

Saanich Thistles will hold their first senior soccer practice Tuesday at Hampton Park at 7 p.m. Former players or any others interested are invited to attend.

QUALIFYING ROUND ON MONDAY

Day of Reckoning For Pony Leaguers

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—Now everyone's in the same boat.

Victoria, Honolulu and San Jose, Calif., all have lost one game in the Pony League regional baseball tourney here and, to win, need to emerge victorious in two games today.

San Jose jumbled the record Friday by upsetting Honolulu, 7-4, when they were in a position of either winning or being knocked out of the double-loss elimination tournament.

That meant that in today's games Victoria was to meet either of the other two teams in the first game and the winner of that would meet the remaining team in the final.

Under the schedule, Victoria—which lost in the second round—was actually in the best position to win.

The Carnarvons, bombed 13-1 on Thursday by Honolulu, had a day to recover and rest their pitchers.

Manager Evan Williams indicated that they would probably go with chunky Bruce McKenzie in the first game, saving Gord Strongman for their ace in the finale.

Winner of the tournament goes to Los Angeles for a best-of-three series against the southwest champions for the right to enter the four-team world series in Washington, Pa.

Rain Wrecks Aussies' Bid

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Bad weather ruined the last day of the cricket match here between Warwickshire and the Australian touring team Friday, and the game ended in a draw.

Rain prevented play before lunch, and then after Mike Smith had set the Australians to make 139 runs in 95 minutes, a 10-minute delay for bad light ruled out any chance of the touring team winning.

Warwickshire resumed Friday at 94 for two wickets—a lead of 49—and added 89 in 85 minutes before Smith declared at 183 for four.

. . . With Eye on Target and an Eye on Weather

CONNAUGHT RANGES (CP)—The threat of rain and a thunderstorm hovered over these army ranges today as riflemen took their final shots in the tough Governor-General's Match.

Determined competitors were to fire 20 rounds at targets 900 yards away, the winner to receive the prized Governor-General's Medal.

If the storm held off, shooting conditions were expected to be good. The weather forecast was for cloudy conditions with winds up to 15 miles an hour.

The match is the last event of the annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association's matches.

Wing Cmdr. J. A. Gordon of RCAF Station, Penhold, Alta., and Capt. H. C. Hawes of the Royal Canadian Service Corps, Toronto, held the lead after the first rounds. They both fired 148s of a possible 150 in Friday's first and second stages.

Lieut. G. T. Martal, adjutant of the British cadet team and one of the favorites in the match, was one point back of the leaders.

Fran Morse of Victoria led B.C. shooters in the match, scoring 143 to finish 15th for the day. F. Giboult was 18th with the same score.

Other Victoria scores were: CPO Walter Burch 139, CPO Kennedy 138, Lieut. Grivel 137, Lieut. Learoyd 137, WO Green 136, Sgt. Frank Drysdale 135, Sgt. Mary Robinson 135, PO Arthur Wood 135, L/S Peden 133 and Maj. A. E. Evans 132.

Cadet Sgt. Ron Buckler is third in the Cadet Bisley Aggregate with 617. Other Victoria cadets stand as follow: 32nd, J. Atkins 574; 46th, G. W. Pash 563; 62nd, J. C. Leonard 535.

Morse also led west coast shooters in the hunt for the Grand Aggregate title.

He stands no chance of winning, being 49th in a field of 600, but his total of 629 points is four points better than that of Ed Zwolak of PPCLI, who is 79th.

Other Grand Aggregate placings see Lieut. George Grivel, 115th, with 621; CPO Dunc Kennedy, 118th, with 620; Maj. A. M. T. Spittal, 119th, with 620; L/S Sandy Peden, 126th, with 620; WO Smokey Green, 129th, with 620; Lieut. Eileen Learoyd, 167th, with 616, and E. Ehret, 191st, with 613.

Spring Setup Less Effective On Coho Hunt

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Nothing is more exhilarating than running into a good coho bite.

That is, of course, if you get the strikes.

Friend wondered the other day why he wasn't getting a touch on his rods when boats all around him were netting the scrappy fighters left and right.

Fedoruk

The friend and his partner, both comparative novices, joined The Great Armada that hit some very fine fishing Wednesday and Thursday evenings in Oak Bay waters.

They returned to the dock with heads hanging low. Most every other boat managed to bring something in, but not my friend. Yet the same chap had experienced better-than-average luck in the spring-hunting department earlier this year.

It annoyed him that he couldn't hit coho despite the fact that he was on the water in plenty of time and certainly was in the right spot.

His setup was a Minnow-Teaser, dodger and eight ounces; his partner was running straight Minnow-Teaser with six ounces. Both were running about 50 feet of line.

Our party sported the same setup except for the fact that we used small strip. Our party pulled in five coho—the largest two running 10:10 and 6:10.

He missed some of the fun because of one mistake. He went coho hunting with the same gear that proved so effective on spring salmon.

The minnows he used appeared overly large. Had he selected smaller minnow, he might have enjoyed success.

As well, the leader on the pole sporting the flasher was about 30 inches in length. Chaps who enjoy greatest success with coho are inclined to shorten their leaders to about 24 inches.

On top of this, our friend trolled extreemely slowly. Coho seem to prefer an active lure, and he would have been well advised to increase the speed—just as long as the dodger didn't roll.

He went for smaller-sized bait Friday, shortened the leader and trolled at an increased speed.

Friday's bite wasn't as hot as it was the previous two evenings, but the friend wound up with two coho—the first of that species that he caught this year.

Passing comments of a plug-maker passing through our town:

"Making plugs," says Bill (Lucky Louie) Minser of Port Angeles, "is like making a violin. You can't beat wood. Plugs made of wood are much truer than those made of plastic."

(But, like everybody else, Minser is engulfed in the wave of progress. He makes his plugs out of plastic because the price of wood is prohibitive.)

"Business," he says, "is great. I've just shipped 2,000 plugs to Uranium City . . .

"Say, where's Uranium City?"

(Now we know. Those giant lake trout in Northern Saskatchewan—that's where Uranium City is, William—eat the same food as our Pacific salmon.)

Oak Bay's highliners must be in hiding because the ladies are catching most of the big ones there . . . Mrs. Mabel White caught a 9.09 coho and Dr. J. B. Roberts (an exception this ladies' day) landed an 11.13 coho.

Pretty Blondes Set Up Attractive Golf Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—If experience is the key, defending champion Judy Darling of Montreal should rate as a slight favorite in today's 36-hole match-play final against Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver for the Canadian women's open golf championship.

Miss Darling, 24-year-old Montrealer who beat Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria on the 21st hole, is appearing in her eighth open and Miss Hitchens, a frail 17-year-old high school student, in her fourth.

The two pretty, blue-eyed blondes, who will make one of the most attractive finals ever, reached the championship on the strength of some spine-tingling golf Friday.

Miss Hitchens, who a week ago won the Canadian junior title, defeated Marjorie Burns, ninth-ranked among United States amateurs, 2 and 1 in the top half of the semi-final. The shy Canadian, steady from the tee out, threw an approximate medal round of 71 for the 17 holes at the veteran Greensboro, N.C., star.

She is the first B.C. golfer ever to reach the finals.

Miss Darling, although never behind in her match with Mrs. Todd, had to survive two great comebacks by the Victoria golfer. Judy won the first three holes but Mrs. Todd squared the match before the turn.

After 16 holes, the defending champion held a two-hold lead only to run into a trap and lose the 17th then watch Mrs. Todd can a 15-foot pressure putt for a birdie on the 18th.

Mrs. Todd lost the match at the 21st when she decided to gamble on her third shot and hit for the flag after pushing her second into trees along the fairway. The ball hit a tree and dropped. Her fourth was within 10 feet of the cup and her fifth rimmed it.

Miss Darling, on in three, two-putted for a safe par and victory.

Mrs. G. C. Harris of Victoria won the fourth flight final Friday, defeating Mrs. J. A. Beaton of Vancouver, 4 and 3.

'Power Hunger' Claims for U.S. Misleading?

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

With Premier Bennett being so generous in his offer of B.C. power to California this week during opening ceremonies of B.C.'s new trade and travel centre in San Francisco, perhaps his hosts felt it might have been churlish at this time to bring up the question of whether in the near or distant future California will indeed need to import electricity from this area.

Gordon Bell

Everyone in B.C. these days has got into such a habit of qualifying every reference to California (and, in fact, the whole Pacific Northwest) with the words "power-hungry" that it is past time for an objective review of the facts concerning markets for surplus B.C. power.

Bringing this forcibly to mind is the fact that the U.S. House of Representatives recently killed off a $100 million atomic power plant plan at Hanford, Wash., primarily on the grounds that there was no foreseeable market for the power.

Outstrip Demand

Even witnesses from the Bonneville Power Administration, an integral part of the vast U.S. public power system, were forced to concede in hearings before a House committee that, even under the most adverse weather conditions on record, power generating capacity of the northwest region would fall short of estimated demand by no more than 1 per cent over the next half decade. With reasonably normal weather, capacity would continue to outstrip demand for longer than that period.

This was a tough point for Bonneville to concede because it has been, primarily, on the evidence of U.S. federal power spokesmen that the "power-hungry" northwest and California image has been built up.

This is politics and not economics. The Kennedy administration is avowedly in favor of building public power projects anywhere in the country where room can be found for them and there is more than a suspicion that where economic facts do not fit the public power picture, the facts are bent.

Big Question

One important question which arises concerning the Kennedy administration's public power plans is this: Is it not possible that the claims of "power hunger" have been misleading in other than purely economic terms? Is it not possible that any power "vacuum"—fictitious or real—will be filled by U.S. public power, leaving no room for import of foreign power?

Certainly it seems doubtful that Interior Secretary Udall and his cohorts have done all their propagandizing on the need for power for the benefit of B.C.

Mr. Udall is pushing hard for a multi-million dollar western U.S. grid system extending the Bonneville-California line eastward to tie into Hoover Dam and the huge Colorando River storage project in Arizona.

Although the plan is not yet difinite, the grid apparently would be expanded into the Misseuri River power system and from there to the Southwestern Power Administration in Texas and to the mighty Tennessee Valley Authority.

Giant Grid

Back in the west, Mr. Udall's power men are studying ways to tie in the billion-dollar Glen Canyon project on the Colorado River with Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming power and from there into the big grid.

If the present administration is able to push this massive complex through there can be no more talk of "power-hungry" areas. With load peaks varying from one area to another, there is little doubt but that the whole of the western United States will have all the power it can use for decades to come.

In addition to all this public power which Secretary Udall and his supporters are assiduously working for, there are great private projects under way.

Most significant of these is the Pacific Gas and Electric atomic plant to be completed in 1965 at Bodega Bay, north of San Francisco. If this 325,000-kilowatt station is as economical as PG and E engineers predict, it will be the key to solution of future California power needs.

There is a good possibility, of course, that Congress will not go for Mr. Udall's ambitious scheme.

Sentiment is hardening against public power in the U.S., as witness the Hanford plan defeat in the House despite strong endorsement from President Kennedy.

LIBERAL HITS SECRECY ON TAKEOVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Friday expropriation of the B.C. Electric Co. and assets of Peace River Development Ltd. by the provincial government was done in a secretive, arbitrary and undemocratic manner.

"Premier Bennett obviously will not permit any negotiations to ensure that justice is done for the taxpayers of B.C. on the one hand and the shareholders of B.C. Electric on the other," he said.

"The premier has been secretive and completely arbitrary," Mr. Perrault told a service club audience.

BCE Trading Resumption Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gordon Shrum said Friday that it will be two or three weeks before securities can be issued to trade for preferred stock in the B.C. Electric Company.

The president of the company that was taken over by the B.C. government last week, said he was overly-optimistic when he said earlier Friday that transfer rights on BCE preferred shares would be restored by next Wednesday.

When the government took over the company it said that securities would be issued to replace the $104,000,000 in preferred stock.

But since legislation was passed Aug. 3, retroactive until Aug. 1, in the legislature, no securities have been issued. The stock held by investors and bankers now is legally worthless because it is vested in the province.

LEGAL PROBLEMS

Dr. Shrum did not clear up what happens to shares purchased between Aug. 1 and 3 and those shares bought in the latter part of July for which transfer certificates were not issued before Aug. 1.

After a board meeting here he said: "It appears I was over-optimistic. There are legal difficulties which appear to make transfers of these shares impossible.

"However, the legal department of the company is working to prepare the issue of new securities as soon as possible. We hope we can be ready in three weeks."

Meanwhile, shareholders of the B.C. Power Corporation, until last week holding company of BCE, will be told the corporation will seek a better offer than $38 a common share from the government.

The nationalization legislation said if the Power Corporation desired the government would also take it over for $38 a common share.

A. Bruce Robertson, president of the corporation, said in a letter to stockholders the directors are not satisfied that $38 is adequate.

Offshore Oil Claims Fight to Be Delayed

OTTAWA (CP)—A slumbering federal-provincial dispute about ownership of offshore petroleum—or other minerals—is expected to stay that way until the actual harvest nears.

A fresh reminder of the offshore legal question came in the application of Shell Oil Company of Canada Ltd. for a federal exploration permit on 11 million acres of submerged land from Vancouver Island northward to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The federal government staked its claim to ownership of such lands for the first time in April last year in announcing new oil and gas regulations, tailored specifically for northern Canada.

Now, a report from Victoria inducates B.C. feels it has a superior claim. Other areas could cause trouble now or later—in Hudson Bay bordering Manitoba and Ontario or on the east coast provinces.

Both the federal and B.C. governments appear agreed to let sleeping dogs lie until at least something worth shouting about is located. Shell first approached the provincial government for clearance—which it got—and then came to Ottawa, where its application is being processed.

The view here is that the climax may not involve legal action by one government against another. It might result in one government suing the company concerned when it went to pay royalties to the other.

Aluminium Ltd. Earnings Show Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Aluminium Ltd. has reported net earnings in the first half of 1961 of $15,112,000 or 49 cents a share, compared with $21,819,000 or 71 cents a share in the corresponding period in 1960.

Consolidated sales and operating revenues were $250,322,000 compared with $255,814,000 in the first half of 1960.

Sales of aluminum totalled 331,000 tons for the first half of 1961 against 360,000 tons in the corresponding period last year.

President Nathanal V. Davis attributed the decline in earnings to the reduction in spot sales, and in sales of semi-fabricated products in the United Kingdom and Australia. He said sales to regular customers in Canada and the United States have increased.

Dull Week On Canadian Markets

By JOHN BELANGER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With one exception, this week's four days on the Toronto stock market was the dullest in recent months.

Tuesday brought a bit of excitement with the setting of a new high on the industrial index — 602.69. The rise was led by gains in papers and steels. The index pushed over the top Tuesday, the day after the holiday, in a continuation of last week's record-breaking trend.

Volume, however, remained low and the week's figure was a mere 6,442,000 shares.

The industrial index closed at 601.13, up .19 on the week.

The steel advance was led by small gains in Dominion Bridge which reached a new high of 20¼, and National Steel Company of Canada, Atlas and Algoma.

In the papers, Fraser took the lion's share by rising more than five points, while International followed close behind, up 3½. Both reached new highs in moderately active trading.

BANKS BETTER

Banks were somewhat better with Montreal, Nova Scotia and Royal all hitting highs, along with Argus Corporation in the financial institutions. All, however, backed down later in the week.

Refining oils and liquors were the weakest of the industrial groups. In the former, Texaco jumped 1½ while fractional losses went to Supertest, Trans-Canada, Trans Mountain, Interprovincial, BA and Alberta Gas Truck A.

Base metals were strong and most of the rise could be attributed to gains in golds and nickels, with the former holding the edge.

Budget Deficit $340,341,092

OTTAWA (CP)—A budgetary deficit of $340,421,092 for the 1960-61 fiscal year which ended last March 31 was reported Friday by Finance Minister Fleming's office.

It compares with his June 20 budget-speech forecast of a $345,000,000 deficit and with his original prediction, in last year's budget speech, of a $12,000,000 surplus. For the current year the government has budgeted for a $650,000,000 deficit.

The final accounting for 1960-61 showed budgetary revenues at $5,617,639,754, as against $5,289,751,209 in the previous fiscal year and Mr. Fleming's June 20 preliminary figure of about $5,616,000,000.

Expenditures rose to $5,958,060,846 from $5,702,861,053, and were about $3,000,000 less than forecast by Mr. Fleming in June. Defence took the biggest share at $1,537,966,276 compared with $1,532,504,546 in 1959-60.

The net federal debt rose during the year by $347,921,092 to $12,437,115,095.

The statement did not include the non-budgetary operations of the old age security fund. Preliminary figures released earlier showed the fund had tax receipts of $603,000,000 and made $592,000,000 in pension payments with the $11,000,000 surplus applied against previous temporary loans to the fund.

Personal income tax revenues rose to $1,711,159,573 from $1,369,643,704. This does not include $229,400,000 paid into the old age pension fund, as against $185,550,000 the year previous.

Corporation income tax payments increased to $1,276,628,380 from $1,142,879,702. Paid into the old age security fund were $103,500,000 in such tax revenues, a rise from $91,336,000.

$10 Million Outlay On Potash Project

CHICAGO (AP) — A $10,000,006 expansion plan at a potash mine project in Esterhazy, Sask., has been announced by International Minerals and Chemical Corp.

Initial production from the Canadian mine is expected by early summer of 1962 and refining facilities, already completed, will handle 420,000 tons of potash product annually.

The expansion of plant facilities would increase the mines annual output potential to 1,200,000 tons starting January, 1963, the company said.

Ted Wright Fights Don Fullmer Tonight on 4 at 7

Boston, Baltimore 10.55 A.M. Sunday; Reruns Plague Weekend Viewing

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

LET'S BE truthful about this weekend's viewing. Not only is it nothing very much it is simply nothing at all.

Riddled with re-runs, saturated with mediocrity, it offers negligible competition to gardening, fishing or just sitting quietly in the shade and reading a good book or listening to some of your favorite hi-fi selections.

Only the sports have a couple of offerings worthy of their notice.

BLOOD AND SWEAT

Danny's Key To Success? Hard Work

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Perhaps one of the secrets of success of The Danny Thomas Show is that it is invested with the blood, sweat and tears of its crew.

Crew members build emotionally toward D-day, which is every Friday, and when the week's program is finished, Danny and his top associates are depleted men—with one day to recover and then start all over.

"It's like opening night once a week," Thomas says.

The situation comedy now is going into its ninth season and is one of the two shows still made with the Live-On-Film technique Dezi Arnaz developed for I Love Lucy.

The cast rehearses each week's script as if it were to be a short stage play and then, before a studio audience of 250, performs for the people out front and, incidentally, the cameras.

The players are stimulated by the presence of the audience, so essential for comedy timing. The laughter heard on the show's sound track is the real thing.

Danny Thomas works on his show each week as if his career depended upon every detail of his performance.

Last Friday was a typical climax to the week's work. Among the earliest arrivals for the preliminary audience warm-up and program were Danny's wife, attractive red-haired Rosemarie; Frances Leonard, wife of Sheldon Leonard, his partner, producer and director, and Mildred Rio, wife of Eddie Rio, his production manager.

All members of the cast had started rehearsals on the completed script the previous Tuesday and had been working steadily—including an all-day dress rehearsal — up to Friday evening.

The program went off almost without a hitch. When it was over, the wives strolled into Danny's luxurious air-conditioned dressing room and waited for the husbands to finish a few necessary retakes.

Abundance

From Canada's vast forest lands, come more than 35 commercial species of softwoods and hardwoods . . . forest products to satisfy every individual taste or need. As our only renewable resource, wood offers the availability and abundance to fulfill the nation's ever-growing demands.

And, through modern tree farming as practised by the forest products industry, we can be assured of a continuous supply of timber for the future.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Cool of Evening Tempting But Gardener Must Work

By JACK BEASTALL

In the cool of a summer's evening there is an indefinable pleasure in relaxing in a comfortable chair and enjoying the perfume, the sights, and the sounds of the garden.

Jack

The big drawback is that the true gardener cannot sit still long enough to saturate the soul. No sooner is he settled than the eye alights on a weed which should be removed, a faded blossom that needs picking, or a plant in need of a stake. Before he realizes it, the chair is forsaken and he is back on his knees tending the plants he loves.

There is no doubting the truth in the old saying that a gardening job must be done when it is noticed or it will never be done at all, but once in a while it is good to overlook what has to be done, lay back in a chair, drink in the present and contemplate the future.

If the temptation to jump up and attend to this and that can be resisted long enough, it is possible that the mind may reach the point of questioning the amount of time needed to keep things in order. And once the body is relaxed, the desire will be for more leisure to enjoy the fruits of one's labor.

Most of us will admit that the garden is not arranged for labor-saving maintenance, for there has never been an over-all plan with this in mind.

Plants which have taken our fancy have been put wherever a space could be found, and many of the plants we have accumulated are no longer of sufficient interest to warrant the water, food, and time they consume.

It takes a total stranger with a fair knowledge of gardening to recognize the time-wasting points of a garden layout, and if we could only be a stranger in our own garden for a few hours we would certainly institute many changes.

As gardeners we live in the future. We enjoy now the work done last fall and spring, and the work we do today will provide enjoyment later in the season and in years to come.

Plan Fall Changes

Our work for now is to plan the changes to be made this fall. Labor Day weekend is only three weeks away, and in this area the holiday is the signal to gardeners to roll up their sleeves and remake their gardens.

After Labor Day there will be a short period of six to eight weeks in which to do all the moving, discarding, and rearranging of our plants. With less hours of daylight each week there will be little time for making plans and reaching decisions. These are things to do now.

The first step towards a labor-saving garden is discarding. Every garden contains material which would be better out of the way. We know it well enough, but still it remains.

Sentiment Hurts

Keeping plants of questionable merit for sentimental reasons is justifiable to a certain extent, but to maintain them solely because it "hurts" to throw a plant away is stretching sentiment to a point of unnecessary hours of work that could be devoted to leisurely enjoyment of the garden.

Part of my work has been advising on the remaking of gardens to reduce the labor of upkeep. It always involves the discarding of plants and it is surprising the number of gardeners who ask where, or to whom, the discarded plants may be donated.

Praiseworthy as this sentiment may be, few gardeners would want the kind of plants on the discard list, and fewer still of the plants could be successfully moved by the amateur. Therefore, discarding is something the gardener has to face in the interest of saving labor and having more time to enjoy the pleasures of a garden.

Factors Variable

The factors which will reduce labor of upkeep are different with every garden, and will depend on the present layout and the amount of time available for maintenance.

Lawns are not the time-savers they are thought to be. To maintain a weed-free, velvety lawn consumes more hours a year than any other gardening operation, and that is why so few true lawns are seen.

Reduction of the lawn area will be the answer in some cases, while in others elimination of lawn beds and narrow borders around the lawn will be a major labor-saving factor.

While annuals have a definite place where masses of color are needed in a short space of time, their continual use to the exclusion of other types of plants consumes too much time in the spring and fall and leaves a garden lacking in winter interest.

DRIVING MINUS LICENCE NETS 5TH CONVICTION

A fifth conviction for driving without a licence—and that was only the start—was handed Richard Lampman of Jordan River in city police court today.

Lampman, 19, was sentenced to one month on the licence infraction and received a further total of 15 months' imprisonment and $150 in fines for five other charges.

He was on ticket of leave from Haney Correctional Institute.

He was also given 14 months for obtaining a car by false pretences, one month for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, fined $50 each for careless driving, no insurance and failing to submit accident reports.

He was prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for two years.

He was arrested Aug. 2 after being involved in an accident only hours after obtaining the car from A and A Carmart, 2624 Quadra.

MONTE ROBERTS

Assorted items which may help you when the conversation lags, but I won't guarantee it.

You can start an argument with any old salt about the flags flying on the government ferries, which ply their way between Tsawwassen and Tsidney.

One old salt insists the flags are flown in the wrong positions.

Says the flag which is flying from the mainmast gaff is the provincial flag, and this isn't right. Says it should be the red ensign. Says there's even a law to this effect.

Also says the government ferries fly the red ensign at the stern while under way, and the red ensign should be flown there only when the ships are in port.

Furthermore, he says the B.C. provincial (or scrambled egg) flag is really the house flag of the owners, so it should only be flown at the truck.

I am pretty sure you can start an argument with this information, if you can find an old salt who's feeling peppery.

You can arouse interest amongst any group of motorists by saying you are all in favor of the ten-cent parking meters.

Explain you used to save only five cents when you failed to find a parking space.

Now that you are saving ten cents each time you fail to find a parking space, you are putting the extra saving to one side so you can buy a bicycle.

If you can manage to steer the conversation around to singing in church, you might offer this advice:

Tell your fascinated audience there is only one way to prepare to be the soloist at the morning service.

Arise at a reasonable hour, don appropriate raiment, and break your fast with hot buttered popcorn.

And if your fascinated audience sneers, refer them to me.

I, personally, have seen this ritual performed, and with excellent results.

But with just a WEE dab of butter.

If the conversation is REALLY lagging, you can (perhaps) unlag it a bit by asking your audience where the latest bar is about to be opened in B.C.

(Answer: At Boston Bar in B.C., the only place in Canada you can meet a genuine Boston bartender.)

On the other hand, why doesn't everybody shut up and read a good book?

NINA

NINA HOLDEN RUNNER-UP IN NATIONAL PAGEANT

Our Miss Just Misses Miss Canada

By HAL JONES

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Holden, 465 Foster, today is sporting a brilliant red porch.

Mr. Holden couldn't paint the town red when he learned late Friday his 18-year-old daughter Nina was runner-up in the "Miss Canada" pageant, so he did the next best thing. He painted the porch this morning.

Nina, chosen "Miss Victoria 1961" at the Jaycee fair in May, has been in Burlington, Ont., all week for the pageant.

She was edged out for the title by Connie-Gail Feller, a 20-year-old Ottawa girl.

The selection process was interrupted when an anonymous telephone caller told police a bomb was planted in the Burlington arena. Participants and 2,000 spectators were led out of the building while a search was made. Nothing was found.

On Thursday night, shapely Nina was awarded the title of "Miss Swimsuit."

Yet a week previously it was a difficult task to persuade her to pose in a swimsuit for the picture on the left.

"We knew Nina was in the semi-finals but we didn't know any more until she telephoned us," Mrs. Holden said.

"Guess what?—I'm second," she told her parents.

"She was very happy but she didn't mention the bomb hoax," said her mother.

This is the second time in three years a "Miss Victoria" has been runner up in the contest. Vivi Pederson placed second in 1959.

Nina is due back on the coast on Monday. She will accompany Miss Canada on a modelling assignment in Vancouver.

Meanwhile, she plans to return to her old school—Victoria High School—in September. However, this time she will be working there as a stenographer. She graduated earlier this year.

RED CHORUS TICKET SALES GOOD

Advance ticket sales for the Red Army Chorus which will perform Monday evening in the Memorial Arena are going "very well indeed" according to arena officials.

The downtown box office was sold out this morning, but the arena box office still has a few tickets left for the one-night engagement.

The 185-man chorus will arrive in Victoria on Monday morning from Vancouver, where they are presently playing a three-day booking.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Oak Bay police court Friday:

Mervyn W. Easthom, 489 Walter, $15, failing to yield right of way.

Norman J. Dixon, 2230 Bowker, $20, over 30.

In Colwood RCMP court Friday:

John Edgar McNeill, 2749 Scott, $15 and $5 costs, over 60.

Visitors Here Next Friday

Organized round of activities for officers and men of HMS Londonderry, which arrives here Friday for a four-day visit — will start almost immediately the ship is tied up at "A" jetty in HMC Dockyard.

Salutes will be exchanged between the 2,200-ton visiting warship and Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, as HMS Londonderry, an anti-submarine frigate, enters Esquimalt Harbor.

Throughout the first day, Commodore J. E. L. Martin, senior naval officer West Indies, who will be aboard the visiting ship, will make a series of calls in the area.

OFFICIAL CALLS

These will include visits to Government House, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, the Mayor's office and to Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

That afternoon a group of 35 officers and men of the Londonderry will tour through B.C. Forest Products plywood division while another group visits Growers' Wine Co.

Between 2.30 p.m. and 5 p.m. there will be a party aboard the ship for a group of underprivileged children.

In the evening, officers will be guests at a Pacific Command reception at HMCS Naden wardroom and the same night 50 sailors will attend a smoker at Naden Fleet Club. Chief Petty Officers and Petty Officers on the ship will attend smokers in the respective messes at Naden.

FISHING TRIP

There will be a fishing trip for 15 crew members early on Saturday morning and later in the day there will be a soccer match between teams representing the Londonderry and the RCN.

The ship will be open to visitors in the dockyard between 2.30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Sunday. Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Finch-Noyes will be principal guests at a dinner party aboard the ship in the evening.

On Monday morning Commordore Martin will pay an official visit to Flag Officer Pacific Coast with a guard and band from HMCS Naden in attendance. Return calls by local dignitaries will be made to the ship later that morning.

GOLF MATCH

In the afternoon golfers from the ship will meet RCN personnel in a match at Gorge Vale Golf Club. A luncheon for Commodore Martin will be held at Admirals House.

There will be more visits to industrial plants in the afternoon, while in the evening, the Londonderry will be host at a reception in Naden wardroom.

The ship will leave Tuesday morning for Vancouver where she will take part in the PNE program.

DOUBLE WINNER in the handicrafts section of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this week was Miss Gloria Mortimore, 1975A Lee, field supervisor of the CNIB on Vancouver Island. She won a first and third prize for knitting in the CNIB Home Teachers' section. Other local winners were Mrs. H. L. Honnason, 2424 Lincoln, third prize for handweave, and I. J. Field, of Sidney, third prize for woodwork.

AT SAANICHTON

$10,000 Expansion For Growing Fair

A $10,000 expansion is underway at Saanichton fair grounds to accommodate record number of exhibitors and spectators at next month's fall fair.

"We were bursting at the seams last fall and we have to enlarge facilities to keep pace with the growth," V. E. Virgin, executive member of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, said today.

The society, which holds its 93rd annual fall fair Sept. 2 and 4, purchased two RCAF huts from Patricia Bay Airport. Each 32 by 60 feet, they were cut in half for transportation to the fair grounds where they will be established on concrete foundations.

NEAR PADDOCK

One of the buildings will be used exclusively for 4-H Club displays and activities. It will be located near the horse paddock.

The other will be attached to the main hall to increase space for horticultural and domestic arts exhibits.

"We desperately needed this expansion because exhibitors and spectators were packed solid in the hall last year and it prevented a proper display of the entries," said Mr. Virgin.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

James Bay, Fortune, Cowichan and Miramichi return Thursday.

Fraser and St. Laurent return Friday.

'Wholesale' Leases Protested

Conservationists and fishermen are planning to protest to the provincial government "wholesale granting" of leases on the foreshore of the east coast of Vancouver Island.

Arnie Williams, secretary of the Cowichan Fish and Game Club, said today miles of beaches on the north part of the Island are being alienated from the public.

He fears the practice will spread down the Island and to the Gulf Islands.

"Most of the people who are obtaining the leases are not farming the oyster beds but simply taking advantage of the opportunity to make a profitable investment on public lands," he said. "They hold on to their leases until they get the price they want."

He said the practice is barring hundreds of people from beaches on Vancouver Island.

The government at one time used to notify various organizations of applications for foreshore leases, he said.

"Now we haven't an opportunity to protest," he said.

Onus on Carelessness As Moister Air Arrives

Indication of cooler weather and the possibility of showers will lower the extreme forest fire hazard in Vancouver forest district this weekend.

The weather office puts the south coastal region of B.C. between two large weather systems either of which could bring moisture to the area.

Forestry officials meanwhile prepared for what could still be a serious weekend for fires. They strongly criticized the public for carelessness.

"The public causes most of the fires and until it realizes the disastrous effects of carelessness it must stay out of the woods," an official said.

"It is their own property, yet 70 per cent of the 5,331 fires in the province this year have started from human causes."

Recreation seekers have been banned from most of the forested areas in the Lower Mainland, Vancouver Island and Nelson forest district.

Only the north coastal region and Peace River districts have still enough moisture in the air to forestall forest closure to industry and recreation,

Closure comes as a last resort because of its economic effects, a spokesman said.

"In this case we had no choice. We have proven year after year that human carelessness is the main cause of fires and we could not take any chances."

More than 7,000 men are on the firelines, mostly in the Kamloops and Prince George areas where temperatures were in the 80s.

Near Prince George "a shifting pall of smoke hides the country," said forestry officer Bill Edwards.

"There is an utter lack of description for this folly of nature and its destruction," he said.

Timber crews set backfires today to try to stop a 1,000-acre fire burning three miles from a $13,000,000 pulp mill at Woodfibre, just 30 miles north of Vancouver.

More than 600,000 board feet of bucked fir and cedar are threatened and small stands of fir and cedar have been destroyed.

43 Fires Burning in District

A total of 43 fires are burning in the forest district, including a 700-acre blaze at the head of Bute Inlet and one near Hope which lay dormant almost a month.

In the Victoria area, controlled by Langford fire district, cigarette smokers are still the worst offenders.

Latest fire reported due to either cigarette or children with matches covered an acre near Humpback Road early Friday evening.

In the afternoon, a fire flared briefly on Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream campsites.

Parks and camping areas are closed unless they are operated with a full-time supervisor.

So far, picnic sites—except at John Dean Park—are open to the public.

A spokesman for the weather office said, "lots of things are going on all around us. The question is, are they going to do anything to us?"

A storm is centred 1,000 miles off the coast near the weather ship, which likely will carry 20-25 miles per hour winds from the south on the coast north of Prince Rupert.

There may be moisture with them, but at first they may help to spread fires.

Another system is centred off the California coast and is edging this way, bringing "a remote chance of sprinkles," the weather office said.

CLOUDY PERIODS

Basically, the Sunday forecast is for sunny skies, cloudy periods, cooler with 15-20 miles an hour winds in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Expected high temperature in Victoria Sunday is 70 degrees.

It is 37 days since the last measureable rainfall here, four days short of the all-time record 41 set in 1945.

Friday was the hottest Aug. 11 on record at 87 degrees, with the nearest previous high of 78 registered 26 years ago.

Highest August temperature was 91 degrees, Aug. 6, 1942.

City Students Given Prizes By Engineers

Two Victoria students are among the winners of slide-rule prizes awarded by the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. for high school graduates in sciences.

First prize-winner in grade 12 chemistry was Donald Anthony Patriarche, 1377 Rockland, who scored 98% on his final government examination. He is a graduate of Mount Douglas Senior High School.

One of four students tied for fourth place in the mathematics division is a graduate of St. Margaret's School, Anthea Daphne Fisk, 907 Oliver, who had a 96% mark on her government math paper.

Local representatives of the Association of Professional Engineers will make the awards at high school ceremonies in the fall.

A man was arrested early today two hours after a hit-and-run accident at Bay and Blackwood.

Police said a car driven east on Bay at 12.47 a.m. was hit by a grey, ½-ton pickup truck which sped away "at a high rate of speed."

At 1.25 a.m. Saanich police found the truck at Beaver Lake and at 2.50 a.m. they reported that the owner had come in to report it stolen.

Robert S. Thornton, Sidney, was bound over on his own recognizance on bond of $50 in city police court today after conviction for assault.

The court was told Thornton hit Albert Bekes, 622 Barton, in the left eye and on the jaw Aug. 1 at 6 p.m. during an altercation in Trudy's Kitchen, 652 Yates, which is owned by Bekes.

Disagreement between the two apparently stemmed from two days before when Thornton claimed he was short-changed $3 after paying for a milkshake.

Two men were questioned about narcotics and released Friday night after city police had to fire a warning shot to halt one of them on Johnson Street.

Five minesweepers of the United States Navy joined four from the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy Friday, steaming with them to Vancouver for recreational leave in that city, and carrying out minesweeping exercises on the way.

The ships are scheduled to return to Esquimalt on Thursday.

BROWN PATCHES DISAPPEAR

Cure Found for Lawn Disease

Dominion Experimental Farm horticulturists have come up with a cure for a disease which has damaged hundreds of lawns in the Greater Victoria area since early in July.

The disease, known as rhizoctonia solani, has baffled gardeners. Heavy watering and fertilizing have failed to restore the lawns.

The brown patches have led many gardeners to believe the hot, sunny weather is killing their grass.

But it isn't so, according to farm officials.

Horticulturist Richard Turley said the disease prevents water from soaking into the ground.

DUG SLITS

"We soaked our lawns heavily with water and found that it didn't penetrate into the ground," he said. "So we dug slits in the lawn to let the water and air in."

He said the lawns responded to the treatment.

Mr. Turley suggested gardeners puncture holes in their lawns to aerate the ground and permit the water to soak through.

He said the disease developed about July 10, when temperatures were very high, reaching a maximum of 93 degrees.

IT WAS TOO HOT Friday to spend time in the library, so students at Victoria College's summer session sprawled on the lawn to do their studying. Exams are coming up next week, and the young lady putting across the college knowledge is Doreen Leith. Man getting the message is Doug Jolliff, also preparing for coming exams. Greenery on campus keeps it cool, but even so, it was hot.

Bible Reading Still Declining

TORONTO (CP)—Ministers feel Canadians do not read the Bible because they find it irrelevant, unintelligible and uninteresting, a survey by The Canadian Council of Churches shows.

The council, which represents 85 per cent of Protestant congregations in the country, recently polled 6,500 ministers because of its alarm at the decline in Bible reading.

Complete findings will not be available for several months, but replies received so far reveal that the clergy blame much of the reading difficulties on the churches.

"The pulpits of this country have too long and too often slighted the Bible's authority," one minister said.

Many ministers said the churches fail to aid and encourage appreciation of the Bible, although there was a large group of people who would like to study it. Others complained of outdated language.

One minister said:

"The comic book, the short and snappy digest, the emphasis on getting information the easy way—all these make the Bible seem dull, difficult and irrelevant."

The council's department of Christian education plans to report on ways of increasing Bible readership after the replies are studied.

When British Columbia entered Confederation in 1871 it had a population of 36,247, mostly Indians.

Sunday Parade For Young Servicemen

Young soldiers in training at Work Point and sea cadets from HMCS Naden will take part in a church parade Sunday morning.

Led by the Naden band, the parade will leave HMCS Malahat at 10.30, proceed up Broughton to Blanshard and to St. Andrew's Cathedral, where the Roman Catholic section of the parade will attend morning services.

The Protestant section of the parade will continue along Broughton to Quadra, thence to Christ Church Cathedral.

After church the parade will march back to HMCS Malahat, and on the way a salute will be taken by Commander J. McDowell of the navy and Major E. W. Thomas, commander of the young soldiers' training plan.

It will be the first downtown church parade for the young soldiers, who are doing their summer training at Work Point.

CANON CLAIMS:

Bishop's Election 'A Farce'

LONDON (Reuters)—Canon John Collins, precentor of St. Paul's Cathedral and a "ban-the-bomb" leader, interrupted the election of a new Bishop of London today and called the ceremony "a farce."

Dr. R. W. Stopford, Bishop of Peterborough, who has said it would be better to have a nuclear war than permit Communist domination of Britain, was elected to the post in a 35-minute ceremony in St. Paul's despite urging from Canon Collins to reject him.

"I cannot believe it is proper for a bishop of the church to encourage the idea which is popularly expressed in the formula 'better dead than Red'," Collins said.

He claimed the election was "a relic of bygone days" because Stopford was nominated by the Crown on the advice of the prime minister.

Collins said that according to the law the church electors were liable to imprisonment, confiscation of their goods and loss of all their civil rights "if they voted against the Crown's nomination."

He urged the electors—including the cathedral canons and the dean of St. Paul's, Dr. W. R. Matthews—to make the ceremony "a firm protest against the continuation of such a mockery" and cast no votes at all.

This would face the state with the necessity of putting the law into effect as it stood, or of reforming it, Collins said.

Historic Church 'Born' Again After Disaster

Within the familiar shell of St. John's Anglican Church—all that was left after the disastrous fire that gutted the historic building last December—a new and beautiful structure is taking shape.

Interior plaster work is now finished and new flooring laid, with new pews expected shortly. Large panes of translucent glass in the side windows adds a new brightness to the interior, admitting more light than the old leaded diamond panes.

Services in the church are scheduled to begin again in mid-September.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT in the way of steeples is this one which towers over a new Dutch Reformed Church in Pretoria, South Africa. The church is entirely modernistic in design, as are many of the churches now under construction in South Africa.

Buddhism Stirs 'Aggressively'

NEW YORK (AP) — Buddhism, for centuries a passive religious giant, is stirring today with new vigor.

It has captured wider interest in the United States.

And in the Far East, it is raising increased challenges to Christianity. Yet strangely, many of the modernized Buddhist ways appear modelled on Christian patterns.

"They've been stimulated by the Christian example," says Rev. Dr. Wallace C. Merwin, head of Far East foreign missions for the National Council of Churches of the United States. "Nationalism also has been a decided factor in the resurgence."

Although Buddhism traditionally has shrugged off worldly affairs as unimportant, it now displays a mounting concern. The emphasis on aloof, placid meditation now is coupled with a call for diligence and deeds.

"Buddhism has developed a much more aggressive policy, particularly in southeast Asia," said Olivier Beguin, of London, general secretary of United Bible Societies, recently returned from a study tour of the Orient.

HIT AT WARS

"In some sectors, it has taken on the missionary approach of evangelizing the world. It says Christianity has not been able to prevent two world wars, or improve the lot of humanity, and that Buddhism is a more peaceful religion."

However, in the Christian mode, Buddhism has begun establishing schools, hospitals, welfare services for the poor, promotional literature, social action programs — a change from the older tendency to renounce mundane matters.

In some of its branches, notably in the U.S. and Japan, it has acquired other Christian-type approaches unused before —pulpit preaching, congregational meetings, hymn singing, "fellowship" hours, Sunday schools, youth groups and camps.

In the Shin-Shu (True Sect) of Mayhayana Greater Vehicle Buddhism, the more flexible, predominant type in the U.S., Japan, China and Formosa, even the doctrine has resemblances to Christianity.

FORGIVENESS

It teaches salvation by faith and forgiveness, instead of by personal merit and self improvement. The Redeemer is a merciful absolute, called "Amitabha" or "Amida Buddha," an infinite power manifested on earth by the historical Buddha.

Zen Buddhism, a mental discipline more than a religion, has become a vogue in some artistic and intellectual circles. Zen, devoid of any concept of a deity, teaches self-understanding through meditation.

Altogether, across East Asia, the 2,500-year-old Buddhist faith claims some 500,000,000 followers. It had been quiescent and ceremonial until recent years.

In Burma, Ceylon, Thailand, Laos and Cambodia, where the orthodox, non-supernatural Hinayana Lesser Vehicle Buddhism prevails, its upsurge has come with rising nationalism.

Burma and Ceylon have imposed increasing restrictions on Christian missionary activity, schools and establishment of churches. Many church-run schools in Ceylon have been taken over by the state. Patriotism is equated with Buddhism.

CATHEDRAL TRADITION

'Summer' Choir Sings Sunday

Music in the English cathedral tradition is being nurtured by a two-week summer school for Anglican choir boys which will conclude Sunday with services in Christ Church Cathedral.

Some 30 boys have been in training for two weeks at Shawnigan Lake School, spending about three and a half hours out of the day in choir, and putting in the rest of their time swimming, canoeing, sailing, taking woodwork classes.

They have come from different Anglican choirs throughout to diecese of British Columbia—which is made up mostly of Vancouver Island—and some from the mainland. For the most part, they are between the ages of 12 and 14, although provision has been made for older boys to be trained as altos in the English tradition.

MUSIC MASTER

The scheme, unique in western Canada, is the brainchild of Ian Galliford, the music master at Shawnigan Lake School, and Richard Proudman, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria.

Through the co-operation of Mr. E. R. Larsen, headmaster of Shawnigan Lake School, they were able to secure the use of the school and its grounds for the seminar. Special feature has been the nightly singing of Compline, the evening service.

The boys have also sung and participated in the service of Holy Communion with a narration and explanation by the school chaplain.

While the regular choir of Christ Church Cathedral is on holiday, the boys have sung the Sunday services, and will end their session this summer by doing so again on Sunday at the Eucharist and Evensong services.

SHOPPING GUIDE

School Supplies Already? September's Nearly Here

By PENNY SAVER

"Packages of books and pencils always look so interesting," commented a shopper to her friends as they passed a table laden with school supplies. Penny just happened to overhear, and took a closer look herself at the plastic bags filled with everything the youngster could need at school.

Packages are made up according to the grade, and priced accordingly. Kit for the Grade 2 child contains five lined scribblers, one book half lined and half plain, one unlined scribbler for pencil, two pencils, one ruler, box of wax crayons, pot of glue and a pink eraser. Whole assortment is selling for $1.67.

Packages grow slightly bigger and more varied up through the grades. Kit for the Grade 6 student contains the same as for the Grade 2, plus a large box of watercolor paints, scissors, a special dictation notebook, and three extra lined scribblers. This set costs $4.07.

While on the subject of stationery, another Victoria store has just received a shipment of the most unusual greeting cards I have seen in a long time. They are designed on an Oriental theme, with simple, uncluttered and fresh designs.

Each one opens up to show an ornate paper lantern, fastened carefully to each side of the card. One, for example, forms the puffy white front of a bluebird; another is a huge orange moon. Cards are available for every occasion—birthday, get-well and so forth—at 25 cents each.

The same shop is selling notepaper cards designed by Clutesi, the young Indian painter. Bold yellow and black compositions will be of special interest to your friends abroad. Cards are priced at 10 cents.

If you would like to know names of the shops where Penny did her saving, give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Can Eat and Still Lose Those Pounds—Here's How

You simply do not have to go about feeling weak and hollow just because you are dieting for a loss of weight. You can eat quite satisfyingly on 1000 to 1200 calories a day. The trick is to eliminate the high-calorie trimmings and eat smaller portions.

Lowman

A letter from a reader says: "This is to tell you that when I started on your 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon I weighed 216 pounds. In just four weeks I lost 15 pounds. I am so delighted, not only with the loss of weight, but with how sensible your diet plan is. I always have been hungry when I have been on other diets which deprived me of substantial meals, but with yours, by counting calories, I am able to enjoy my meals."

A high protein diet is satisfying. Add to that fresh fruits and vegetables which give you vitamins and also provide bulk which is filling. To this you can add a baked potato, a couple of slices of bread a day (low on butter) and some cereal if you do not pile the sugar on and use milk instead of cream. Pour the cream off the top of the bottle first. Drink skim milk or buttermilk instead of whole milk and use one of the good, low-calorie salad oils or dressings on the market.

With such simple changes in your diet as these you can eat well and lose gradually. However, you must count calories and stay within your allowance from 1,000 to 1,200. Some women reduce successfully, though not as rapidly, when consuming 1,400 calories a day.

You will be surprised to find out how much food you can eat if you will lower your intake of fats and carbohydrates, eliminate desserts and take smaller helpings.

If you have been overeating for a long time, it is only natural that you may experience a feeling of hollowness when you first begin to diet. Your stomach actually is stretched and will have to be given a little time to adjust to smaller meals. However, this soon will pass as will your craving for rich, high-caloried foods.

If you would like to see how much you can improve your appearance in the next eight weeks, and lose as much as 20 pounds in that time, you may want my Marathon booklet which gives you the necessary directions. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

IN STEP WITH STYLE By NONA DAMASKE

But This Confusion Is Organized

Damaske

A visitor to a crowded dressing room on a hot summer day midway through a fall fashion show might be amazed that a model could emerge from seeming confusion to pose calmly, perfectly coordinated from top to toe, before an audience such as attended the Victoria Symphony Society garden party at Royal Roads last Saturday.

However, a dressing room of a well-organized fashion show only seems confused—actually, everyone knows what she is doing and each model knows exactly where all her belongings are.

There must be no awkward pauses in a good fashion show. It must be fast moving, interesting and leave the spectators wanting more.

Prior to the show, nine models, a fashion co-ordinator, hair stylist, make-up girl, four dressers and 50 costumes with all accessories, do not seem out of place in a good-size dressing room.

It is only after the show begins that the place resembles a tempest in a teapot.

The easy walk, erect carriage and perfectly timed pivot give way to a fast trot as soon as each model is out of sight of the audience. Gloves are stripped off, buttons are undone and earrings are removed on the run. Each girl is allowed only two or three minutes to change and if the next costume necessitates a change of lipstick shade or a new hosiery color, well . . . it's "go, girl, go!"

So many of the clothes button or zip up the back, and when the dresser is busy the model just backs up to another girl and without a word, help is given.

Dressing room spirit is wonderful. In the hour before the show when hair styles are being re-combed and make-up is being applied there are great discussions about new clothes, false eyelashes, diets, hair tints and foundation garments.

Finally everyone is ready. Each hair is in place, each costume is given a last brush. The lineup is checked for the last time and models stand patiently (they are not allowed to sit in the fashion show garments as they would crease).

Someone pokes a head in the door and says, "Let's get this show on the road." And the race is on.

Valentino of Rome interprets the daytime silhouette for the coming season in coat and suit companions. Fur trim, three-quarter sleeves, slightly shaped waistline, short skirt and side-tilted chapeaux were all seen at Victoria's first fall fashion showing last week at the symphony garden party at Royal Roads.

Le Roy, Cowichan Lake Road, Duncan, B.C., wish to announce the engagement of their third daughter, Violet Dorothy, to Constable Leslie Frederick Stephen Holotuk, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. ## SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

'MY SLEEVES TEAR OUT'

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have trouble with my dresses tearing across under the arms in both front and back where the little cap sleeves are cut in one with the waist. Do you have a solution for this? I enjoy your sewing helps so much, it's the first thing I look for in the paper."
—MRS. N.R.

Dear Mrs. N.R.: This type of dress will usually tear out unless it is reinforced or has a gusset. If you take these extra precautions, you should have fairly good luck: 1. Stitch the seam-line at the underarm curve twice. 2. Clip the curved area straight in to the stitching line. These clips should be about ½-inch apart at the most. 3. Press this part of your seam open on the edge of your board. If clipped properly, this seam should lay flat. 4. Now baste a strip of hem tape over the clipped seam for about 3 inches at the curved area. 5. From the right side of your garment, machine stitch about ⅛-inch from each side of the seamline.

Parties Honor Miss Burke

Miss Sharon Burke was entertained recently at a shower given by her maid of honor, Miss Catherine Sweeney, in the Thurlow Road home of her parents. Rosebud corsages were presented to the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. P. Burke. Guests included Mrs. C. Underwood, Mrs. K. Jenkins, Mrs. M. Sweeney, Mrs. N. Harrington, Mrs. F. Dyment, and the Misses Shirley-Anne Jenkins, Nina Relkof, Helen Bafia, Barbara Gordon, Darlene Hendry, Patricia Cairns and Sandra Ford.

Miss Burke was also honor guest at a grocery shower given by Mrs. P. Severny in her home on Trans-Canada Highway. Susie and Patti Severny assisted Miss Burke in opening her gifts and presented carnation corsages to her and to her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. C. Underwood. Guests included Mrs. K. Jenkins, Mrs. S. Wade, Mrs. L. Ingram, Mrs. J. Drew, Mrs. L. Henderson, Mrs. M. Westby, Mrs. R. Gaunt, Mrs. D. Fielding, Mrs. G. Wetherell, Mrs. R. Holman, Mrs. N. Lynn, Mrs. T. Ainscough, Mrs. A. Greenan, Mrs. R. Beale and the Misses Catherine Sweeney, Sandra Ford, Shirley-Anne Jenkins and Marlene Holman.

At Qualicum Beach, the couple were entertained at a pre-nuptial party by members of the RCMP and their wives. Cpl. and Mrs. H. M. C. Johnstone were hosts. Miss Burke and groom-elect, Const. Jenkins, were presented with a pair of table lamps.

Great-Grandmother's Pendant Worn by Bride on Wedding Day

For "something old" at her wedding, Miss Frances Phebe Latham chose an heirloom gold pendant that had belonged to her paternal great-grandmother. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric D. Latham, Kenneth Street, and her groom, Ralph Joseph Maillet, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maillet of Mateghan River, N.S.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Fred West, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white heirloom lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice was touched with sequins and pearls, and a pearl and crystal tiara held a shoulder-length veil. She wore an amethyst ring, gift of the groom.

Gladioli and sweet peas decorated St. Andrew's Cathedral for the ceremony, which was solemnized by Bishop James M. Hill. "O Promise Me" was played during signing of the register.

Mrs. J. M. Caldwell, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of turquoise nylon over taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Miss Enid Morgan, bridesmaid, wore an identically styled dress in mauve with yellow and white carnations.

Fred Latham and Alex Reid were groomsmen, while Francis West, uncle of the bride, and Larry Caldwell, cousin of the bride, ushered.

At a reception in Hampton Hall, the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake that was flanked by white candles and bouquets of sweet peas. Jack Caldwell proposed a toast to his niece.

Special guests in Victoria for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hans of Duncan, grandparents of the bride.

For a going-away ensemble, the new Mrs. Maillet selected a royal blue suit, highlighted with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Maillet honeymooned up-Island; and are now living at 1840 Dallas Road.

DEAR ABBY

There's a Reason for Everything

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I run a very successful little cafe. I keep my eye on the help and, when I see them abusing the equipment or getting careless in their work, I speak to them about it. I think it is my husband's place to lay down the law, but he likes to be jolly and well-liked, so I have to do the dirty work. I am tired of being the crabby old lady while my husband is the good natured guy. Any suggestions?

OLD CRAB.

DEAR O. C.: Every successful operation needs a "heavy" and you are it. You and your good-natured husband make a good team, and share equally in the profits, so don't harness your husband with a halter that doesn't fit him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents (they are also grandparents) who are too lazy, or lacking in imagination to buy gifts for special occasions?

They send us checks for birthdays, anniversaries and even Christmas. Just before the children's birthdays (and Christmas, too) they slip me the cash and say, "Buy them something nice. You know better than we what they want."

We are not hard up, and these gifts of cash and checks seem very cold to me. How should I (the daughter-in-law) let them know that their gifts have no sentimental value?

ANNOYED.

DEAR ANNOYED: I think your in-laws are being very practical and considerate. Many would appreciate the opportunity to select their own gifts. Shame on you. Be grateful that you are remembered, and quit finding fault.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married for three years, or at least I thought so. My problem is getting my husband to wear his wedding ring.

The first year of our married life he lost three wedding rings. The first one was expensive, but the next two were cheap. Then I bought him a fourth ring and, after he lost that, I began to believe that he wasn't losing them at all—he was throwing them away.

He wears his wedding ring when he is with me, but every time he goes out by himself he comes back with it in his pocket. Do you think he is looking for a girl he can fool into thinking he isn't married? I wear my ring all the time.

RING PROBLEMS.

DEAR PROBLEMS: Regardless of whether your husband loses his wedding rings or ditches them, it is obvious that he doesn't enjoy wearing one. Take a load off his finger and try to make him feel married. Then perhaps he will act more like a married man.

Vivian Chan Home—But Fifth Avenue Calls

By ANNE MAYHEW

This is the first visit home in three years for Miss Vivian Chan, an Oriental beauty who has just entered upon the exciting world of high fashion in that highly fashionable city, New York.

Her life in that city is filled with "apparel design", "editorial credits," "patterns," "modelling," "show rooms," "editors," "stacked heels," "cardigan necklines" and "semi-relaxed silhouettes."

It is a whole new world with its very own vocabulary. And it changes every season!

Four years ago Vivian was a young graduate of Victoria High School. She worked here for 14 months to save money, then waved goodbye to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steven H. Chan, turned her back on her home at 835 Queens Avenue, and journeyed to New York to study.

DESIGNS NEGLIGEES

Two years at Fashion Institute of Technology working in the field of apparel design, and Miss Chan was ready to accept a position.

A two-month practical training period in the designing room of a negligee factory was enough to persuade her to change her ambition from dress designing to fashion illustrating.

"I found it noisy, dirty and uncomfortable," she said, noting that there was "no air-conditioning except in the show rooms."

"I was on the go the whole day long, with a lot of pressure," she explains. "I had to do everything from sketching patterns to making the whole garment and fitting it on the model." Noise of factory machines rang all day in her ears.

Now Vivian is working in the New York office of a company whose factory is situated across the river in Newark, N.J.

She is by no means 'free lancing' yet, but she finds much scope for creativity despite the fact that "we cannot be too influenced by our own taste," as she puts it.

"We must keep in mind the kind of person we are designing for, which is the career girl or the suburban mother—town or country," she explains.

Another task that falls Miss Chan's way is to arrange for "editorial credits," that is, to meet with editors of fashion magazines that have chosen apparel from this fashion house to feature as an "editor's choice." Vivian acts as a "go-between" and supplies the magazines with any information and sketches they may need.

When asked what she thought of the fall outlook, Miss Chan said, "Actually it's the same old thing revived, for fashion is a pendulum, swinging from era to era."

New shoes with rounded long toe and stacked heel, however, are "definitely a 1961 shape."

NEW SILHOUETTE

On the whole, the fall picture is what she describes as "the semi-relaxed silhouette."

It was hard not to chuckle at this, having lived so long under the impression that one was either relaxed—or not.

But fashion-wise, the term might refer to the new suit with "fitted front and relaxed or bloused back," explained Miss Chan.

Fortunately, she likes this "look," for her company gives her a new suit every season. And this season, one is sure, the gift will be, perhaps, a semi-relaxed tweed. . . .

It's all in the fashion game.

Married in Halifax This Morning

Of interest to Victorians is a wedding that took place this morning in St. Lawrence Church, Halifax, N.S. The ceremony, performed by Fr. Robert Lauder, united in marriage Joan Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Pierce Burns of Halifax, and William Andrew Holland, HMCS Sioux, Halifax, son of Lieut. and Mrs. C. M. Holland, 1294 Park Terrace, Esquimalt.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of imported Chantilly lace and net. Fitted lace bodice had a bateau neckline and short sleeves. From the dropped waist billowed a bouffant net skirt.

A finger-tip veil appliqued with lace and sequins misted from her two-tier crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Her father gave her in marriage. Red and white carnations were at the altar for the occasion.

Silk organza gowns in delicate mauve shade were worn by maid of honor Miss Carol Burns, twin sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Miss Donna Fraser and Miss Patricia Brownrigg.

Miss Carmie Murphy, junior bridesmaid, and the flower girl, Miss Marilyn Adams, wore yellow silk organza gowns.

All attendants carried lace-covered prayer books.

Alex MacDonald, Lauzon, Que., was best man. Kirk Adams and Phillip Burns, both of Halifax, and Wayne Albertson, Calgary, ushered guests to pews marked with red roses and satin bows.

At a reception in the Lord Nelson Hotel at Halifax, Fr. Lauder proposed the toast to the bride.

Bride's travelling costume was a mauve dress and duster coat, with matching picture hat and white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

Following a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg, Edmonton and Victoria, the couple will make their home at Lauzon, Que.

A Barbecue

Garden at the Cedar Hill Cross Road home of Mrs. R. Brown was setting recently for a barbecue party given in honor of Miss Betty Bone, whose marriage to Mr. Henry Kallrath takes place August 25. Mrs. A. Stevenson acted as co-hostess. Corsages were presented to the bride-elect; to her mother, Mrs. George E. Bone; to her grandmother, Mrs. George Cooper, and to Mrs. A. Kallrath, mother of the groom-elect.

A gift of crystal was presented to Miss Bone from the many guests.

Anne Heggtveit Married Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Anne Heggtveit, first Canadian to win an Olympic gold medal for skiing, donned traditional white today for her marriage here to Ross Hamilton of Montreal.

The blue-eyed Ottawa blonde said the wedding in St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church would be a family affair with some 70 guests. Details of her dress and the wedding party were kept a family secret.

The 26-year-old groom-elect, a graduate in arts and commerce from Sir George Williams College in Montreal, is a sales promotion representative for a chemical and synthetic company.

Canoe Takes Newlyweds on First Step of Honeymoon in Mountains

Following their marriage early this afternoon in Hudson Heights, Que., Lieut. and Mrs. Richard McBride Macintosh crossed the Lake of Two Mountains by freighter canoe to their car which was waiting at Oka, Que. The newlyweds will honeymoon in the Laurentians.

The bride, the former Miss Morna Gwynneth Malley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Percy Malley of Riverwood, Hudson Heights, Que., and the groom, who is stationed with Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Work Point Barracks, Esquimalt, is the son of Mrs. Macgregor Macintosh, Victoria, and the late Lt.-Col. Macintosh.

St. James' Church was banked with baskets of white and yellow gladioli, shasta daisies, gypsophela, maidenhair fern and bows in regimental colors. Rev. E. C. Royle officiated.

The lovely fair-haired bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She carried a spray bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and maidenhair fern to contrast with her classic gown of floor-length ivory-toned tulle.

The bodice was draped at the neck and caught with double strands of pearls. Her heirloom veil of antique Alencon lace framed her face softly, then floated down into a long train.

Attending the bride were Miss Diana Douglas, Ottawa, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Sheryl Craig and Miss Sara Thornton, both of Montreal, and Miss Prudence Pyke and Miss Catharine Malley, both of Hudson Heights.

Maid of honor was gowned in floor-length buttercup yellow silk organza over apricot-toned taffeta, complemented with a portrait hat of pale yellow lace straw. She carried a fan bouquet of fern and white shasta daisies. Bridesmaids wore similar gowns of organza over gold and yellow taffeta.

Brian R. D. Smoth, Vancouver, was best man, with Edmund Price, Ottawa; Ian Macintosh, Victoria; Lieut. Macgregor Macintosh, Halifax, and Michael Malley, Hudson Heights, ushering guests into the church.

Berkeley Chadwick was organist, and the St. James' choir sang during signing of the register.

As the young couple left the church, a guard of honor was formed by the groom's brother officers and naval officers.

A reception was held in the terrace garden at the home of the bride's parents, where Beaufort Lewis proposed the toast. Baskets of roses surrounded the bridal table.

Victoria guests included the groom's mother, who wore a honey-beige floral print and brimmed chiffon hat, also Miss Margaret Beck and Lieut. Gollmer.

For a travelling costume, the bride donned a sable and beige printed linen sheath dress with matching box coat. A white straw hat with rolled brim accented her classic beauty, and a corsage of gardenias and stephanotis completed her ensemble.

After their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Macintosh will motor to Victoria.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

George Gooden points out that the attacking diamond lead is preferable to the conservative club opening. West isn't likely to pick up any tricks with his seven-card club suit; the diamond suit is a better proposition.

Opening lead—♦ 7

South counts his losers and sees one spade loser, one or two diamond losers and a possible heart loser. The contract is in jeopardy.

He plays low from dummy. West plays the king or the queen, but East sticks in the 10 and returns the suit.

South wins in dummy and leads the 10 of hearts. He intends to finesse in any event because this finesse will gain a trick against either king-small or king and two small in the East hand. The ace play will only gain against a singleton king in West.

Actually, East puts up the king so South has no problem.

Now South tries for an over-trick. He cashes dummy's ace of clubs, plays a trump to his own hand, ruffs his queen of clubs, returns to his hand with a third trump, leads a spade and plays dummy's 10.

If East did not hold another diamond he would be end-played, but East holds two more, and South has to be content with his contract.

Fast Shuffle Pays Dividends For Winnipeg

MONTREAL (CP)—An injury made Bud Grant perform a quick lineup shuffle Friday night and his Winnipeg Blue Bombers responded with a 21-15 win over Montreal Alouettes in the first West-East action of Canadian football's interlocking schedule.

Blue Bombers were down eight points early in the second quarter when Grant tossed Hal Ledyard into the game at quarterback and Ledyard mounted a drive that provided a lead by halftime.

Kenny Ploen started the game for the Westerners at quarter and was lifted by Grant under pressure of defensive linebacker Roger Hagberg's sprained ankle.

The 34-year-old coach moved a defensive halfback into Hagberg's spot, shifted Ploen to defence, inserted Ledyard on the attack and the Bombers rolled.

Ledyard, a veteran who once played with Ottawa Rough Riders, found the holes with a short passing game and threw to seven different receivers.

With the win, the Bombers bounded to the top of the Western Football Conference standings with a 2-0 record. The first time out, in Calgary, Aug. 7, they won 18-17.

'Charming Chap' Gets Job Done

By HIGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The charming chap distended on the couch in impeccably tailored slacks and bright blue polo shirt had the faintly relaxed air of the engaging bounder in a Noel Coward drawing room comedy.

And surely no one had more of a right to the air, since the chap so arrayed was Noel Coward himself.

Not that he is a bounder—perish the thought—but he is charming, he is relaxed and he is engaging. Never more so than when discussing Sail Away, his first venture into the field of American musical comedy, which opens on Broadway in October.

NOEL COWARD
. . . 'Sail Away' all his

ALL HIS OWN

The word venture hardly seems adequate, because Coward not only wrote the book, the music and the lyrics, but also served as director and even designed and executed the advertising poster that will hang outside the theatre.

"It's all about a British cruise ship saling from New York to various Mediterranean ports of call," the author-composer - lyricist - director - sign painter elaborated. "The passengers are mostly Americans and the crew mostly English, which is where the fun begins.

"Elaine Stritch plays the director, the person whose job it is to herd everyone about and push them into various idiotic activities. Frightful occupation."

KEEPS ACTIVE

At 61, Coward is still fit and tanned, delightfully debonair and amazingly active. Within the last two years, he has acted in two movies, written and directed two plays, written a novel, Pomp and Circumstance, that is still on the best-seller list and composed 19 songs for his new musical.

Coward's work opportunities are other people's alibis for not working. He first hit upon the idea for Sail Away while recovering from a bout with the flu at his villa in Jamaica. Similarly, he wrote his comedy Blithe Spirit during the early air raids on London, his operetta Bitter Sweet while recovering from a nervous breakdown in Hawaii, and his best known play, Private Lives, during another influenza siege in Shanghai.

U.S. Satellite Year Old Now, Still Visible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Echo I, a satellite you can see with the naked eye, observed its first birthday today, still whizzing about the earth months after experts had predicted it would have fallen to a flaming death in the earth's atmosphere.

U.S. experts now estimate the huge balloon satellite, viewed by millions during the last year, may sail around the earth for another year.

Though it has proved more durable than anticipated, the 100-foot-diameter aluminum-coated sphere is only about two-thirds as effective now as when it was in its prime.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today that in recent experiments in the bouncing of radio signals off the oversized space ball, the average reflected energy was about 40 per cent less than just after it was sent into orbit last Aug. 12.

NASA scientists offer several theories as to what has happened to Echo I.

SURFACE ROUGHENED

Most agree that the once-smooth surface has become wrinkled with the passage of time and recurrent transitions from sunlight to darkness and from intense heat to bitter cold.

Some believe it may have shrunk to a diameter of perhaps 70 feet. Others suggest that it has lost its spherical symmetry and taken somewhat the form of a football — and thus distorts signals sent to it.

Still others speculate that the extremely thin skin may have been punctured or even riddled by impact with micrometeorites.

During its first year it made 4,480 revolutions of the earth and travelled more than 138,000,000 miles.

'TEETH BANKS' COMING SOON

SYDNEY (Reuters)—American research dentist Dr. R. Gordon Agnew said today it will be possible to transplant healthy teeth from one human mouth to another "within the next few years."

Dr. Agnew, here for a dental conference, added he wanted to establish a "tooth bank" for transplanting teeth.

Body Found In Trunk

CHICAGO (AP)—The body of a 300-pound collector for loan sharks was found stuffed in the trunk of an abandoned car in downtown Chicago Friday night.

Police identified the man as William Action Jackson, 40, an ex-convict. He apparently was tortured and beaten to death, police said.

National Boxing Body Backing Cleroux' Bid

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation said today it will support Bob Cleroux, Canadian heavyweight champion, in his challenge to world champion Floyd Patterson.

Gene Letourneau, national commissioner of the CBF, said he and Charles Mayer of Montreal "will bring up the matter" at the annual meeting of the National Boxing Association at Hershey, Pa., in September.

Mayer, first vice-president of the NBA, and Letourneau are members of the NBA rating committee. Mayer is holding a $5,000 certified cheque deposited by Louis De Zwirek, lawyer representing Canadian Athletic Promotions of Montreal, as a "token of good faith."

Letourneau said Cleroux, rated eighth among contenders for Patterson's crown before winning the Canadian championship from Toronto's George Chuvalo earlier this week, should meet Patterson.

VARIED SHOW PLANNED

Starry Cast Ready For Colwood Benefit

Stars of television and recording industry will appear in Memorial Arena Aug. 18 for an all-star program in aid of Colwood fairground site.

Ernie Prentice and Betty Phillips head the list, two Vancouver entertainers who drew attention for 90 consecutive programs in the CBC television production Lolly Toodum.

They have starred in Ballads, another CBC show including the Van Four, who recently made their club debut here.

Ernie is under contract to a recording company and Betty appeared at Seattle's Aqua Theatre in "Oklahoma," opposite John Raitt, earlier this summer.

The Emperors, a folk-type group of 18-year-olds from Vancouver, make their first appearance in the city, bringing with them such hits as Preacher Boy and Letter to My Love, both on records.

These lads, Doug Martin, Jerry Slobod and Brian Preston, developed a style after the Kingston Trio, yet have a "book" covering a wide field.

Between these three, the program will cover a range from popular, to musical comedy, to folk music.

Show is being produced by William Dow in aid of the mayor's fund to save B.C. Agricultural Association, which needs backing to keep its Colwood fairground project alive.

GARBAGE DUMPERS FACE LAW

Residents who dump garbage in the Gorge waters are facing the risk of prosecution.

Coun. G. K. Sammon of the Metropolitan Health Board said the practice is carried on indiscriminately. At times, householders wheel the refuse from some distance away.

He appealed to anyone witnessing dumping to report it immediately to the chief sanitary inspector Elwood Gropp.

"Meanwhile police chiefs of Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich will be asked to take appropriate action against continuing offenders," said Coun. Sammon.

"Fortunately the purity of the water is not markedly affected by this practice, but decomposition of organic matter can make the water murky and create sludge," he said.

Warden Goes to Bat For Prison Escapee

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—B.C. Penitentiary Warden Thomas Hall went to bat for an escapee in police court here Friday. He said the escape of Ronald Evan McColl, 46, was an impulsive and unpremeditated act. McColl, serving a four-year term for bank robbery was sentenced to an additional three months.

Montreal Judge Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Justice Stuart B. Ralston, 52, a former puisne judge of the Superior Court for the Montreal district, died Thursday night after a lengthy illness. His father, the late Col. J. L. Ralston, was defence minister during the Second World War.

CS Want More Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — Fred Whitehouse, president of the 120,000-member Civil Service Federation, said Wednesday his organization likely will ask the federal government in the fall for a pay increase for civil servants.

Growing Flowers On Grand Scale

If you think it's a hard job tending that flower garden on your one-acre suburban plot, consider the case of A. C. Thistle, chief horticulturist for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In his seven greenhouses on Lulu Island, Thistle raises the flowers that eventually are shipped to Canadian Pacific's western hotels, stations, railway dining cars and ships.

Among recent shipments were 45,000 forced bulbs such as tulips, gladioli, daffodils, narcissuses, hyacinths and iris; 5,000 tropical and flowering potted plants, 15,000 Iceland poppies, 6,000 nemesia and 5,000 geraniums, and 15,000 cut flowers such as snaps and mums.

SMELT-EATING CHAMP KILLED

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP)—A logging accident has claimed the life of Frank Johnson, 41, of Longview, who won the world's smelt-eating championship here last spring by downing 127 of the small fish.

The first fivepin bowling league was formed in Canada in 1910, five years after the game was invented by Thomas J. Ryan of Toronto.

'THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH' FOR BRITISH SPORTSMEN

Everybody Happy But Poor Grouse

By TOM KENNEDY

LONDON (Reuters)—Shotguns blazed away over the English and Scottish moors today because away back about 1805 an old man was too feeble to keep on following his bird dogs over the hills in search of grouse.

Thus began the British sport of shooting grouse — literally by the thousands—from shooting butts as beaters send them whirring overhead.

The grouse-shooting season starts annually on Aug. 12 and each year the wealthy flock to the moors for what has come to be called "The Glorious Twelfth."

The result is sport for the rich, revenue for the owners of "shoots" and—though the grouse may not think so—a more secure future for the grouse species.

The shooting—in which as many as 2,929 birds have been shot in a single day on one shoot—thins out the old and the weak birds and ensures that only the strong and swift survive.

All this happened because Squire Spencer Stanhope—who loved upland bird shooting—grew too old to follow his dogs.

To enable him to continue his favorite sport, Stanhope's sons perched him in a sandspit with a shotgun while they drove the birds toward him.

This version of shooting grouse quickly became popular among rich and titled landowners in Yorkshire and Lancashire and spread from there to Scotland.

The birds fly over in such droves that the shooters stand ready with one shotgun while a servant stands behind them with another ready to fire. With one shot in 1890, Sir Everard Hambro downed 18 birds.

Among present-day enthusiasts is Prime Minister Macmillan, who begins a few days of shooting Monday on the estates of the Earl of Swinton and the Duke of Devonshire in Yorkshire.

Queen Elizabeth, who does not shoot, nevertheless has rented a shooting moor near Balmoral Castle where she arrives this weekend for her family's annual Scottish vacation.

Solution to Last Week's Puzzle

ask henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry,

I am 15. Last Saturday while my friend and myself were upstairs working, we heard some noises in the house. When my parents returned they discovered a bottle of whisky missing. I had no knowledge of the bottle, but my parents are accusing me of taking the bottle. What can I do to prove them wrong.

I don't drink

Dear I don't drink either,

You should do nothing. You are innocent until proven guilty. Let your parents play Perry Mason. If you are telling the truth you have nothing to worry about.

Henry

Dear Henry,

My brother keeps calling me flabby, and I am not. He keeps this up continuously until I lose my temper. Can you tell me a way to stop him calling me this.

Annoyed

Dear "Flabby,"

Sticks and stones will break your bones,
But names will never hurt you.

Henry

Dear Henry,

I have two boys, 4 and 6. The younger always imitates the older. When the 6-year-old goes to bed an hour past his bedtime, the 4-year-old wants to do the same. The youngster doesn't seem to have a mind of his own. Could you help him?

Concerned Mother

Dear Concerned Mother,

Let the 6 year-old take a bath and then wash the dishes. You will see that the little copy cat won't be so anxious to copy the older one.

Dear Readers,

In my column of July 15th I invited you to find a solution to the problem of a 16-year-old "black leather jacket" boy. I couldn't figure out any advice myself. Thanks to all who have sent advice, and here is one.

Dear Henry,

I am a counselor in an American high school and happened to read the question sent to you by the "In Desperation" mother.

Through you I would advise her to take immediate steps to remove her son from the gang he is traveling with and to explain to him her reasons for doing so. After all, the final character of the man is more important than the disappointment of a boy.

We have dealt with many cases like this one, and young men who entered the Armed Forces usually come back to tell us how delighted they are to be associated with real men and how foolish their old gang of long-haired, leather-jackets seem to them.

Tell the mother that the sooner her son is working at a lumber camp or a farm, or the sooner he is in uniform, the better he will be for it. However, time is short because such gangs can quickly "sour" a boy's attitude, then his behavior, then his school record, then his record with police and then his life.

I hope this will be of help to her.

Very cordially,
T. Franklin Grady, Jr.,
Ottawa.

Dear Mr. Grady:

Thanks a lot for your help. I am sure the mother will find it useful.

COLORFUL BIRD SERIES—No. 10

Specimen No. 10 in a continuing series of colorful birds illustrated by Jane Niebrugge is the red-headed woodpecker.

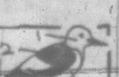
This bird's habitat extends from the Gulf of Mexico north to western New York state, southeast Ontario, the southern Great Lakes, Minnesota and Manitoba. It migrates somewhat from northern parts southward in winter.

Holes in trees, posts and poles from 5 to 80 feet above ground serve as nesting places. No nest is formed; eggs—glossy white and four to six in number—are deposited on chips of wood.

Male and females are similarly marked and hued as follows:

1. Head, red. beak and feet, 2. Back, tail, black. 3. Breast wing patch and tips of outer tail, white. Note small diagram.



Next week: No. 11. The Blue Jay.

SPEAKING IN RIDDLES

Why should a king whose people love him be particularly careful to save his money?

What should a man do who habitually talks in his sleep?

How do we know that Adam had sugar?

Answers: 1. Because he'll have many a reigny (rainy) day. 2. Nothing that he should not do. 3. He raised Cain, didn't he?

IT'S YOUR MOVE

White can achieve victory here in just four moves—if he uses the right strategy. It's White's turn and he's moving up the board. Can you puzzle out the plays White must make to win in the manner described?

Hint: White steers his opponent down a deadend street.

Checker star Millard Hopper's solution is provided below, if your own strategy fails.

Solution: White 30-25, Black 21-30. White 26-22, Black 19-26. White 22-17, Black 14-21. White 29-25.

NAME CREATURES

If you know such expressions as "putting on the dog" and "bats in the belfry," then the following "creature" quotes should not buffalo you. Just replace the word "creature" in each sentence by the appropriate name of the creature suggested. Five out of seven is par.

1. Now that he is bankrupt, he has gone to the creatures.
2. In the afternoon he sometimes takes a creature nap.
3. Things look bright when the creature hangs high.
4. He was so hungry that he creatured down his sandwich.
5. The sparring mate took it on the chin so often he became a creature for punishment.
6. Omission of the letter S in "cosmic" makes a creature of a difference.
7. His story was that he walked into an open door when he got the creature under his eye.

Answers: 1. Dogs. 2. Cat. 3. Goose. 4. Wolfed. 5. Bear. 6. Whale. 7. Mouse. Mouse.

FRONT AND CENTRE, MEN

Draw 25 squares on a sheet of paper, place nine numbered counters upon them, as shown at left. You are now ready for an absorbing pastime. Object of this game is to jump counters up, down, across and diagonally until only one piece remains on the board. Each piece jumped is removed from play. Oh, yes, there's a hitch—the last man on the board must land on the centre square. Can you show how the game can be won, if the number of different men required to jump is minimized?

Checkers or buttons with numbers pasted to them make serviceable counters. The game itself may be played on a checkerboard.

Solution: No more than four men need jump, as follows: Jump 5 over 8, 9, 3 and 1; jump 7 over 4; jump 6 over 2 and 7; jump 5 over 6.

UN Salvaged 250,000 Congo Lives

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) —United Nations civilians have saved the lives of an estimated 250,000 persons in South Kasai Province, the 10th report of the UN Civilian Operation in The Congo said today.

Working with funds supplied by the UN International Children's Emergency Fund, they stamped out a deficiency disease known as washiorker by distributing milk.

Some 750 UN personnel from 29 countries are working in hospitals and airports, post offices and farm schools, city offices and jungle huts throughout The Congo, providing advice and financial assistance to fill the gap created by the collapse of the administration and the departure of the vast majority of Belgians.

"The work of the United Nations' experts was hampered in a number of sectors by obstructionists tactics on the part of officials of the former colonial regime," the report said.

The operation has so far cost $18,000,000, Robert Rossborough, British chief of UN Civilian Operation in The Congo, said.

Of this sum, $10,000,000 has gone in direct aid to The Congo government.

Seattle Closer With New Span

Driving time between Victoria and Seattle was cut to 3½ hours today with the official opening of the Hood Canal floating bridge which cuts out one of the two ferry links between Seattle and Port Angeles and reduces road time by an hour.

Second-longest floating structure in the world, at 7,861 feet, the bridge will provide swifter journeys for tourists heading from Seattle, Tacoma and the south to Olympic Peninsula resorts, and the Victoria ferry at Port Angeles.

Officials of Black Ball transport say the new road link makes it possible to complete a one-day round trip to Seattle from Victoria "with ease." They think it will be popular with visitors to next year's Century 21 exposition.

Until Sept. 10, when Mv. Coho ends its summer schedule, there are four round trips daily across Juan de Fuca Strait, leaving Victoria at 6 a.m., 10.15 a.m., 2.30 p.m. and 6.30 p.m.

LOCKED DOOR, GUNS SPURNED BY AIR PILOTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of pilots and cabin attendants on U.S. air lines have rejected proposals to arm crew members and lock cockpit doors to stymie hijackers.

A door strong enough to keep out hijackers might also hinder rescuers in case of an accident, spokesmen for the Airline Pilots Association and the Airlines Stewards and Stewardesses Association said Friday.

They said the barricaded door could also delay flight crew members in reaching passengers in an emergency.

Cuba Charges Plot to Murder

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government charged today that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay armed two men with a 30-calibre machine-gun to assassinate Raul Castro last month.

An official report claimed the two were to fire on Premier Fidel Castro's brother from a house adjoining a stand in Santiago where Raul was scheduled to speak July 26, the eighth anniversary of the Castro revolution.

Cuban Industries Minister Ernesto Guevara made a similar charge early this week in a speech before the Latin-American economic conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay. The report today gave what the government claimed to be details of the case.

Havana radio said today 159 persons had been arrested in the aftermath of the alleged plot.

The plot allegedly included a simulated attack against the Guantanamo Base. This, the report said, would have given the United States an excuse to mount armed aggression against Cuba.

The report contended the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency master-minded the plot. Former Quantanamo Bay commander Cajt. C. E. Schenweiss, it said, was involved but was apparently relieved of command of the base due to disagreements with the CIA on planning.

The government report credited Cuban militiamen for having foiled the plans.

Hoodlums Attack Boy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teenage gang butted cigarettes on the head, neck and arm of a five-year-old boy here Friday.

Richard Janes told police six youths grabbed him while he was walking across school grounds near his home in the late afternoon.

His mother, Mrs. Thelma Janes said the gang set upon the boy with no apparent reason.

The boy was not severely burned.

Mrs. Janes said teen-aged boys have been terrorizing the neighborhood in the residential South Vancouver district for months.

Driverless Train Thundered On

WELLS, England (AP) — A passenger train swayed along a country track with nobody at the controls today after two engineers had been hurled from the locomotive by a boiler explosion.

Only a few passengers were aboard the train as it puffed through the lovely Cheddar Valley in Somerset in early morning sunshine.

The sudden blast hurled both engineers from the cab and dumped them, badly injured, alongside the track. But the train trundled on, with no one aboard aware of what had happened.

A mile down the line the train rumbled through a station at which it was supposed to stop. A guard at the rear realized something was wrong and slammed on an emergency brake.

A rescue party found the two engineers and rushed them to a hospital where both were in critical condition.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) —Fires continued their rampage through Newfoundland forests today as the province braced for another grim weekend.

There was a chance of scattered thundershowers, but not enough to stop the advancing flames.

"It's just terrible," said a weeping mother of three children who fled her fire-threatened home with only a bag of clothes and "hopeful prayer".

"All I have got is what I'm wearing," said a 52-year-old evacuee with a heart condition whose doctor told him not to fight the fire which was moving in on his home.

They were just two of several hundred Newfoundlanders driven from their homes Friday as the fires, worst in the province's history, raced through dry spruce and fir

Most of the women and children of four more remote fishing villages were crammed aboard schooners and trucks and taken out of reach of the flames. The men stayed behind to fight the fires.

As usual, reduced night winds and fog rolling in from the sea helped dampen some fires Friday night.

PHONES DISRUPTED

But there was no information on several others. Communications to the remote coastal communities broke down as the fires seared telephone lines.

The villages of New Chelsea, Winterton and Hants Harbor on Trinity Bay, 100 miles northeast of here, were evacuated by 600 women and children. Farther to the northeast, 150 women and children of the Bonavista Bay community of Aspen Cove were taken to safety by the transport department vessel Acadia.

Meanwhile, Resources Minister W. J. Keough of Newfoundland prepared an order to close the island's woods to all but emergency travel.

Mrs. Reginald Penney, who fled here when her Hants Harbor home was threatened, was weeping in her sister's home Friday night. She said she prayed that her home would be spared.

"We were all in bed when the sirens . . . began screaming all over the village. Church bells were ringing all over the place."

Gordon Ash of Hants Harbor, bothered by heart trouble, said he tried to fight the fires but "my heart gave out."

"I guess I'll lose her (his two-storey house) with everything left, furniture, clothes and everything."

MOTHER, BABY DIE IN B.C. MOTEL FIRE

HOPE (CP) — A young mother and her infant son died Friday night in a flaming auto court cabin.

Mrs. Martin Kester, 18, and seven-week-old Ernest were trapped after the flames were started by a leaking valve on a propane gas delivery truck.

The driver of the truck, Omar Devlin of Chilliwack, was burned when he attempted to shut the valve of the blazing connection after the flames broke out.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, Thou hast brought us to another day. Give us the resources we need to be adequate for it. We do not ask only that we may have the courage and the wisdom to live it well, to play our part, and to acquit ourselves as good soldiers. In our weakness give us strength, in our sorrow give us comfort, and in our decisions give us divine guidance. So may we come to the end of the day belonging to Thee; through Christ. Amen.

Summit Meeting Likely

BONN (Reuters)—East-West negotiations over Berlin appeared virtually certain today and there was a possibility of a new summit conference.

A summit meeting was predicted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday night as he told an election rally he was convinced there would be talks with Russia on Berlin.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a Kremlin reception Friday negotiations would take place because President Kennedy, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle were "sensible men," while in Washington State Secretary Dean Rusk told reporters: "I think we all understand that negotiations will occur."

Adenauer said a new summit conference would have to be carefully prepared — the last one, in Paris in June of last year, broke down over the U-2 spy plane incident even before it started.

'IN AGREEMENT'

The chancellor said West Germany and the United States are in "complete agreement in our assessment of the present situation and in our consideration of what steps will have to be taken in the next few weeks and months."

He said economic sanctions, which he termed "cheaper than even a limited war," might be used against Russia if necessary. More could be gained by economic sanctions than many people think, he said, although armaments should not be neglected.

At a Soviet-Romanian friendship meeting earlier in the day, Khrushchev openly staked Russian prestige on the German issue but declared Russia would not be the first to "press the button" and touch off a nuclear war.

Meanwhile, in Berlin, an upsurge in the flow of East German refugees fleeing to the West was expected this weekend despite Communist threats of harsher measures to stop the flood.

Despite rigorous Communist police controls, 1,332 refugees from East Germany registered in West Berlin in the 21 hours up to 1 p.m. today, Western officials reported.

In the same period last Saturday the number was 1,100; previous Saturday 925.

The total mounted after the Communist regime threatened harsher measures to stem the human tide.

Authorities in West Berlin ordered emergency quarters set up at the giant Olympic Stadium to handle the rush.

Many workers wait for their Friday pay before setting out for Berlin. They also consider it easier to slip away before their absence is noticed at their jobs on Monday.

Hundreds of Communist police were reported seen at railroad stations around the city today, hauling people off trains bound for Berlin.

RIDE BEHIND NEGROES BARS S.A. CYCLIST

CAPETOWN (AP)—One of South Africa's crack long-distance cyclists, Theunis Theart, 21, has been suspended for three months because he rode behind Negro cyclists in the Tour de Boland on Republican Day May 31.

Theart, who did not take part in the race but said he "joined in for practice," was summoned before the executive of the Western Province Amateur Athletic and Cycling Association Thursday night and was told he would not be allowed to compete in any cycling event for three months.

He told reporters he had hoped to race against an English team coming to South Africa in October and he had been riding 50 miles daily to get himself in peak form.

STARTS FOREST FIRE

4 Anglers Die In Air Crash

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — A single-engined United States plane crashed into sun-baked woods Friday, starting a forest fire that became a funeral pyre for its occupants. It is believed that four American sport fishermen were killed.

Late Friday night staff and guests from Red Fern Lodge on Tetachuk Lake, 50 miles south of here, were not able to approach the aircraft through the flames.

RCMP from the community, 140 miles west of Prince George, flew into the lake where they were to be joined today by a department of transport crew.

The plane left Ephrata, Wash., at 4 a.m. to take the fishermen to the posh fishing and hunting lodge on the lake in Tweedsmuir Provincial Park.

Ephrata sources said they believe the plane was piloted by Dr. Emile Etienne of Quincy, Wash., or his elder son. Dr. Leonard Macnamara and Larry Sheib, both of Soap Lake, Wash., were believed to be the other passengers.

The sources said Etienne had six children, and that a son who just finished medical school was believed on the plane. Sheib, a farmer, had 11 children and his wife was expecting another.

Witnesses at the lodge said the plane circled three times then crashed about a mile away.

"We got there within 10 minutes of the crash and the place was an inferno," said Allen Gaugh in a telephone interview. "We found no sign of life."

Guests and staff at the lodge had to fight the fire which could spread into a huge blaze. The whole district is plagued with forest fires.

The lodge is the only habitation on the lake. There are no roads.

CUSTOMS MEN SLOW TRAFFIC

PARIS (AP)—Traffic into and out of France slowed to an agonizing snail's pace in many places today as customs guards embarked on a four-day "zeal strike" to back up demands for more pay.

As practiced in France, a zeal strike means that the guards zealously observe all rules and regulations; subject incoming and outgoing luggage to minute inspection.

The customs guards picked this long weekend, extending over the Assumption Day holiday of Aug. 15 to Wednesday, when tourists traffic across the frontiers is particularly heavy.

Vancouver Festival Notes

On television, in movies and on the stage, there are actors trained in New York at the Herbert Berghof Studio, but British Columbia residents will have a chance to see first hand just what this man Berghof can do when he directs two Vancouver International Festival dramas, "Men, Women and Angels", Aug. 14 to 19, at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre, and "Do You Know the Milky Way?", Aug. 18 to Sept. 2, at the International Theatre.

Mr. Berghof and his wife, Uta Hagen, star of "Men, Women and Angels", run the acting studio in Greenwich Village and from this studio have emerged "Oscar" winners and nominees, some of television's favorite western stars, at least one popular comedian, and several Festival actors.

Eva Marie Saint, who won an Academy Award for her role opposite Marlon Brando in "On the Waterfront", studied there, so did Jack Lemon, nominated for an "Oscar" this year for "The Apartment". Jo Van Fleet of "I'll Cry Tomorrow", was a student too.

To the television world, Mr. Berghof has added Robert Culp as Texas Ranger, Hoby Gillman in "Trackdown"; Richard Boone, once "Medic", now "Palladin"; Darren McGavin of the "Mike Hammer" series, and Steve McQueen as bounty hunter Josh Randell in "Wanted, Dead or Alive". There are others, too, like Rod Steiger, Betsy Von Furstenberg, Anne Bancroft, Geraldine Page and Peggy Class.

On the comedy side, credit the man with the telephone, Shelley Berman.

When Mr. Berghof directs "Men, Women and Angels", his cast will not only include his wife, Miss Hagen, but former students, Fritz Weaver, Olga Bellin and Paul Roebling will star in the satirical comedy. Hal Holbrook, last year's Mark Twain, will star in the other play, "Do You Know the Milky Way?"

Canada, U.S. Agree On FM Radio Channels

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States have reached a temporary agreement over the allocation of FM frequency modulated broadcasting station channels along the border, Transport Minister Balcer announced Thursday.

Mr. Balcer said steps had been taken to protect the position of Canadian stations in allocating FM channels.

Russ Artists in London Provide Note of Irony

By PATIENCE GRAY

This city is having a real Russian shake-up. Suddenly we have the Leningrad ballet at Covent Gardens, then the Soviet trade fair at Earls Court—with the spaceman thrown in for good measure and taking the town by storm—and as if this were not enough, a whole galaxy of Russian artists jamming the Royal Festival Hall to the roof night after night.

If we have felt bewildered at Earls Court to see ordinary Russian electricians and technicians working away among the scaffolding and the fuse-boxes to prepare the exhibition side by side with our own people it was somehow because it all seemed too good to be true.

FELLOW-FEELING

There they were, helping each other, collaborating in what must inevitably come out as punchy propaganda for Communism, and yet, behind the exhilaration of this spontaneous working spirit lay the irony that this apparently genuine fellow-feeling could find no common ground at political level.

One felt: "Here are these fine fellows, and here also is the abyss." The thing is that it is almost impossible to tie up these cheerful comrades with their long grey overalls, and their feather dusters, with political realities.

At the Festival Hall all is different. The Soviet pianist Sviatoslav Richter exists in another realm, where there is freedom for the human spirit.

Richter, when Pasternak died, went down to his country home and, ignoring the gathered journalists and Pasternak's political disgrace, played Beethoven for hours in mourning for his friend.

NO CONCESSION

Richter plays with an ascetic nobility and not as a virtuoso performer, but for music's sake. He started his series of recitals (the first time he has played in this country) with a no-concession-to-popular-taste program, one Haydn sonata and then undiluted Prokofiev.

The audience gave him a great ovation and streamed down to the platform wonder-struck. English musicians left the concert hall in a rapturous state.

Even with Sunday for sober reflection, the critics were still elated by Monday. "A player never surpassed in technique and intellectual force," said the Daily Mail; "breath-taking experiences," said the Daily Telegraph. Naturally the Daily Worker (though giving its critic only a few foot-of-the-page paragraphs) claimed "an evening never to be forgotten," but even the staid old Times had an ecstatic whole column.

EXCEPTION

The only curious exception seemed to be The Guardian's celebrated critic Neville Cardus, who found Richter "rather small in style and tone" and his playing "provincial."

After Richter came the extraordinary young 'cellist Rostropovich, with his golden Amati 'cello playing the Schumann and Shostakovich 'cello concerti like an angel. His lyrical playing of Schumann reduced our English pianist Denis Matthews to tearful incoherence by the interval.

Shostakovich's work he played with an intensity and fire (in actual fact he conducted this thrilling work although Charles Groves was on the rostrum) which reduced his bow to shreds and brought the audience to the wildest expressions of enthusiasm.

The Russians have brought into London these marvellous musicians whose work bears no mark of politics or propaganda because they are dedicated to the exposition of universally valid themes.

It makes it all the harder and sadder for ordinary individuals to reconcile these festivals of shared experience with what goes on at the world-dividing, world-destroying level.

Movie Recovery Spurred By Boom in Musicals

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Family-type movie musicals are coming back in the wake of widespread complaints that Hollywood films have become over-sexed.

The major studios have laid out millions of dollars to buy such properties as "The Music Man," "Camelot" and "West Side Story." And with movie attendance picking up steadily again, there is much optimism that filmtown is returning to the type of pictures that made

Here are the main reasons given for why Hollywood is undergoing a musical "boom" for the first time in about a decade:

TV musical shows are generally unimpressive. Now is the time to cash in on the market of persons who enjoy musicals — especially the vast audience of housewives who like to go out at night.

Religious and civic groups have made themselves felt in movietown with their complaints about the subject matter of recent films.

FOREIGN MARKET

Perhaps most important: In recent years, the foreign market has brought in more than half the receipts of Hollywood films, one of the top reasons being the trend of Americans to stay at home and watch TV.

Musicals have not been popular overseas, in great part because the lyrics are not understood. Therefore, musicals took a back seat. Now, however, many Americans are tired of seeing the same old movies repeated on TV. The result:

There is a feeling in the industry that Americans can be lured back to movies with the right appeal. Statistics show such a trend already is under way. Therefore, as the American audience becomes more important again at the box-office, the movie industry must cater to it.

How will Hollywood sell musicals to its still vast foreign market?

"Foreign stars are being used," said Charles Walters, who will direct "By the Beautiful Sea," a musical, for MGM.

Added composer Meredith Wilson, who wrote "The Music Man".

"They're also trying to get the biggest stars into musicals, to sell them abroad. We had to fight like the devil to keep our leading part for Robert Preston, who played it on Broadway.

"These fellows in the movie business are very astute businessmen. But they are intimidated by the overseas market. Why, I understand that when 'The King and I' was sent abroad, songs were taken out."

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA ([illegible]) BB (Worthwhile)
A ([illegible]) B ([illegible] Rainy Days)
C ([illegible])

(BB) "THE LADIES' MAN" (Capitol)—If, as the credits state, Jerry Lewis, in adidtion to being the film's star, was also director, producer and writer of Paramount's Technicolor "Ladies' Man" then he has no one to blame but himself for the results.

It isn't that the hour-and-three-quarter farce is devoid of humor. Actually there are several quite funny scenes and the main girls' boarding house set is a breath-whistler. But Lewis rooters—and I am one—cannot help but feel that the multi-talented comedian didn't have much to work with in the first place, and, secondly, didn't do too well with what he had.

There is an all-important invisible line in comedy, as most will agree. Stay to one side of it and you're funny. Move across it and you're silly. In "The Ladies' Man" Lewis is too often silly. In fact there are some scenes in which he breaks furniture needlessly, makes grotesque faces without reason that cause one to wonder if even the very youngest and most naive moppets in the audience will think him truly funny.

The plot, briefly, is that after losing his fiance to a muscular giant, Lewis swears off girls for the rest of his life, leaves home and ventures to Hollywood. There he is hoodwinked into accepting a job as all-around assistant in a girl's boarding house owned by Helen Traubel.

Right off the bat, of course, Miss Traubel has leagued her curvaceous guests into a conspiracy to keep him on the premises. What with this wile and wile Lewis soon realizes that he is doomed to remain at his post for a long, long wile.

But dad who is taking junior to the show might be forgiven for wondering what with all this pulchritude about if the escape-minded Lewis isn't completely off his rocker. A slim sort of love story gradually becomes apparent during the shenanigans as of all the beautiful femmes only Pat Stanley seems to understand the shy one's needs.

One thing, however, and it's a big thing for parents these days. The picture is bare of double-entendre dialogue and risque situations. Lewis' films are always clean-cut, if not clear-cut.

When Jerry Lewis is supplied with the right vehicle I honestly believe that he is without peer in his own particular field of comedy. But somehow or other these vehicles, of late, seem mighty difficult to come by.

This is a pity.

EXPLORER CITED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The National Geographic Society awarded French undersea explorer Jacquez-Yves Cousteau the Hubbard Medal for his motion picture, "The Silent World."

The commendation cited Cousteau for "his outstanding work in furthering public understanding of the world beneath the sea."

Como's Son Weds

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Beauty queen Melanie Adams Friday married Ronald Como, son of singer Perry Como, in a quiet ceremony limited to friends and relatives.

SHERLOCK IN MUSIC

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Sherlock Holmes detective stories may end up on the stage as subject matter for a Broadway musical.

Aluminium Ltd. Earnings Show Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Aluminium Ltd. has reported net earnings in the first half of 1961 of $15,112,000 or 49 cents a share, compared with $21,819,000 or 71 cents a share in the corresponding period in 1960.

Consolidated sales and operating revenues were $250,322,000 compared with $255,814,000 in the first half of 1960.

Sales of aluminum totalled 331,000 tons for the first half of 1961 against 360,000 tons in the corresponding period last year.

President Nathanal V. Davis attributed the decline in earnings to the reduction in spot sales, and in sales of semi-fabricated products in the United Kingdom and Australia. He said sales to regular customers in Canada and the United States have increased.

Budget Deficit $340,341,092

OTTAWA (CP)—A budgetary deficit of $340,421,092 for the 1960-61 fiscal year which ended last March 31 was reported Friday by Finance Minister Fleming's office.

It compares with his June 20 budget-speech forecast of a $45,000,000 deficit and with his original prediction, in last year's budget speech, of a $12,000,000 surplus. For the current year the government has budgeted for a $650,000,000 deficit.

The final accounting for 1960-61 showed budgetary revenues at $5,617,639,754, as against $5,289,751,209 in the previous fiscal year and Mr. Fleming's June 20 preliminary figure of about $5,616,000,000.

Expenditures rose to $5,958,060,846 from $5,702,861,053, and were about $3,000,000,000 less than forecast by Mr. Fleming in June. Defence took the biggest share at $1,537,966,276 compared with $1,532,504,546 in 1959-60.

The net federal debt rose during the year by $347,921,092 to $12,437,115,095.

The statement did not include the non-budgetary operations of the old age security fund. Preliminary figures released earlier showed the fund had tax receipts of $603,000,000 and made $592,000,000 in pension payments with the $11,000,000 surplus applied against previous temporary loans to the fund.

Personal income tax revenues rose to $1,711,159,573 from $1,566,643,704. This does not include $229,400,000 paid into the old age pension fund, as against $185,550,000 the year previous.

Corporation income tax payments increased to $1,276,628,380 from $1,142,879,702. Paid into the old age security fund were $103,500,000 in such tax revenues, a rise from $91,336,000.

$10 Million Outlay On Potash Project

CHICAGO (AP) — A $10,000,000 expansion plan at a potash mine project in Esterhazy, Sask., has been announced by International Minerals and Chemical Corp.

The expansion of plant facilities would increase the mines annual output potential to 1,200,000 tons starting January, 1963, the company said.

DRIVING MINUS LICENCE NETS 5TH CONVICTION

A fifth conviction for driving without a licence—and that was only the start—for Richard Leslie Lampman of Jordan River in city police court today.

Lampman, 19, was sentenced to one month on the licence infraction and received a further total of 15 months' imprisonment and $150 in fines for five other charges.

He was on ticket of leave from Haney Correctional Institute.

He was also given 14 months for obtaining a car by false pretences, one month for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, fined $50 each for careless driving, no insurance and failing to submit accident reports.

He was prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for two years.

He was arrested Aug. 2 after being involved in an accident only hours after obtaining the car from A and A Carmart, 2624 Quadra.

MONTE ROBERTS

Assorted items which may help you when the conversation lags, but I won't guarantee it.

You can start an argument with any old salt about the flags flying on the government ferries, which ply their way between Tsawwassen and Tsidney.

One old salt insists the flags are flown in the wrong positions.

Says the flag which is flying from the mainmast gaff is the provincial flag, and this isn't right. Says it should be the red ensign. Says there's even a law to this effect.

Also says the government ferries fly the red ensign at the stern while under way, and the red ensign should be flown there only when the ships are in port.

Furthermore, he says the B.C. provincial (or scrambled egg) flag is really the house flag of the owners, so it should only be flown at the truck.

I am pretty sure you can start an argument with this information, if you can find an old salt who's feeling peppery.

You can arouse interest amongst any group of motorists by saying you are all in favor of the ten-cent parking meters.

Explain you used to save only five cents when you failed to find a parking space.

Now that you are saving ten cents each time you fail to find a parking space, you are putting the extra saving to one side so you can buy a bicycle.

If you can manage to steer the conversation around to singing in church, you might offer this advice:

Tell your fascinated audience there is only one way to prepare to be the soloist at the morning service.

Arise at a reasonable hour, don appropriate raiment, and break your fast with hot buttered popcorn.

And if your fascinated audience sneers, refer them to me.

I, personally, have seen this ritual performed, and with excellent results.

But with just a WEE dab of butter.

If the conversation is REALLY lagging, you can (perhaps) unlag it a bit by asking your audience where the latest bar is about to be opened in B.C.

(Answer: At Boston Bar in B.C., the only place in Canada you can meet a genuine Boston bartender.)

On the other hand, why doesn't everybody shut up and read a good book?

NINA HOLDEN RUNNER-UP IN NATIONAL PAGEANT

Our Miss Just Misses Miss Canada

By HAL JONES

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Holden, 465 Foster, today is sporting a brilliant red porch.

Mr. Holden couldn't paint the town red when he learned late Friday his 18-year-old daughter Nina was runner-up in the "Miss Canada" pageant, so he did the next best thing. He painted the porch this morning.

Nina, chosen "Miss Victoria 1961" at the Jaycee fair in May, has been in Burlington, Ont., all week for the pageant.

She was edged out for the title by Connie-Gail Feller, a 20-year-old Ottawa girl.

The selection process was interrupted when an anonymous telephone caller told police a bomb was planted in the Burlington arena. Participants and 2,000 spectators were led out of the building while a search was made. Nothing was found.

On Thursday night, shapely Nina was awarded the title of "Miss Swimsuit."

Yet a week previously it was a difficult task to persuade her to pose in a swimsuit for the picture on the left.

"We knew Nina was in the semi-finals but we didn't know any more until she telephoned us," Mrs. Holden said.

"Guess what?—I'm second," she told her parents.

"S hevawhresyETAOINeae

"She was very happy but she didn't mention the bomb hoax," said her mother.

This is the second time in three years a "Miss Victoria" has been runner up in the contest. Vivi Peterson had placed second in 1959.

Nina is due back on the coast on Monday. She will accompany Miss Canada on a modelling assignment in Vancouver.

Meanwhile, she plans to return to her old school—Victoria High School—in September. However, this time she will be working there as a stenographer. She graduated earlier this year.

Time Ashore Booked Solid For RN Sailors

Visitors Here Next Friday

Organized round of activities for officers and men of HMS Londonderry, which arrives here Friday for a four-day visit — will start almost immediately the ship is tied up at "A" jetty in HMC Dockyard.

Salutes will be exchanged between the 2,200-ton visiting warship and Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, as HMS Londonderry, an anti-submarine frigate, enters Esquimalt Harbor.

Throughout the first day, Commodore J. E. L. Martin, senior naval officer West Indies, who will be aboard the visiting ship, will make a series of calls in the area.

OFFICIAL CALLS

These will include visits to Government House, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, the Mayor's office and to Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

That afternoon a group of 35 officers and men of the Londonderry will tour through B.C. Forest Products plywood division while another group visits Growers' Wine Co.

Between 2.30 p.m. and 5 p.m. there will be a party aboard the ship for a group of underprivileged children.

In the evening, officers will be guests at a Pacific Command reception at HMCS Naden wardroom and the same night 50 sailors will attend a smoker at Naden Fleet Club. Chief Petty Officers and Petty Officers on the ship will attend smokers in the respective messes at Naden.

FISHING TRIP

There will be a fishing trip for 15 crew members early on Saturday morning and later in the day there will be a soccer match between teams representing the Londonderry and the RCN.

The ship will be open to visitors in the dockyard between 2.30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Sunday. Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Finch-Noyes will be principal guests at a dinner party aboard the ship in the evening.

On Monday morning Commordore Martin will pay an official visit to Flag Officer Pacific Coast with a guard and band from HMCS Naden in attendance. Return calls by local dignitaries will be made to the ship later that morning.

GOLF MATCH

In the afternoon golfers from the ship will meet RCN personnel in a match at Gorge Vale Golf Club. A luncheon for Commodore Martin will be held at Admirals House.

There will be more visits to industrial plants in the afternoon, while in the evening, the Londonderry will be host at a reception in Naden wardroom.

The ship will leave Tuesday morning for Vancouver where she will take part in the PNE program.

MONDAY MEETINGS

Douglas Rotary Club: 6 p.m., Holyrood House. Club assembly.

Walter Saegebracht, 1959 Brighton, was fined $10 in city police court today after pleading guilty to failing to obey a left-turn-only signal.

DOUBLE WINNER in the handicrafts section of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this week was Miss Gloria Mortimore, 1975A Lee, field supervisor of the CNIB on Vancouver Island. She won a first and third prize for knitting in the CNIB Home Teachers' section. Other local winners were Mrs. H. L. Honnason, 2424 Lincoln, third prize for handweave, and I. J. Field, of Sidney, third prize for woodwork.

AT SAANICHTON

$10,000 Expansion For Growing Fair

A $10,000 expansion is underway at Saanichton fair grounds to accommodate record number of exhibitors and spectators at next month's fall fair.

"We were bursting at the seams last fall and we have to enlarge facilities to keep pace with the growth," V. E. Virgin, executive member of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, said today.

The society, which holds its 93rd annual fall fair Sept. 2 and 4, purchased two RCAF huts from Patricia Bay Airport. Each 32 by 60 feet, they were cut in half for transportation to the fair grounds where they will be established on concrete foundations.

NEAR PADDOCK

One of the buildings will be used exclusively for 4-H Club displays and activities. It will be located near the horse paddock.

The other will be attached to the main hall to increase space for horticultural and domestic arts exhibits.

"We desperately needed this expansion because exhibitors and spectators were packed solid in the hall last year and it prevented a proper display of the entries," said Mr. Virgin.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

James Bay, Fortune, Cowichan and Miramichi return Thursday.

City Students Given Prizes By Engineers

Two Victoria students are among the winners of slide-rule prizes awarded by the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. for high school graduates in sciences.

First prize-winner in grade 12 chemistry was Donald Anthony Patriarche, 1377 Rockland, who scored 98% on his final government examination. He is a graduate of Mount Douglas Senior High School.

One of four students tied for fourth place in the mathematics division is a graduate of St. Margaret's School; Anthea Daphne Fisk, 907 Oliver, who had a 96% mark on her government math paper.

Local representatives of the Association of Professional Engineers will make the awards at high school ceremonies in the fall.

'Wholesale' Leases Protested

Conservationists and fishermen are planning to protest to the provincial government "wholesale granting" of leases on the foreshore of the east coast of Vancouver Island.

Arnie Williams, secretary of the Cowichan Fish and Game Club, said today miles of beaches on the north part of the Island are being alienated from the public.

He fears the practice will spread down the Island and to the Gulf Islands.

"Most of the people who are obtaining the leases are not farming the oyster beds but simply taking advantage of the opportunity to make a profitable investment on public lands," he said. "They hold on to their leases until they get the price they want."

He said the practice is barring hundreds of people from beaches on Vancouver Island.

The government at one time used to notify various organizations of applications for foreshore leases, he said.

"So we haven't an opportunity to protest," he said.

First Break Eases High Bush Threat

Onus on Carelessness As Moister Air Arrives

Indication of cooler weather and the possibility of showers will lower the extreme forest fire hazard in Vancouver forest district this weekend.

The weather office puts the south coastal region of B.C. between two large weather systems either of which could bring moisture to the area.

Forestry officials meanwhile prepared for what could still be a serious weekend for fires. They strongly criticized the public for carelessness.

"The public causes most of the fires and until it realizes the disastrous effects of carelessness it must stay out of the woods," an official said.

"It is their own property, yet 70 per cent of the 5,331 fires in the province this year have started from human causes."

Recreation seekers have been banned from most of the forested areas in the Lower Mainland, Vancouver Island and Nelson forest district.

Only the north coastal region and Peace River districts have still enough moisture in the air to forestall forest closure to industry and recreation.

Closure comes as a last resort because of its economic effects, a spokesman said.

"In this case we had no choice. We have proven year after year that human carelessness is the main cause of fires and we could not take any chances."

More than 2,000 men are on the firelines, mostly in the Kamloops and Prince George areas where temperatures were in the 80s.

Near Prince George "a shifting pall of smoke hides the country," said forestry officer Bill Edwards.

"There is an utter lack of description for this folly of nature and its destruction," he said.

Timber crews set backfires today to try to stop a 1,000-acre fire burning three miles from a $13,000,000 pulp mill at Woodfibre, just 30 miles north of Vancouver.

More than 600,000 board feet of bucked fir and cedar are threatened and small stands of fir and cedar have been destroyed.

43 Fires Burning in District

A total of 43 fires are burning in the forest district, including a 700-acre blaze at the head of Bute Inlet and one near Hope which lay dormant almost a month.

In the Victoria area, controlled by Langford fire district, cigarette smokers are still the worst offenders.

Latest fire reported due to either cigarette or children with matches covered an acre near Humpback Road early Friday evening.

In the afternoon, a fire flared briefly on Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream campsites.

Parks and camping areas are closed unless they are operated with a full-time supervisor.

So far, picnic sites—except at John Dean Park—are open to the public.

A spokesman for the weather office said, "lots of things are going on all around us. The question is, are they going to do anything to us?"

A storm is centred 1,000 miles off the coast near the weather ship, which likely will carry 20-25 miles per hour winds from the south on the coast north of Prince Rupert.

There may be moisture with them, but at first they may help to spread fires.

Another system is centred off the California coast and is edging this way, bringing "a remote chance of sprinkles," the weather office said.

CLOUDY PERIODS

Basically, the Sunday forecast is for sunny skies, cloudy periods, cooler with 15-20 miles an hour winds in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Expected high temperature in Victoria Sunday is 70 degrees.

It is 37 days since the last measureable rainfall here, four days short of the all-time record 41 set in 1915.

Friday was the hottest Aug. 11 on record at 87 degrees, with the nearest previous high of 78 registered 26 years ago.

Highest August temperature was 91 degrees, Aug. 6, 1942.

A man was arrested early today two hours after a hit-and-run accident at Bay and Blackwood.

Police said a car driven east on Bay at 12.47 a.m. was hit by a grey, ½-ton pickup truck which sped away "at a high rate of speed."

At 1.25 a.m. Saanich police found the truck at Beaver Lake and at 2.50 a.m. they reported that the owner had come in to report it stolen.

Robert S. Thornton, Sidney, was bound over on his own recognizance on bond of $50 in city police court today after conviction for assault.

The court was told Thornton hit Albert Bekes, 622 Barton, in the left eye and on the jaw Aug. 1 at 6 p.m. during an altercation in Trudy's Kitchen, 652 Yates, which is owned by Bekes.

Disagreement between the two apparently stemmed from two days before when Thornton claimed he was short-changed $3 after paying for a milkshake.

Two men were questioned about narcotics and released Friday night after city police had to fire a warning shot to halt one of them on Johnson Street.

Five minesweepers of the United States Navy joined four from the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy Friday, steaming with them to Vancouver for recreational leave in that city, and carrying out minesweeping exercises on the way.

Travelling with the ships—Fortune, James Bay, Comox and Miramichi of the Canadian navy, and Conflict, Dynamic, Implicit, Endurance and Persistent of the U.S. fleet—is a Pacific mine force explosive ordnance demolition team from the United States.

The ships are scheduled to return to Esquimalt on Thursday.

BROWN PATCHES DISAPPEAR

Cure Found for Lawn Disease

Dominion Experimental Farm horticulturists have come up with a cure for a disease which has damaged hundreds of lawns in the Greater Victoria area since early in July.

The disease, known as rhizoctonia solani, has baffled gardeners. Heavy watering and fertilizing have failed to restore the lawns.

The brown patches have led many gardeners to believe the hot, sunny weather is killing their grass.

But it isn't so, according to farm officials.

Horticulturist Richard Turley said the disease prevents water from soaking into the ground.

DUG SLITS

"We soaked our lawns heavily with water and found that it didn't penetrate into the ground," he said, "So we dug slits in the lawn to let the water and air in."

He said the lawns responded to the treatment.

Mr. Turley suggested gardeners puncture holes in their lawns to aerate the ground and permit the water to soak through.

He said the disease developed about July 10, when temperatures were very high, reaching a maximum of 93 degrees.

IT WAS TOO HOT Friday to spend time in the library, so students at Victoria College's summer session sprawled on the lawn to do their studying. Exams are coming up next week, and the young lady putting across the college knowledge is Doreen Leith. Man getting the message is Doug Jolliff, also preparing for coming exams. Greenery on campus keeps it cool, but even so, it was hot.

Lions Clobbered By Ottawa, 41-7

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Ottawa Rough Riders opened defence of their Canadian football crown today by humilliating the British Columbia Lions 41 to 7.

A crowd of 17,329 saw the eastern conference Rough Riders romp almost at will against the hapless Lions. They scored at least once in every quarter, while holding the visitors scoreless until the final three minutes of play.

It was the second consecutive loss for British Columbia, who dropped their western conference opener to the Edmonton Eskimos earlier this week.

PLAY BADLY

Ottawa scored from a variety of distances on a variety of plays. Behind almost every one of them, however, lay a Lion miscue.

Veteran Canadian ends Bill Sowalski and Bob Simpson, fullback Dave Thelen, defensive end Jim Reynolds, quarterback Russ Jackson and halfback Dick Desmarais, a first-year import from Boston College, each scored a touchdown for the winners. Canadian Gary Schreider converted all but one of them.

Second-year import end Dick Johnson saved the Lions from a shutout by taking homebrew quarterback Earl Keeley's 11-yard touchdown pass at 12.58 of the final quarter. George Grant added the extra point.

Hoodlums Attack Boy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-age gang butted cigarettes on the head, neck and arm of a five-year-old boy here Friday.

Richard Janes told police six youths grabbed him while he was walking across school grounds near his home in the late afternoon.

His mother, Mrs. Thelma Janes said the gang set upon the boy with no apparent reason.

The boy was not severely burned.

Mrs. Janes said teen-aged boys have been terrorizing the neighborhood in the residential South Vancouver district for months.

RIDE BEHIND NEGROES BARS S.A. CYCLIST

CAPETOWN (AP)—One of South Africa's crack long-distance cyclists, Theunis Theart, 21, has been suspended for three months because he rode behind Negro cyclists in the Tour de Boland on Republican Day May 31.

Theart, who did not take part in the race but said he "joined in for practice," was summoned before the executive of the Western Province Amateur Athletic and Cycling Association Thursday night and was told he would not be allowed to compete in any cycling event for three months.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Fires continued their rampage through Newfoundland forests today as the province braced for another grim weekend.

There was a chance of scattered thundershowers, but not enough to stop the advancing flames.

"It's just terrible," said a weeping mother of three children who fled her fire-threatened home with only a bag of clothes and "hopeful prayer".

"All I have got is what I'm wearing," said a 52-year-old evacuee with a heart condition whose doctor told him not to fight the fire which was moving in on his home.

They were just two of several hundred Newfoundlanders driven from their homes Friday as the fires, worst in the province's history, raced through dry spruce and fir

Most of the women and children of four more remote fishing villages were crammed aboard schooners and trucks and taken out of reach of the flames. The men stayed behind to fight the fires.

As usual, reduced night winds and fog rolling in from the sea helped dampen some fires Friday night.

PHONES DISRUPTED

But there was no information on several others. Communications to the remote coastal communities broke down as the fires seared telephone lines.

The villages of New Chelsea, Winterton and Hants Harbor on Trinity Bay, 100 miles northeast of here, were evacuated by 600 women and children. Farther to the northeast, 150 women and children of the Bonavista Bay community of Aspen Cove were taken to safety by the transport department vessel Acadia.

Meanwhile, Resources Minister W. J. Keough of Newfoundland prepared an order to close the island's woods to all but emergency travel.

Mrs. Reginald Penney, who fled here when her Hants Harbor home was threatened, was weeping in her sister's home Friday night. She said she prayed that her home would be spared.

"We were all in bed when the sirens . . . began screaming all over the village. Church bells were ringing all over the place."

Gordon Ash of Hants Harbor, bothered by heart trouble, said he tried to fight the fires but "my heart gave out."

"I guess I'll lose her (his two-storey house) with everything left, furniture, clothes and everything."

U.S. ACCUSED

Cuba Charges Plot to Murder

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government charged today that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay armed two men with a 30-calibre machine-gun to assassinate Raul Castro last month.

An official report claimed the two were to fire on Premier Fidel Castro's brother from a house adjoining a stand in Santiago where Raul was scheduled to speak July 26, the eighth anniversary of the Castro revolution.

Cuban Industries Minister Ernesto Guevara made a similar charge early this week in a speech before the Latin-American economic conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay. The report today gave what the government claimed to be details of the case.

Havana radio said today 159 persons had been arrested in the aftermath of the alleged plot.

The plot allegedly included a simulated attack against the Guantanamo base. This, the report said, would have given the United States an excuse to mount armed aggression against Cuba.

The report contended the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency master-minded the plot. Former Guantanamo Bay commander Capt. C. E. Schenweiss, it said, was involved but was apparently relieved of command of the base due to disagreements with the CIA on planning.

The government report credited Cuban militiamen for having foiled the plans.

Driverless Train Thundered On

WELLS, England (AP) — A passenger train swayed along a country track with nobody at the controls today after two engineers had been hurled from the locomotive by a boiler explosion.

Only a few passengers were aboard the train as it puffed through the lovely Cheddar Valley in Somerset in early morning sunshine.

The sudden blast hurled both engineers from the cab and dumped them, badly injured, alongside the track. But the train trundled on, with no one aboard aware of what had happened.

A mile down the line the train rumbled through a station at which it was supposed to stop. A guard at the rear realized something was wrong and slammed on an emergency brake.

A rescue party found the two engineers and rushed them to a hospital where both were in critical condition.

West, Russia Move Toward Berlin Parley

BONN (Reuters)—East-West negotiations over Berlin appeared virtually certain today and there was a possibility of a new summit conference.

A summit meeting was predicted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday night as he told an election rally he was convinced there would be talks with Russia on Berlin.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a Kremlin reception Friday negotiations would take place because President Kennedy, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle were "sensible men," while in Washington State Secretary Dean Rusk told reporters: "I think we all understand that negotiations will occur."

Adenauer said a new summit conference would have to be carefully prepared — the last one, in Paris in June of last year, broke down over the U-2 spy plane incident even before it started.

'IN AGREEMENT'

The chancellor said West Germany and the United States are in "complete agreement in our assessment of the present situation and in our consideration of what steps will have to be taken in the next few weeks and months."

He said economic sanctions, which he termed "cheaper than even a limited war," might be used against Russia if necessary. More could be gained by economic sanctions than many people think, he said, although armaments should not be neglected.

At a Soviet-Romanian friendship meeting earlier in the day, Khrushchev openly staked Russian prestige on the German issue but declared Russia would not be the first to "press the button" and touch off a nuclear war.

Meanwhile, in Berlin, an upsurge in the flow of East German refugees fleeing to the West was expected this week-

STARTS FOREST FIRE

4 Anglers Die In Air Crash

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — A single-engined United States plane crashed into sun-baked woods Friday, starting a forest fire that became a funeral pyre for its occupants. It is believed that four American sport fishermen were killed.

Late Friday night staff and guests from Red Fern Lodge on Tetachuk Lake, 50 miles south of here, were not able to approach the aircraft through the flames.

RCMP from the community, 140 miles west of Prince George, flew into the lake where they were to be joined today by a department of transport crew.

The plane left Ephrata, Wash., at 4 a.m. to take the fishermen to the posh fishing and hunting lodge on the lake in Tweedsmuir Provincial Park.

Ephrata sources said they believe the plane was piloted by Dr. Emile Etienne of Quincy, Wash., or his elder son. Dr. Leonard Macnamara and Larry Sheib, both of Soap Lake, Wash., were believed to be the other passengers.

The sources said Etienne had six children, and that a son who just finished medical school was believed on the plane. Sheib, a farmer, had 11 children and his wife was expecting another.

Witnesses at the lodge said the plane circled three times then crashed about a mile away.

"We got there within 10 minutes of the crash and the place was an inferno," said Allen Gaugh in a telephone interview. "We found no sign of life."

Guests and staff at the lodge had to fight the fire which could spread into a huge blaze. The whole district is plagued with forest fires.

CUSTOMS MEN SLOW TRAFFIC

PARIS (AP)—Traffic into and out of France slowed to an agonizing snail's pace in many places today as customs guards embarked on a four-day "zeal strike" to back up demands for more pay.

As practiced in France, a zeal strike means that the guards zealously observe all rules and regulations; subject incoming and outgoing luggage to minute inspection.

The customs guards picked this long weekend, extending over the Assumption Day holiday of Aug. 15 to Wednesday, when tourist traffic across the frontiers is particularly heavy.

Fast Shuffle Pays Dividends For Winnipeg

MONTREAL (CP)—An injury made Bud Grant perform a quick lineup shuffle Friday night and his Winnipeg Blue Bombers responded with a 21-15 win over Montreal Alouettes in the first West-East action of Canadian football's interlocking schedule.

Blue Bombers were down eight points early in the second quarter when Grant tossed Hal Ledyard into the game at quarterback and Ledyard mounted a drive that provided a lead by halftime.

Kenny Ploen started the game for the Westerners at quarter and was lifted by Grant under pressure of defensive linebacker Roger Hagberg's sprained ankle.

The 34-year-old coach moved a defensive halfback into Hagberg's spot, shifted Ploen to defence, inserted Ledyard on the attack and the Bombers rolled.

Ledyard, a veteran who once played with Ottawa Rough Riders, found the holes with a short passing game and threw to seven different receivers.

With the win, the Bombers bounded to the top of the Western Football Conference standings with a 2-0 record. The first time out, in Calgary, Aug. 7, they won 18-17.

'Charming Chap' Gets Job Done

By HIGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The charming chap distended on the couch in impeccably tailored slacks and bright blue polo shirt had the faintly relaxed air of the engaging bounder in a Noel Coward drawing room comedy.

And surely no one had more of a right to the air, since the chap so arrayed was Noel Coward himself.

Not that he is a bounder—perish the thought—but he is charming, he is relaxed and he is engaging. Never more so than when discussing Sail Away, his first venture into the field of American musical comedy, which opens on Broadway in October.

ALL HIS OWN

The word venture hardly seems adequate, because Coward not only wrote the book, the music and the lyrics, but also served as director and even designed and executed the advertising poster that will hang outside the theatre.

"It's all about a British cruise ship sailing from New York to various Mediterranean ports of call," the author-composer - lyricist - director - sign painter elaborated. "The passengers are mostly Americans and the crew mostly English, which is where the fun begins.

"Elaine Stritch plays the director, the person whose job it is to herd everyone about and push them into various idiotic activities. Frightful occupation."

KEEPS ACTIVE

At 61, Coward is still fit and tanned, delightfully debonair and amazingly active. Within the last two years, he has acted in two movies, written and directed two plays, written a novel, Pomp and Circumstance, that is still on the best-seller list and composed 19 songs for his new musical.

NOEL COWARD
. . . 'Sail Away' all his

Coward's work opportunities are other people's alibis for not working. He first hit upon the idea for Sail Away while recovering from a bout with the flu at his villa in Jamaica. Similarly, he wrote his comedy Blithe Spirit during the early air raids on London, his operetta Bitter Sweet while recovering from a nervous breakdown in Hawaii, and his best known play, Private Lives, during another influenza siege in Shanghai.

U.S. Satellite Year Old Now, Still Visible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Echo I, a satellite you can see with the naked eye, observed its first birthday today, still whizzing about the earth months after experts had predicted it would have fallen to a flaming death in the earth's atmosphere.

U.S. experts now estimate the huge balloon satellite, viewed by millions during the last year, may sail around the earth for another year.

Though it has proved more durable than anticipated, the 100 - foot - diameter aluminum-coated sphere is only about two-thirds as effective now as when it was in its prime.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today that in recent experiments in the bouncing of radio signals off the oversized space ball, the average reflected energy was about 40 per cent less than just after it was sent into orbit last Aug. 12.

NASA scientists offer several theories as to what has happened to Echo I.

SURFACE ROUGHENED

Most agree that the once-smooth surface has become wrinkled with the passage of time and recurrent transitions from sunlight to darkness and from intense heat to bitter cold.

Some believe it may have shrunk to a diameter of perhaps 70 feet. Others suggest that it has lost its spherical symmetry and taken somewhat the form of a football — and thus distorts signals sent to it.

Still others speculate that the extremely thin skin may have been punctured or even riddled by impact with micrometeorites.

During its first year it made 4,480 revolutions of the earth and travelled more than 138,000,000 miles.

National Boxing Body Backing Cleroux' Bid

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation said today it will support Bob Cleroux, Canadian heavyweight champion, in his challenge to world champion Floyd Patterson.

Gene Letourneau, national commissioner of the CBF, said he and Charles Mayer of Montreal "will bring up the matter" at the annual meeting of the National Boxing Association at Hershey, Pa., in September.

Mayer, first vice-president of the NBA, and Letourneau are members of the NBA rating committee. Mayer is holding a $5,000 certified cheque deposited by Louis De Zwirek, lawyer representing Canadian Athletic Promotions of Montreal, as a "token of good faith."

Letourneau said Cleroux, rated eighth among contenders for Patterson's crown before winning the Canadian championship from Toronto's George Chuvalo earlier this week, should meet Patterson.

VARIED SHOW PLANNED

Starry Cast Ready For Colwood Benefit

Stars of television and recording industry will appear in Memorial Arena Aug. 18 for an all-star program in aid of Colwood fairground site.

Ernie Prentice and Betty Phillips head the list, two Vancouver entertainers who drew attention for 90 consecutive programs in the CBC television production Lolly Toodum.

They have starred in Ballads, another CBC show including the Van Four, who recently made their club debut here.

Ernie is under contract to a recording company and Betty appeared at Seattle's Aqua Theatre in "Oklahoma," opposite John Raitt, earlier this summer.

The Emperors, a folk-type group of 18-year-olds from Vancouver, make their first appearance in the city, bringing with them such hits as Preacher Boy and Letter to My Love, both on records.

These lads, Doug Martin, Jerry Slobod and Brian Preston, developed a style after the Kingston Trio, yet have a "book" covering a wide field.

Between these three, the program will cover a range from popular, to musical comedy, to folk music.

Show is being produced by William Dow in aid of the mayor's fund to save B.C. Agricultural Association, which needs backing to keep its Colwood fairground project alive.

GARBAGE DUMPERS FACE LAW

Residents who dump garbage in the Gorge waters are facing the risk of prosecution.

Coun. G. K. Sammon of the Metropolitan Health Board said the practice is carried on indiscriminately. At times, householders wheel the refuse from some distance away.

He appealed to anyone witnessing dumping to report it immediately to the chief sanitary inspector Elwood Gropp.

"Meanwhile police chiefs of Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich will be asked to take appropriate action against continuing offenders," said Coun. Sammon.

"Fortunately the purity of the water is not markedly affected by this practice, but decomposition of organic matter can make the water murky and create sludge," he said.

Among recent shipments were 45,000 forced bulbs such as tulips, gladioli, daffodils, narcissuses, hyacinths and iris; 5,000 tropical and flowering potted plants, 15,000 Iceland poppies, 6,000 nemesia and 5,000 geraniums, and 15,000 cut flowers such as snaps and mums.

'THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH' FOR BRITISH SPORTSMEN

Everybody Happy But Poor Grouse

By TOM KENNEDY

LONDON (Reuters)—Shotguns blazed away over the English and Scottish moors today because away back about 1805 an old man was too feeble to keep on following his bird dogs over the hills in search of grouse.

Thus began the British sport of shooting grouse — literally by the thousands—from shooting butts as beaters send them whirring overhead.

The grouse-shooting season starts annually on Aug. 12 and each year the wealthy flock to the moors for what has come to be called "The Glorious Twelfth."

The result is sport for the rich, revenue for the owners of "shoots" and—though the grouse may not think so—a more secure future for the grouse species.

The shooting—in which as many as 2,929 birds have been shot in a single day on one shoot—thins out the old and the weak birds and ensures that only the strong and swift survive.

All this happened because Squire Spencer Stanhope—who loved upland bird shooting—grew too old to follow his dogs.

To enable him to continue his favorite sport, Stanhope's sons perched him in a sandspit with a shotgun while they drove the birds toward him.

This version of shooting grouse quickly became popular among rich and titled landowners in Yorkshire and Lancashire and spread from there to Scotland.

The birds fly over in such droves that the shooters stand ready with one shotgun while a servant stands behind them with another ready to fire. With one shot in 1890, Sir Everard Hambro downed 18 birds.

Among present-day enthusiasts is Prime Minister Macmillan, who begins a few days of shooting Monday on the estates of the Earl of Swinton and the Duke of Devonshire in Yorkshire.

Queen Elizabeth, who does not shoot, nevertheless has rented a shooting moor near Balmoral Castle where she arrives this weekend for her family's annual Scottish vacation.

end despite Communist threats of harsher measures to stop the flood.

Despite rigorous Communist police controls, 1,332 refugees from East Germany registered in West Berlin in the 21 hours up to 1 p.m. today, Western officials reported.

In the same period last Saturday the number was 1,100; previous Saturday 925.

The total mounted after the Communist regime threatened harsher measures to stem the human tide.

Authorities in West Berlin ordered emergency quarters set up at the giant Olympic Stadium to handle the rush.

Many workers wait for their Friday pay before setting out for Berlin. They also consider it easier to slip away before their absence is noticed at their jobs on Monday.

Hundreds of Communist police were reported seen at railroad stations around the city today, hauling people off trains bound for Berlin.

Nitinat Reserve Houses Burned

Four houses were burned to the ground Friday in a fire at Nitinat Indian Reserve, south of Alberni Inlet.

An Indian Affairs Department spokesman said the fire started inside one of the homes and quickly spread to the other three.

Members of the band managed to save the rest of the 14-house settlement and forest service officials arrived later to dampen down the fire scene.
